DEMOCRATS PROPOSED FOR STATE OFFICES

The Democratic State Committee, in special session at Harrisburg last week, recommended a full state ticket to be voted upon at the primary election April 26th.

This action followed unanimous decision of the committee to adopt the convention system of suggesting or recommending candidates for the voters' approval in the primaries.

The ticket selected is unusually strong and well distributed geographically and is as follows:—

For United States Senator—Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown. Mr. Rupp is a member of the law firm of Butz & Rupp, is strictly an Allentown product, born, raised and educated there, but has risen to high positions in public affairs. He has served a term as District Attorney of Lehigh county, as chairman of the Democratic State Committee and as Grand Exalted Ruler of the Lodge of Elks, the highest office within the gift of that order. He has a wide acquaintanceship and is a fine public speaker.

For Supreme Court—E. C. Higbee, of Connellsville. Mr. Higbee is the Senior partner in the law firm of Higbee, Matthews & Lewellyn and is one of the best known and highly regarded attorneys in Western Pennsylvania.

For Judge of Superior Court—Frank H. Strouss, of Mount Carmel. Mr. Strouss has just completed a ten year term as President Judge in the courts of Northumberland county. He is a native of Mount Carmel and was admitted to the Northumberland county bar in 1900 and to the Supreme court in 1903. He also served two terms as District Attorney of Northumberland county.

For Judge of Superior Court—Robert A. Henderson, of Altoona. Mr. Henderson is one of the leaders of the Blair county bar. A few years ago he came within 241 votes of winning the Judgeship of the county, notwithstanding the fact that Balir's normal Republican majority is 15,000. Mr. Henderson was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1928.

For State Treasurer—Leonard B. Shannon, of Brookville. Mr. Shannon has been in the banking business in Brookville since 1901, when he entered the employ of the Jefferson County National bank, as a clerk, rising steadily to the positions of assistant cashier, cashier, and president. On January 1st, 1932, he also took the presidency of the Sykesville National bank. Mr. Shannon is the father of ten children, the eldest son, Harold, being admitted to the Jefferson county bar last year. Mr. Shannon is recognized throughout Western Pennsylvania as a very progressive business man and strong banker.

For Auditor General—Wilson G. Sarig, of Temple. Mr. Sarig is serving his seventh term as a member of the State Legislature from Berks county and is Democratic floor leader of the House. When he was advised of his selection, Mr. Sarig said:

"My campaign as minority floor leader of the House against all new or additional taxes seems to have met with the approval of the great majority of Democrats, as well as other citizens throughout the State, and there was a general feeling in the committee that my knowledge and experience in matters of State government would make me the logical candidate for this fiscal office.

"I wish to assure the people of Pennsylvania that I have agreed to accept this nomination only after considerable hesitation, and not in any spirit of vanity, but with a very keen sense of responsibility.

"Every thinking Pennsylvanian must realize that we are now approaching the financial cross-roads in our State government where we must either head for economy, bankruptcy or for a deluge of new and additional taxes."

WILL TEACH VALUE OF NATURE STUDY

Conservation of natural resources including forests, streams, scenery, game animals, and birds will be made a part of the future education of the youth of the State. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction, announced that his department is preparing a course of study in science for the schools of the State in which special stress is laid upon the duty of the public to provide food for game life, the importance of hunting strictly within the law and the elements of true sportsmanship. At the present time, Pennsylvania is one of the foremost States in the Union in its care of wild life. That the schools are guiding the thinking of the young people in this direction will do much it is believed toward assuring the continuation and development of a type of education all too little emphasized in the past, it is believed.

MUSSOLINI'S MAIL FULL OF "FAN" LETTERS

Judging from the fan mail received, Mussolini enjoys even more popularity in democratic countries—notably England and America—than he does in undemocratic lands. For the sake of those Americans who send letters to the Duce it is worth noting that he personally seldom sees any fan mail. He is so satiated with praise in his own country that he has no appetite for compliments from "unknowns." And fortunately, he has better things to occupy his attention.—Washington Star.

DECEMBER WEATHER HIGH IN TEMPERATURE LOW IN SNOW AND RAIN

Meteorologist Parker Reports on Freakish December, 1931, Weather in Centre County.

The temperature for the month of December was from 5 to 6 degrees above normal, the precipitation was about 70% of normal or one inch less than the average, and the month was almost devoid of snowfall below one thousand feet elevation.

The monthly mean temperature was 35.6 degrees, the monthly maximum 44.4 degrees and the monthly minimum 26.7 degrees. The highest temperature, 59 degrees, was on the 12th, the lowest 11 degrees on the 8th, making an absolute range of 48 degrees for the month. The greatest daily range was 33 degrees on the 3rd and the least daily range 4 degrees on the 23rd. The mean daily range in temperature was 17.7 degrees and the average change in mean temperature from day to day was 5.4 degrees. There were 23 days with temperature below freezing and on two days, the 8th and 28th, the temperature did not rise above freezing. The coldest day was the 8th, with a mean temperature of 20 degrees, and the warmest, the 24th, with a mean temperature of 50 degrees.

The total precipitation was 1.81 inches, with the greatest amount in 24 hours, 0.57 inch, on the 13th. There were 11 days with one-hundredth inch or more of precipitation each day, though a trace or more of precipitation in some form occurred on 21 days, and a trace or more of snow on 11 days. The total depth of snowfall was 0.2 inch, most of which occurred on the 7th and 9th. Sleet occurred on the 9th. Dense fog occurred on the 11th and 12th and light fog on 10 days. There were 3 clear days, 10 partly cloudy and 18 cloudy.

The prevailing wind was from the west, with a maximum velocity of 48 miles per hour from the southeast on the 11th. The mean sea-level barometric pressure was 30.12 inches, the highest 30.66 inches on the 8th and the lowest 29.66 inches on the 24th, a range for the month of exactly one inch.

The mean monthly temperature at the Airport for December of three previous years is 29.8, and for all years of record is 31.2 degrees. Thus the mean monthly temperature for December, 1931, was 4.4 degrees above the average, and 5.8 degrees above the mean of previous records. The highest temperature recorded at the Airport during December, occurred during the past month, 57 degrees having been recorded in 1929.

The lowest temperature in December at the Airport was 2 degrees below zero in 1930. The average of 4 years record of precipitation for December at the Airport is 1.75 inches, but for all years except 1930 the precipitation for December was below normal. The snowfall during December was much below normal, the average of 4 years record at the Airport being 4.1 inch. During December 1930 there was 10.3 inches.

The mean monthly temperature for December in Bellefonte for 11 years of record is 30.3 degrees, for 30 years of record in Centre Hall it is 29.7 degrees and for 43 years record in State College, it is also 29.7 degrees. During a period of 43 years, 1888 to 1930 inclusive, the highest temperature recorded at State College in December was 64 degrees in 1889 and 1912. There were 14 years during which a temperature of 60 degrees or higher was recorded. The lowest temperature in December recorded at State College during the same period, was 13 degrees below zero in 1917, and during 11 years temperatures below zero occurred.

The average of 11 years previous record of precipitation for December in Bellefonte is 3.23 inches, and of 8 years previous record at Western Penitentiary it is 2.28 inches or, considered together, the average is 2.83 inches. The average of 8 years record of precipitation at Fleming, 1859 to 1866 inclusive, is 3.10 inches and for 43 years, 1888 to 1930 inclusive, at State College it is 2.68 inches. The total precipitation during the past month was about one inch below normal.

Heavy precipitation during December of past years is as follows: In Bellefonte, 6.06 inches in 1901. 5.21 inches in 1902 and 4.30 inches in 1907. In Fleming, 5.30 inches in 1863 and 4.39 inches in 1860. In State College, 6.59 inches in 1901, 4.82 inches in 1902, 4.48 inches in 1923 and 4.08 inches in 1891. All other records are below 4 inches.

Heavy snowfall occurred during past years as follows: In Bellefonte, 15.5 inches in 1902 and 1903, 13 inches in 1904, 12 inches in 1901 and 11 inches in 1915, 1917 and 1922. In Centre Hall there was 26.7 inches in 1910, 20.5 inches in 1914, 19 inches in 1897, 17 inches in 1898 and 1926, 13.5 inches in 1906, 13.2 inches in 1917 and 12 inches in 1902 and 1913. All other records are less than a foot. State College holds the record for snow in this locality; in December, 1890 there was 32.6 inches. Other heavy snowfalls there was 20.5 inches in 1910, 16.8 inches in 1914, 15.4 inches in 1898 and 1926, 14.8 inches in 1906, 13.3 inches in 1902, 12.8 inches in 1917 and 12.2 inches in 1894. All other records are less than a foot. These measurements of snowfall are the total for the month, not the amount for a single storm.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

DAILY THOUGHT

I said I'd be happy
If a mink coat I had;
Or if I had a limousine
I'd not feel so bad.

Unfortunate always,
My fate I could buck
If I once in a while
Had a streak of good luck.

And when I discovered
All these things I had;
I somehow or other
Forget to be glad!

Carolyn Wells.

—Maybe it's traceable to the restoration movement in clothes, or maybe it's just a jaded people returning to the simple pastime of their ancestors—but at any rate the trend of the times at the Fall festivities is decidedly toward games.

The quaint old parlor games are coming back in modern version and people are having more good wholesome fun with them than you could have at a barn party.

"Advertisements" is a game which is played with amazing results. First of all the party is paired off, usually by drawing lots, and each couple is given a magazine or two, a couple of large sheets of paper, a pair of scissors and a pot of paste. Each couple is then instructed to construct an advertisement of its own, cutting out pictures, headlines and copy from the magazines and pasting them into the paper. A prize is given for the cleverest home-made advertisement, or the most amusing or something. And I have seen some spectacular results, and some riotously funny ones, among these synthetic advertisements.

—After a wild, post-war spree of eye-blistering colors and zig-zag furniture, interior decoration, as prices, manners and women's clothes is going Victorian, said H. E. Glosser, president of the Pennsylvania Master Painters and Decorators' Association.

"Pillows and all pleasant trifles of decorating are coming back with a bang," he said. "The days of angular furniture to suit angular bodies of post-war women are gone, thank Heaven! Good old Queen Victoria would be quite at home in the most modern homes."

—February is a month of contradictions. It is the shortest month in the year and it often seems the longest. It is a dreary Winter month and yet it may be the merriest if its holidays are observed. Some like it because the merry skating parties and snowballing, which will soon be but memories, are at their best. Others like it because the little snowdrops and crocuses that pierce through the ice and snow bring a promise of the joyous sensation of Springtime.

It may be a month for the most delightful parties and reunions. Washington's birthday, Lincoln's birthday and good old St. Valentine's day all suggest novel and unusual parties.

Originality in decorations as well as in the selection and preparation of refreshments should be the aim of every hostess. By originality one does not mean elaborateness. Exquisite simplicity in linen, silver, china, flower arrangement and menu will give an atmosphere of restfulness and charm.

Artificial flowers should never be used as a dining-table decoration. If fresh flowers are barred because of their cost, substitute small ferns in shallow bowls, home-made Japanese gardens, candles, or amusing and exquisite compotes filled with colorful candies or fruits.

Unshaded candles always give a cheerful glow to a table and give a "party" atmosphere to even the plainest room. Everyday foods seem to have more flavor when attractively garnished and served in a candle-lighted room.

—Any move made by a couple spending the evening together should be at the instigation of the woman, except in the entr'actes at the theatre, when it is customary for the man to ask her whether she wishes to go out for a cigarette. It should be the girl who suggests, after dinner, that it must be almost theatre time and thus give the man the signal to send for the check. If she seems completely absent-minded, however, the man may pull out his watch and jog her memory with the remark that it is getting on toward curtain time.

—Meat and potatoes seem to supplement each other as naturally as do bread-and-butter, and there is a reason. Meat has an acid quality and, if eaten continuously and heartily, tends to injure the tissues of the body, produce high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. Potatoes have an alkaline quality and, when eaten with meat, neutralize its acid reaction on the system.

Potatoes are two-thirds water, and their remaining third is a food which is almost all digested, leaving little residue in the system to encourage the action of the alimentary canal. It is well to eat salads and coarse vegetables with our concentrated combination, meat-and-potatoes.

The food elements of the potato are starch, a small amount of protein, phosphorus and iron, and a moderate amount of vitamins A, B and C. All in all, the humble "spud" is a valuable food.

Boil potatoes rapidly in salted water, with the skins on, to save the mineral salts, and peel before serving. To make potatoes mealy, drain but leave them in the kettle and set them back over a slow fire for a minute, bouncing them up and down in the kettle to drive the steam out evenly. Break baked potatoes as soon as you remove them from the oven, to let the steam out.

FARM NOTES.

Keep Farm Accounts—January 1 is a good time to start new jobs. Keeping farm accounts is one of the farm tasks which should not be neglected. Records show where profits and losses exist. Profitable farming pays. Let your accounts tell you.

—Make Stable Changes—The winter season provides time for making repairs and improvements in the dairy stable. Often labor can be saved and cows made more comfortable by a few inexpensive changes in arrangement.

—This is the time of the year to start the new farm account books. Last year 1157 farmers kept such books in co-operation with the Pennsylvania State College agricultural extension service. This was a gain of 200 in 1930.

—If no succulent feed is available give the birds in the poultry flock some alfalfa hay to pick at each day, say Penn State poultry specialists.

—During the past year 88 butchering and meat cutting demonstrations were atended by 3616 persons, including farmers, homemakers, school children, and meat dealers.

—In stony land steel mouldboards for tractor plows are more economical than cast mouldboards because the latter break too often. Cast plowshares are more economical than steel if an efficient spring release hitch is used.

—To produce good quality cream use only clean separators, cans, and milking utensils. Do not mix fresh skimmed cream with cream of former skimmings before it is thoroughly cooled, and keep it cool until delivered.

—Spring-time is nursery time on the farm. Chicks, pigs and lambs all pay big returns for the time spent on them while they are getting their start.

—Locust is the best species to plant for fence post material. This tree produces a very durable wood and does it in a short time. Some plantations on fairly good ground have yielded 1100 posts an acre in a 17-year period.

—Do not wait until spring to order seeds and plants. Prepare a list now of the garden flowers, shrubs, and trees needed and send it to your nearest reliable seed store or nurseryman. Orders placed early receive prompt attention.

—The dairy sire should be from ancestors with greater producing capacity than the cows in the herd. Choose the sire with great care. Unless proved or from good producing ancestors, his daughters cannot develop into good cows.

—If the birds are losing weight, feed them at noon each day a mixture of equal parts of corn meal, rolled oats, condensed milk, say Penn State poultry specialists.

—To develop a young sugar bush thin heavily the second growth saplings. Remove all trees except sugar maples, and in dense stands of these thin out enough individuals to allow those remaining sufficient room to develop well-rounded crowns. If these young trees are given proper attention they will make good sap producers when the mature maples are gone.

—In the past six years 784 pure-bred rams have been distributed at 24 sales conducted by co-operative sheep and wool producers associations. These rams have contributed much to the improvement of Pennsylvania farm flocks.

—Brood sows need exercise as well as good feed and care. If fed some distance from their quarters the sows will get exercise and feed, too.

—Whether they bear or not, fruit trees should be sprayed this year to protect the foliage from insects and diseases, according to W. H. Alderman, chief in horticulture at Minnesota University farm. This is necessary to insure having the trees in proper condition for next year's production.

Mr. Alderman's statement is prompted by indications that some varieties of plums and certain orchards located on low ground have suffered from frost. In such cases, orchardists may be inclined to regard spraying as unnecessary for the balance of the season.

On the contrary, Mr. Alderman points out, healthy foliage is essential for the development of fruit buds which produce the next year's crop, as the leaves manufacture the plant food material which is transferred back to the wood and stored there. He advises at least three sprays distributed throughout the season.
