

VLOVA'S PET DIES OF GRIEF

One of Madame Anna Pavlova's swans has died of grief over the death of her famous mistress. The swan is fast fretting himself into a line.

They were the cherished pets of the dancer, who drew from them inspiration of her famous "Dy-Swan" dance, and who was frequently photographed beside them in the garden of her Hampstead, London, home.

Since the death of Pavlova, last year, the swans, known as Jack and Clara, have been moping. Clara used to take food, and Jack acted it only from the hands of the dancer, who had tended the birds 15 years.

Recently Clara was found dead beside the beautiful artificial lake in the garden, with her head under a wing, and Jack is alone in his grief.

The swans were greatly attached to Pavlova. When they heard her voice on the terrace they would fly to the lake and go across the water to meet her, taking bread and other things from her hand. She could do anything with them, though they were sometimes fierce with other swans.

When Pavlova died, it was as if they were given up wandering at the garden and kept to the water, hissing angrily at anyone who reached.

WHEN TEAR GAS GUARDS NEW SAFE

Should an unwary burglar attempt to open a safe of new design, he would suddenly burst into tears—dash for the fresh air. A flood of tear gas accounts for the speed of his departure from the vicinity of the safe.

In an effort to burn, drill, or knock the combination on the door of a safe automatically releases the tear gas vapor from a hidden vessel in the door, thus routing the intruder to the street.

Effectively did this device frustrate the efforts of two bandits to open a Philadelphia concern recently. The police easily captured them as they wandered dazed and half-blinded in the building in an effort to get out.

Conductor: "Madam, you'll have to pay for that boy."

Madam: "But I never have before."

Conductor (hotly): "That doesn't matter to me, he's over 12 years old and you'll have to pay his fare 'til I put him off the car."

Madam: "Put him off. What do you mean? I never saw him before."

CHESTNUT TREES MAKING COMEBACK IN PENNSYLVANIA

Hopes rose higher than ever for the return of the chestnut tree to Pennsylvania hillsides, from which it had been gradually but effectively eliminated by a destructive blight.

On the state forest reservations at Mont Alto, a recent planting of chestnut is steadily developing and already several trees have borne burrs.

At Berwick, a highway engineer, Boyd Trescott, returned from two months' work in the mountains to report that hundreds of healthy and well developed chestnut trees are growing in the hilly sections.

"They are the old-time chestnuts, most of them branching out from the roots of the trees killed by the blight several years ago," Trescott said.

"Along the head waters of the Nescopeck Creek and Roaring Creek and in other sections I came upon a number of chestnut trees three and four inches in diameter and completely clean, a blight resisting growth apparently, and with all of them bearing."

STATE FACING LOCUST ARMY.

Armies of 17-year locusts are mobilizing underground for a "big push" this summer against young fruit trees and other tender shoots, the State Agriculture Department warned today.

Periodical Cicadas, as someone has nicknamed the locusts, will appear in Washington, Westmoreland, Green, Fayette, Schuylkill, Carbon and Berks counties, according to the department.

The group-up Periodical Cicadas (What? Again!), are interesting little rascals.

In childhood, the Periodical Cicadas (omyomyomy) are known as minches. That's what this summer's army are now. They live underground, sucking sap from roots of trees.

When the baby locusts start feeling their oats, they move to the ground surface where they build a small sort of chimney near the trees. In one night, as graduates from high school, they emerge and crawl up the trees.

Their outer coverings slip off and they become full fledged adults, ready to fit hither and yon as soon as their wings dry.

These adults are from one to one and a half inches long, wedge-shaped and nearly black—smaller and darker than regular cicadas which tap out some hot tunes in summer.

Birth control is just a wisecrack as far as they're concerned. With a capacity of 600 eggs in 40 days, females lay eggs in roots and smaller limbs of young trees, making wrecks of the trees.

The Agriculture Department announced young plantings of fruit trees may be protected by covering with a mosquito netting to keep out Periodical Cicadas.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

M. Alma Corman, Adm., to Mary I. Corman, tract in Miles Twp.; $775.

Phoebe B. Krebs, et al, to Homer A. Grubb, tract in State College; $1.

Homer A. Grubb, et ux, to J. N. Krumrine, et al, tract in State College; $1.

Clyde L. Smeltzer, et al, to LeRoy C. Smeltzer, et ux, tract in Ferguson Twp.; $1.

G. Edward Haupt, et ux, to Benjamin F. Sheetz, et ux, tract in Spring Twp.; $250.

A. B. Lansberry et ux, to A. B. Curtis, tract in Phillipsburg; $1.

Albert B. Curtis, et ux, to General Hardware and Supply company, tract in Phillipsburg; $1.

Centre County Commissioners to Edward C. Gates, tract in South Phillipsburg; $8.

Tillie Kaup, et al, to Ellen Williams, tract in Fort Matilda; $400.

T. M. Brumgard, Atty. in fact, to Elmer M. Haugh, tract in Miles Twp.; $1.

Charles M. Ulrich, et ux, to George Wingard, tract in Penn Twp.; $60.

Isaac Finberg, et al, to Annie Sherokey, tract in Phillipsburg; $1.

H. H. Laird to Fred E. Laird, et al, tract in Port Matilda; $1,500.

J. D. Keller, et ux, to D. J. Lehman, tract in State College; $1.

Bellefonte Cemetery Association to W. Scott Meese, tract in Bellefonte; $50.

Gray Cemetery Association to Daniel I. Harpster, tract in Half Moon Twp.; $20.

Harry E. Dunlap, sheriff, to Thomas A. Fletcher, tract in Howard; $400.

Half Moon Twp. School District to Half Moon Hunting Club, tract in Half Moon Twp.; $125.

Benjamin Kasmark to Ursula Kasmark, tract in Rush Twp.; $1.

Bellefonte Cemetery Association to S. H. Poorman, et al, tract in Bellefonte; $50.

Edward M. Porter, et ux, to Sarah F. Wentzel, tract in State College; $1.

Sarah F. Wentzel to Edward M. Porter, et ux, tract in State College; $1.

Frank Tubridy, et ux, to Thomas Tubridy, Jr., tract in Snow Shoe; $1.

W. C. Lowery, et ux, to Julia B. Moore, tract in Walker Twp.; $1.

Austin L. Johnston, et ux, to Clyde R. Johnson, et ux, tract in Spring Twp.; $1.

L. F. Mayes, treasurer, to Charles Steele, tract in Miles Twp.; $8.25.

Annie Grenninger to Newton Brumgard, tract in Miles Twp.; $1.

Edward F. Swift, et ux, to Swift and Company, tract in Phillipsburg; $1.

Blanche Fetterhoff to Edward R.

NEITHER LION NOR TIGER ARE FOREST DENIZENS

It is commonly but erroneously believed that lions dwell in great forests and jungles, and they are frequently so represented in conventional drawings and pictures. These animals, however, are not natives of the forest and jungle. They live chiefly in rocky places, on sandy plains where there are thorn thickets, and in the tall grasses and reeds along the banks of rivers. The lion is found in both Africa and Asia. Tigers have a wide range in Asia, while the tiger is exclusively Asiatic, being found in almost all suitable parts of the continent and on the islands of Sumatra, Java, and Bali. Unlike the lion, the tiger is frequently found in forests, although it prefers grassy plains or swamps. Lions and tigers sometimes inner breed. In 1924 the Maharajah Jam Sahib presented the Zoological Society of London with a "tigon," or tiger-lion hybrid, which had been bred at Nawanganar, India. —Pathfinder Magazine.

—Subscribe for the Watchman.

Houser, et ux, tract in Spring Twp.; $120.

William A. Strouse, et ux, to Edward R. Houser, et ux, tract in Spring Twp.; $1.

David Chambers, treasurer, to N. B. Spangler, tract in Miles Twp.; $7.25.

N. B. Spangler, et ux, to Charles Steele, tract in Miles Twp.; $8.25.

Eme R. Auman, et al, Adm., to Earl Stiver, tract in Worth Twp.; $2,500.

G. Edward Haupt, et al, to Frank Meter, et ux, tract in Bellefonte; $400.

Henry Meyer to Newton Brumgard, tract in Miles Twp.; $10.

Ella J. McMurtre, et bar, to Fairfield J. Walters, tract in Phillipsburg; $1.

John T. McCormick, et ux, to Eugene C. Bischoff, tract in State College; $1.

Robert E. Albright, et ux, to Eva I. Sechrist, tract in Millheim; $1,075.

Farmers National Bank and Trust Company to Eva I. Sechrist, tract in Millheim; $1,075.

G. M. Singer to L. C. Heineman, et al, tract in Liberty Twp.; $1.

C. M. Muffy, et ux, to William Bland, tract in Howard Twp.; $1.

436815 DOGS LICENSED, 2,612 OWNERS PROSECUTED.

A total of 436,815 licenses have been issued, 9,672 uncontrolled dogs killed, 2,612 dog owners prosecuted and 635 damage claims amounting to $18,401 received this year, according to the latest report from the bureau of animal industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Comparing this report with the report on the corresponding date a year ago, it is found that this year, 3,168 fewer dogs and 20 fewer kennels have been licensed, and $984.85 less in damage claims has been received.

Allegheny county leads with 25,881 licensed dogs. Cambria county leads in prosecutions, the number being 370.

Woman: "I was to meet my husband here two hours ago; have you seen him?"

Floorwalker: "Possibly, madam. Anything distinctively about him?"

Woman: "Yes, I imagine he's purple by this time."

There was a young chap quite unique,
Who imagined himself a shique;
But the girls wouldn't fall
For this fellow at all—
He made only twenty a wique.

"How would you like to have a hop in my airplane?"

"No sah. Ah stays on terrah firmah; and de more firmah de' less terrah."

—Subscribe for the Watchman.

President Hoover's Suggestion,

That payments of indemnities by Germany be postponed for one year, is the first real constructive measure for the relief of the world-wide business depression.

The critical political, as well as financial conditions in Germany, the fear that a revolution, whose consequences no one could foresee, would follow insistence on continued payments under the Young plan, were menaces to the peace of the world that the moratorium will remove.

We now may look forward with confidence to a gradual return to normal conditions.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK
BELLEFONTE, PA.

WE FIT THE FEET COMFORT GUARANTEED.

Baney's Shoe Store

WILBUR H. BANEY, Proprietor
30 years in the Business

BUSH ARCADE BLOCK
BELLEFONTE, PA.

SERVICE OUR SPECIALTY SPECIAL ORDERS SOLICITED

WONDER-SALE! - SUITS

This is More than a Sale---It's a Sacrifice

MEN AND YOUNG MEN—here is the chance of a lifetime. The entire stock of Central Pennsylvania's Leading Men's Store, at prices that will average less than half their regular selling price—

ONE WEEK ONLY
Sale Starts Saturday July 11
Positively Ends Saturday July 18

See our Windows. All four of them will be devoted to the display of the Wonderful Values offered during this Sale.

More than seventy-five Suits formerly priced from $25.00 to $45.00, during this sale $15.00. These are all new and up-to-date styles. But one and two of a kind. The reductions in no case are less than $10.00, and in many instances much more. Space does not permit us to go into detail, but it's the Greatest Money-Saving Opportunity you Ever Had. The Fauble Store tells you this—you know what that means.

A. FAUBLE

