FIFTY YEARS AGO IN CENTRE COUNTY

Items taken from the Watchman issue of January 23, 1880.

At Spring Mills a telephone is being installed from the hotel to the store room formerly occupied by Hicks & Bro., but now in charge of an enterprising newcomer, Mr. Bingham. When completed it will be the first telephone to be used in Pennsylvania.

Johnstonbaugh—Moore.—At the Evangelical parsonage by the Rev. J. M. King, Jan. 15th, 1880, Mr. James Johnstonbaugh, of State College, and Miss Alice Moore, of Leont.

McClintock—Hoy.—On the 15th inst., at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. Geo. P. Hartzel, Mr. Andrew A. McClintock, of Portersburg, Clinton county, and Miss Malissa S. Hoy, of Marion township, this county.

Mr. Smith, of Martinsburg, Blair county, has rented the bakery in the Bush Arcade, lately vacated by Lizzie Baney who moved her shop to a Bishop street location.

Henry McEwen, an old and respected resident of Walker township, died on the 17th inst at the age of 88 years.

Wheat is $1.40, rye 50c, corn 50c, oats 40c, potatoes 30c, land 6c, eggs 20c, butter 25c, and ham 9c.

The partnership between the Leob Brothers has been dissolved. Adolph will continue the business, while Simon intends to make Centre Hall his headquarters.

The Republican county committee met in this place last Friday, in accordance with a call by chairman Rankin. It was one of the fullest meetings that party has held in Centre county for a number of years, there being present 27 out of the 35 members. O. A. Furst Esq., and Justice Rankin were chosen delegates to the state convention. John G. Love, Esq., Col. D. S. Keller, of Bellefonte, and Capt. S. H. Bennison, of Marion township, were chosen senatorial delegates.

The Milesburg Musical Association will give a grand concert in the Methodist church at that place this evening. Miss Alma F. Eddy, a very accomplished young lady, will preside at the organ. The whole entertainment will be in charge of L. T. Eddy.

Mr. Philip Barnhart, of Spring township, has left several specimens of iron ore with us for inspection by the public. The ore is evidently rich in iron and is in great quantity on the farm owned by Mr. Barnhart and his brother John. Evidently they have fallen upon a good thing for it ought to prove a bonanza.

Mrs. John Griffith, of Pleasant Gap, has been very ill for a number of days and considerable alarm over her condition has been manifested. Happily she has taken a turn for the better.

Mr. Simon Harper, who recently married Miss Maggie Klinger, of this place, has withdrawn from the firm of Harper Bros., here, and will become a tiller of the soil near Centre Hall.

The weather is mild and pleasant, but it doesn't please the lumbermen.

Mrs. E. W. Hale, of this place, fell on a sidewalk while in Philadelphia recently and severely injured one of her ankles. While carrying water from his well Samuel Fletcher, of Milesburg, fell and broke an arm and also dislocated a wrist joint. One day last week Mrs. Thomas Miles, of Milesburg, suffered a broken arm and several broken ribs when a step on her back porch gave way unexpectedly.

Here it is the 23rd of January and no winter yet of any account. Monday was a regular pet, bright, warm and full of sunshine.

Duncan & Hale's grist mill in this place is a great congregating place for rats. Half a bushel of them, by actual measure, were killed by a little rat terrier dog, one at a time, down the the other morning. They get into an open space behind a chop bin to eat the chop that filters through. The mill men have fixed up a slide to drop and pen them up there when the space gets full. Then one of Mr. Gerberich's terriers are hunted up and the rats are let out into the yards of death one at a time. You ought to see how quick and slick that terrier ends their career.

The Senate expects a final vote on the tariff bill within a month but nobody undertakes to estimate the time the conference committee will require to prepare it for approval by the President.

With forty varieties of sand in existence President Hoover ought to be able to summon nerve enough to decide some question without appointing a commission.

BIERLY.—Hon. Willis Reed Bierly, lawyer and author, died Saturday morning, January 18, at 2:15 o'clock, at Riverdale, Md., following an illness of several months. He was 82 years of age.

Engaged for over half a century in writing and compiling law books, he was known to practically every member of the bench and bar of the older generation in Pennsylvania. For some years, while located at Harrisburg, he wrote a series of comments on State affairs which were published under the heading "Capitolines."

Besides a number of legal works bearing his own name he was the compiler and editor of other important digests and practice books which were published under the name of prominent practicing attorneys of the Philadelphia bar.

Mr. Bierly was born on the Bierly homestead at Rebersburg, Centre county, Pennsylvania, June 5, 1847, a son of Peter S. and Mary (Reed) Bierly. He obtained his early education at the Miles township schools and academy, and became an instructor in the Montoursville academy.

From there he went to Williamsport where he engaged in newspaper work on the Williamsport Sun, studying law on the side. In 1870 he was admitted to practice at the Lycoming county bar. One year later he was united in marriage with Florence Horstene Bosard of Osceola, N. Y.

His first wife died a year later and the following year he was united in marriage with Sarah Louise Bosard, a sister of his first wife.

He was elected to the State Legislature from Lycoming county in 1873, serving one term. He prosecuted one of the first stream pollution cases in the State of Pennsylvania during his practice in Williamsport.

In 1883 he moved with his family to Texas, where he was appointed State's attorney, having jurisdiction over the entire western half of the State.

The climate of Texas did not agree with his family and after a year and a half in that State he moved to Grand Forks, Dakota Territory.

He had been admitted to practice in the United States District and Circuit courts in 1876, and the Supreme court in 1879.

At Grand Forks he established the first Democratic daily newspaper in the northwest. He was admitted to practice in the Supreme court of North Dakota in 1887, but devoted most of his energies to his newspaper work, writing several handbooks on North Dakota law on the side. He was a pioneer in the movement to bringing irrigation to the semi-arid section of the northwest.

In 1894 Mr. Bierly returned to Pennsylvania and associated himself with the Rees Welsh law publishing firm in Philadelphia engaging in the compiling and editing of digests and text books for the legal profession, an occupation which he pursued constantly to within several weeks of his death, the last several months of his work being done by dictation, when his physical powers were unequal to the task of writing.

Possessed of an amazing memory, a thorough knowledge of the law, and a constitutional ability to work almost continuously under high pressure, Mr. Bierly probably compiled more law books during his lifetime than any other man in the United States.

At the time of his death he was editor-in-chief of the Pepper and Lewis Quarterly Digest of Decisions, a position he held for twenty years. For about six years he was editor of the Pennsylvania Justices' Law Reporter, and among his more prominent text books were "Time and Notice in Practice; Police Power, State and Federal; Juries and Jury Trials."

For over sixty years Mr. Bierly was a member of the Odd Fellows' lodge, having been a charter member of the lodge at Montoursville and a charter member of the Banner Lodge, I. O. O. F., at Grand Forks, N. D.

By his second marriage he was the father of eight children, six of whom survive, as follows: Grace Louise, widow of James S. Mackay, Chicago, Ill.; Robert Bell, and Jessie, wife of A. M. Blaisdell, Riverdale, Md.; Ernest P., Barbenton, O.; Karl Reed and Philip S., of Brookville.

He is also survived by two sisters: Mrs. Anna Frank, of Pittsburgh; and Mrs. O. L. Nichols, of Williamsport.

Funeral services were conducted at Riverdale, Sunday by the Odd Fellows lodge of that place and the remains placed in a receiving vault pending removal to the family plot at Rebersburg in the spring.

She was a daughter of John and Frances Shreffler and was born at Pleasant Gap 64 years ago. The family later moved to Bellefonte and it was here she married Mr. Adams, then an engineer on the Lewisburg railroad. The couple lived here a number of years until a change in railroad employees necessitated their moving to Sunbury. She was a member of the Methodist church and a woman of many endearing qualities. ROTHROCK.—Mrs. Ida Rothrock, widow of the late Cyrus J. Rothrock, and for many years a well known resident of Phillipsburg, died last Friday night, following an illness of five years with a complication of diseases.

She was a daughter of William and Sarah Hess and was born at Oak Hall on May 19th, 1861, hence was in her 69th year. When less than ten years old her parents moved to Phillipsburg and in 1888 she married Mr. Rothrock at Clearfield, and they took up their residence in Phillipsburg. Mrs. Rothrock's father, Mr. Hess, conducted a store in Phillipsburg, and when he died she took personal charge of the establishment and for twenty-five years conducted it very successfully. She was a member of the Methodist church and was noted for her kindness to the sick and distressed. Her husband died thirty-one years ago but surviving her is one daughter, Mrs. Charles Norris, of Phillipsburg. She also leaves one brother, Frank W. Hess of Pasadena, Cal.

Funeral services were held at her late home, at two o'clock on Monday afternoon, by Rev. S. B. Evans, pastor of the Methodist church, burial being made in the Phillipsburg cemetery.

MCLAUGHLIN.—Miss Annie McLaughlin, an almost lifelong resident of Bellefonte, passed away last Friday morning, at the Schell home in Tyrone, following several weeks illness with a complication of diseases. Miss McLaughlin had been at the Schell home a little over a year, having gone there at the time of the death of her sister, Mrs. Schell, early in January, 1929.

She was a daughter of Patrick and Catherine Reynolds McLaughlin and was born in Bellefonte on November 17th, 1861, hence was 68 years and 2 months old. She was a lifelong member of St. John's Catholic church of Bellefonte and a member of Court Eugene Garvey Catholic Daughters of America. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on Monday morning and funeral services were held in St. John's Catholic church by Rev. W. E. Downes, burial being made in the Catholic cemetery.

As a young woman Miss McLaughlin worked in Ceadar's bakery and later was connected with the Bellefonte basket shop. Though of quiet, retiring disposition she was a woman of many charming qualities and had many friends who sincerely mourn her death.

CHIEF "BALD EAGLE" AND OTHER INCIDENTS OF LOCAL HISTORY.

Every day one hears the name of the Bald Eagle, Valley, the Bald Eagle creek, the Bald Eagle or Muncy mountain yet few realize that all probably took their names from the old Delaware Indian chief "Bald Eagle," who is associated with the early settlement of this community.

"Of 'Bald Eagle' very little that is really authentic is known except the manner and date of his death. A Mr. McCable wrote a sketch of his life, but incorporated so much fiction in it that one is left in the dark as to what are facts and what imaginary.

Withers, in his story of the "Border Warfare," page 105, gives what is generally accepted as a correct account of the death of "Bald Eagle." It was derived from affidavits and made at the time and loaned him by Maj. Isaac Craig.

According to his statement "Bald Eagle" was murdered in the autumn of 1773, while on one of his visits to the Monongahela. It was while at Hacker's on the Monongahela, that Jacob Scott, William Hacker and Elijah Runner killed him and placed his body in the stern of his canoe, with a piece of Johnny-cake in his mouth.

The canoe floated down to Providence-place, below George's creek, Fayette county, when Mr. Province, observing that something was wrong, had it brought to shore, and the friendly old Chief was buried on the Province farm.

"Bald Eagle" was a Delaware chief and spoke the English language very well. His death inflamed his tribe with ungovernable rage and is said to have caused the war on the Kenawha, followed by Dunmories expedition in 1774.

CENTRE CO. LAMB CLUBS WIN PRIZES AT STATE SHOW

While the grand championship in 4H lamb club exhibits at the State Farm Products Show, in Harrisburg, went to a Clinton county boy this year, Clifford Fox, with his exhibit of three Shropshires, Centre county exhibitors won most of the prizes. The reserve grand champion award went to Edward Bitner, Centre county, with his pen of Southdowns. First prize winnings by breeds, went to the following Centre countymen:

Shropshires, Clifford Ross, Cheviots, Alice Foust, Hampshire LeRoy Bechdol, Southdowns, Edwin Bitner.

An unusual picture is advertised for the Cathaum theatre, State College, next Monday and Tuesday nights. John Barrymore will be featured in one of his greatest roles, "General Crack." It is a costume picture and the first all talking one made by the leading romantic actor of the stage. It is said that his voice records with wonderful accuracy and that should add charm to the entertainment, for Barrymore's voice has quality seldom heard on the stage.

If all improvements are made and all the money spent this year the story of 1930 may be a sad tale of woe.

HEBERLING.—Mrs. Arvilla Heberling died at her home at State College, about five o'clock on Wednesday evening of last week, as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage. She had not been in good health for almost two years and a year ago was the victim of a stroke of paralysis, and this no doubt resulted in the hemorrhage which caused her death.

She was a daughter of William and Susan Roop Bloom and was born at White Hall fifty-eight years ago. Following the death of her father the family moved to Pine Grove Mills where she grew to womanhood. In 1895 she married Mr. Heberling and the first few years of their married life were spent at Pine Grove Mills. Twenty-one years ago they moved to State College and that has been their home since. She was a member of the Lutheran church for many years and was connected with various church organizations.

She is survived by her husband and two sons, Ralph Heberling, an employee of the State Forestry service, and LeRoy, a Sophomore at State College. She also leaves one sister and a brother, Mrs. Mary Campbell, of Lawrence, Kan., and John D. Bloom, of Des Moines, Iowa; also, one half-brother, E. S. Erb, also, of State College.

Rev. J. F. Harkins had charge of the funeral services which were held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, at her late home, burial being made in the Pine Hall cemetery.

EVERY.—Henry F. Every, of Leont, died at the Centre County hospital, on Tuesday, as the result of hardening of the arteries. He was a son of Levi and Hettie Every and was born at Fillmore 82 years ago. He was a stone mason by trade, an occupation he followed until a few years ago. He was a member of the Methodist church and the oldest member of the Lemont lodge of Odd Fellows.

He married Miss Sarah Painter who died a number of years ago, but he leaves four children: Mrs. James Williams, of Millbrook; Robert F. Every and Mrs. A. C. Grove, of Bellefonte, and Wade S. Every, of Pleasant Gap. Funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon, burial to be made at Boalsburg.

VOCATIONAL PROJECTS NET PUPILS BIG MONEY

In these days, when so many young men quit the farm to accept positions in the towns or cities, it is especially interesting to learn from a report of county vocational supervisor William S. Jeffries just how much money can be made in farming, if it is properly done. During the past year Mr. Jeffries has had charge of classes in vocational agriculture at Howard, Pleasant Gap, Boalsburg, Port Matilda, and other places in the county. Every pupil in the class must take up some practical line of agricultural work. It may be growing potatoes, corn or garden truck, feeding lambs, calves, etc. Strict account is kept of every project and all summed up at the end of the year shows the following record for the work under the supervision of Mr. Jeffries:

Total Receipts	$52,589.43
Total Expenses	34,159.73
Net Profit	18,429.70
Self Labor	1,765.77
Labor Income	20,205.47

And all the above by boys and girls studying vocational agriculture in Centre county. The boys enrolled in these classes have made a fine record, as some of the very finest projects in the State were in Centre county. Several of the boys in the Gregg township vocational school have had fine enough projects to stamp them as consistent winners in the State project contest. Speaking of the vocational work Mr. Jeffries said:

"In order that a student may really fix his knowledge of any subject it is necessary for him to put into practice this knowledge. Project work in high school agriculture is that part of the work of the course carried on at home or on the farm. 'The agricultural project is a wholehearted, purposeful farm enterprise carried out to completion in its natural setting. The pupil, with the assistance of the instructor, selects, plans and carries out the work in some field of agricultural endeavor."

"The term 'project' is not a new word. For many years it has been used by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to mean 'carefully planned investigation in agricultural science covering a considerable period of time' and today we have running at the Pennsylvania experiment stations Project No. 673, 'Vitamine D Requirements of a Dairy Cow,' and Project No. 566, 'A Field Test of Different Carriers of Phosphorus,' as types of projects the meaning of which we are familiar with. A project of this sense is a purposeful activity requisite of mature brains and ambitious men."

"In Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture the term is employed in connection with agricultural jobs pursued at home by school children. These purposeful activities have been named 'home projects' and to day we have in Pennsylvania a hundred or more teachers in vocational agriculture supervising 'home projects.' The unit of purposeful activity here is pursued as a learning exercise in a natural setting so that the boy may learn while he earns. 'The aims of the agriculture project are: First, to increase the skill of the student in the operation and application of agricultural principles; second, to develop managerial ability; third, increase financial returns; and fourth, community improvement."

"One of the greatest values received from the agricultural course in the high school is the knowledge and experience gained from the farm project. The project teaches the boy to work for himself and it shows him if he is to carry on a farm business successfully. A project will usually net the boy financial returns, but even if his enterprise fails financially, his effort is not a total loss, for it shows him his faults and may thereby save him loss in the future."

THE END OF A PERFECT DAY

Walter Melton, a structural steel worker employed at State College, and Leo Keenan, also of that place, are in the Centre county jail in consequence of their too violent enjoyment of what was evidently a perfect day for them last Saturday.

Lubricated to the point of ebullient exhilaration the men were headed in Melton's new Ford toward Leont. Harry Inhoff, a pedestrian, signalled to warn them of the dangerous curve just this side of that place, but they gave no heed to it. Approaching the curve from the opposite direction were Charles Zeigler, in his car, and Prof. Joseph Hayes, principal of the State College High school in his. The flying Melton just grazed Zeigler's car but struck that of Hayes with such force as to practically demolish it and his own. No one was hurt, however.

Patrolman Pfaffie happened on the scene and placed Melton and Keenan under arrest. Commandeering a passing car he brought his prisoners to jail here but as the car stalled in the snow when it attempted to go up jail hill the officer had to invite his guests to walk. Either they didn't want to walk or sketchily remembered that it was State College and not the jail they wanted to go to for a fight started and a number of by standers had to be deputized before they could be subdued.

When searched a 32 calibre gun was found on Melton so they are facing all manner of possible charges. Melton failed to raise $1,400 bail and Keenan couldn't raise the $900 so both are still guests of the sheriff.

If you have some printing to do, let us do it for you.

Dean Sackett represents the second district which consists of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, and as such was automatically elevated to a place on the executive committee. At the recent meeting in New York city the Carnegie Foundation report on collegiate athletics was given extensive study and a further consideration of the conditions shown was included in the program for future activities.

Up to this time there does not seem to be much of a scramble in Centre county over the appointment of census-enumerators, notwithstanding the fact that the taking of the census will begin in less than three months. In some districts in the county the enumerators have been practically selected while in others definite appointments have not been made.
