THE OLD BOYS AT THE CIRCUS.

Taken from the Atlanta Constitution and dedicated by the Watchman to Howard Sargent, of Hollywood, Cal. "Our jolly day is done," they say And Life has little in it,

And Life has little in it,
Save just to watch it slip away
And count each dying minute;
But when the circus is in town,
With long parading, up and down,
Our eyes are following the clown—
We're young 'uns at the circus!

We're boys once more, and once again
Quaff cups of old-time pleasure;
A corner turn in Memory's lane
With Joy, too great to measure.
It's "Give us room there! Clear the way

And make the steam pianner play!"
We give the old-time, glad hoorayOld "young 'uns" at the circus! For joy lives long when Life's brave

song
We're not too old for hearing;
We want to live where roses throng
And shine the lights endearing
And till the lights burn dim and blue
And the white tents shall fade from view, e God. we'll see the last Please God, we'll see the through—
The old boys at the circus!

The survey of conditions was made by Vernon Bailey, chief field naturalist of the U.S. Biological Survey and Dr. C. D. Marsh, poisonous plant expert of the Federal bureau of animal industry.

The results of the survey supported a first investigation made by Dr. Thomas E. Winecoff, who is in charge of research for the Game Commission.

Examination of the dead animals showed signs of slow starvation but no evidence of poison.

The investigators on their return to Harrisburg reported that in some sections where the dead deer had been found there were many square miles where no forage could be found for the deer. Large leaves of rhododendron and laurel the last food refuge of a deer, had been stripped from their stalks.
