NEW RECORDS PROBABLE AT ALTOONA RACES

Speeds far in excess of any previously shown by the new two-man class, Thursday of last week, were predicted for the national championships on the famous Altoona speedway Labor day.

With the race for the title developed into one of the hottest last minute battles in the annals of the speed sport, the jockeys leading the standing will be compelled to throttle their motors many notches faster to gain the place they are seeking.

A higher place in the rating their goal, many of the lads who ran the Fourth of July classic have been working constantly on their cars ever since in the hope of arriving at a better combination. Some of them have been successful and others continue dissecting their tiny motors for the least possible flaw which, if corrected, might prove to be the "monkey gland" for their September 7 ride.

Freddy Frame, the California ace who finished only 41 seconds behind Lou Schneider Memorial day when the one time motorcycle cop won the grand prize "500" at Indianapolis, is one of the consumers of midnight oil who has been successful in his attempt to add more speed to his mount. In competition down east Frame has arrived at a combination which has added 10 miles an hour more speed to his flashy Duesenberg.

With this newly acquired swiftness helping his chances, Frame is heralded as the next champion of the speed realm. He is only 100 points behind Lou Schneider in the title standing and the 180 points awaiting the winner of the two 25 mile sprints and the 100 mile feature classic in Altoona, September 7, would put the Californian on top. He still would take the lead with only the 120 points allotted to the winner of the century run.

But to do this Frame will have to step on it, for equally ambitious for points are Jimmy Gleason, Ralph Heppburn, Chet Miller, Zeke Meyer, Lou Moore, Bill Cummings and a host of others. And to hold Frame in check these boys must step on it, too. So with everyone stepping on it, there is a certainty that the average for the century will be far better than the 11.5 mile an hour gait of Billy Arnold here June, last year, the fastest average ever turned in for the new type two-man cars.
