FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

DAILY THOUGHT

What you cannot achieve by virtue, you may obtain by flattery.

French Fondant.—Take two cupsful of granulated sugar, two table-spoonful of glucose or a pinch of cream of tartar, add one-half cupful of water and boil to the soft ball stage, that is, when a few drops of the hot sirup is dropped into cold water it makes a ball which may be picked up in the fingers. Pour out on a buttered platter to cool or set the dish away until just warm, then stir until creamy. Knead well and pack into a buttered bowl to ripen for a few days. This may be tinted, flavored and mixed with fruits and nuts, made into balls and dipped in chocolate or packed in layers and cut into slices.

Peanut Butter Fudge.—Take two and one-half cupsful of sugar, one-third of a cupful of corn sirup, one-half cupful of milk and one-half cupful of peanut butter. Boil to the soft ball stage and set away to cool. Stir until creamy, drop by spoonfuls on waxed paper.

Butterscotch.—Put two cupsful of brown sugar, one-half cupful of butter, four table-spoonful of molasses, two table-spoonful of vinegar into a granite kettle; stir until the sugar is dissolved, then boil without stirring until a drop becomes brittle in cold water. Pour into shallow pans to become cool. Mark off and cut into squares.
