

BELLEFONTE MAN VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT.

Harry L. Ward, of Bellefonte, was injured fatally in an auto accident on the Snow Shoe state highway, Saturday night, June 28th, and died in the Centre County hospital about four o'clock the next afternoon. Ward and Albert Miller accompanied William Lucas on a trip to Snow Shoe. Returning to Bellefonte, shortly after midnight, Lucas, who was driving, side-swiped parked car near Furl's filling station, careened down the road several hundred yards then ran up on an embankment, the car falling over on its side.

State highway patrolmen Gross and Phaeffe who had been patrolling the mountain road and were at the parked car, hurried to the wreck. They found Ward pinned under the overturned machine, while Lucas and Miller had been thrown clear of the wreck and suffered no minor injuries. Ward was taken from beneath the machine and brought to the hospital as quickly as possible. There it was found that he had suffered a fractured skull, broken collar bone and other injuries. He died Sunday afternoon without gaining consciousness.

An inquest was held the same afternoon and the jury found that Ward had come to his death as the result of an auto accident due to excessive speed. Lucas, driver of the car, was placed under arrest and gave bail in the sum of $1000 for his appearance at court.

Ward, the victim of the accident, was a son of George W. and Polly Ward, and was born in Bellefonte 39 years ago. As a young man he learned the saddler trade under the late James Schofield and later the latter's death took over the business. But there was so little demand for his line of work that he was compelled to close his shop. Since then he had been employed by the American Lime & one company.

He married Miss Rosa White who survives with four children, Mary, Isabelle, Paul and Elwood, all at home. He also leaves the following others and sisters: Mrs. George W. Punksutawney; Mrs. Herbert Miller, of Bellefonte; Robert, Mira, N. Y.; Mrs. Wallace Woom of Boalsburg; Mrs. Charles Thomas, of Johnstown; Mrs. Frank Wilson, of Bellefonte; Groh Ward, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Fred Gregg, of Warwick, and William, of Sunbury. Funeral services were held at his home, on east Lamb street, on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Rev. Stuart F. Gast, burial being made in the Union cemetery.

THREE MEN ELECTROCUTED MONDAY OF LAST WEEK.

Three condemned murderers were electrocuted at Rockview penitentiary on Monday of last week. They were Martin Avery and William H. Sled, negroes, of Allegheny county, convicted of killing Edward Kretz Jr. in an attempted holdup in his drugstore on June 21st, 1929, and Frank Tawza, of Luzerne county, convicted of killing assistant chief of police Thomas Krokoski, of Luzerne borough, after robbing a house.

When Avery was taken to the chair he made a statement exonerating Sled from complicity in the murder of Kretz, but it did not save the latter's life. Sled also claimed he was innocent. Tawza, who was supposed to have been an intimate of that diabolical criminal, Gerald Chapman, executed in Connecticut two years ago, made no statement or confession. The bodies of all the men were unclaimed and were buried in the penitentiary cemetery.

It might be interesting to the public to know that approximately one out of every five men convicted of murder and for whom death warrants have been issued manage to escape the death chair. This is borne out by the fact that the number of the death warrant of Tawza, the last of the three executed was 266, while he was actually the 205th man put to death in the chair in the fifteen years of its existence. Thus it will be seen that 61 men escaped the extreme penalty even after warrants had been issued for their electrocution.

ANOTHER VICTIM THIS WEEK.

James Flori, 25 years old, Philadelphia gangster and gunman, was electrocuted on Monday of this week for the murder, on April 24th, 1929, of Pasquale Livoy, a rival bootlegger. Flori's last words were a message to his wife. "Think of me, Mabel, I love you." Flori was pronounced dead four minutes after he was given a shot of electric juice. The body was claimed and taken back to Philadelphia for burial.

TOT RUSHES KING TO BREAKFAST BY THREAT.

The Duke of Devonshire, who has just celebrated his 62nd birthday, is one of the greatest land owners in England. He owns 136,000 acres of land. His home contains priceless art treasures.

The Duke is a close friend of the king, who visits him at Chatsworth. The king met the Duke's little granddaughter, Arabella Mackintosh, on his way down to breakfast one morning. He asked her what her name was. She replied: "Aramella. What is yours?"

"George." "Well, George, you had better hurry to breakfast, 'cos granny will give you no end of a scolding if you're late."

BENTON D. TATE RETIRES ON PENSION.

After nearly two score years' service in the telephone industry, Benton D. Tate, west High street, Bellefonte, an employee of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania, retired on pension on July 1st, and hereafter will be a gentleman of leisure.

Mr. Tate began his telephone career in 1891, under the supervision of John Davis, Altoona, who also retired on a pension the same day after 51 years of service.

A year later Mr. Tate was appointed foreman in charge of a group of men engaged in constructing telephone lines. During the four years he served in this position, he built lines in and around Bellefonte for the transmission of toll, or out-of-town calls. At the conclusion of this work he was appointed a "combination man," a position he retained until his retirement.

At that time there were only 27 telephones in operation in Bellefonte, and Mr. Tate's duties as a combination man were exactly what the name implies—operating the switchboard, installing of telephones, collection of revenues, repairing the lines, and securing additional business.

Mr. Tate is unmarried, and is a member of the Odd Fellows and the Elks.

"Mamma, I've got a stomach ache," said Peggy, aged five. "That's because you haven't had any lunch yet," answered Peggy's mother. "Your stomach is empty. You would feel better if you had something in it."

That afternoon the minister called and, in the course of conversation, remarked that he had been suffering all day with a severe headache.

"That's because it's empty," said Peggy brightly. "You'd feel better if you had something in it."

A DRIVE IS ON HERE FOR THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Northeastern Pennsylvania division of the Salvation Army, with headquarters at Scranton, are making a change in the manner of financing their work and instead of sending solicitors around often, they will only come once each year, when a regular campaign will be put on. Envoy and Mrs. Charles Saunders will be the only authorized solicitors for this section. The necessary funds to carry on its work with the least expense and the plan of covering the ground once a year has been a great saving along this line in other parts of the country.

The Northeastern Pennsylvania division covers 25 counties running along the New York State line in the north and west to and including Potter, Clinton, Clearfield, and Blair counties, Juniata, Cumberland, Schuylkill, Carbon and Monroe and parts of Lehigh and Northampton counties, east to the New York and New Jersey lines, including Wayne and Pike counties.

All branches of work are financed in this area including the regular corps work with all its branches, rescue work among fallen girls, men's social work, prison work, hospital work, home and foreign missions, seeking missing persons, etc.

The Army work is well known the world over, both in peace and war and is generally well supported and the Army officers are anxious that the people who want to support this work should not be imposed upon by frauds, and when the public knows that the Army has but one campaign and is on the right path, what is better than that? There are too many wrecks in the world today and if the Army can rescue any of them it is well worth the price it asks to promote its work. It helps the poor, it relieves suffering and distress, cheers the sorrowful. Its motto is to make bad men good and good men better. This is done in a material way by the Army. Its war record was a tale of wonderful devotion to the cause of the soldier boys.

Who can forget that? Its service in the Mississippi flood and other disaster has been quietly but none the less efficiently rendered, so that few people really know the great amount of work accomplished by these good people. Instead of continuous solicitation throughout the year, the Salvation Army proposes to make it all in one sum and let that answer for the entire year.

This worthy cause should be taken care of, and all persons, who have not been personally seen by Envoy or Mrs. Saunders and who feel like making a contribution to the cause, are requested to hand or mail checks to James K. Barnhart, cashier First National bank, Bellefonte, who is acting as treasurer of the campaign fund.

Teacher—How many of you children want to go to heaven? All the children raised their hand except Johnny.

Teacher—But Johnny don't you want to go to heaven? Johnny—My mother told me to come right home from school.

A FARMER with six acres in strawberries was faced with an unusually heavy crop and a glutted market. So rapidly were prices falling that it did not pay to hire additional pickers. Instead, he telephoned a number of city acquaintances to come and harvest as many berries as they wished at so much per head. Thus eliminating all picking, crating and shipping charges, the farmer turned what might have been a loss into a neat profit.

Working Capital

There are more business failures in the United States because of lack of enough cash on hand to carry on business properly and profitably, than from any other cause. The man without working capital is handicapped in every way, and his end as a business man may safely be predicted.

The chances are strongly against success.

Business nowadays is a hard game, and proper equipment in experience, judgment—cash is absolutely necessary.
