The name of James Somerville, a senior at State College and son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Somerville, of Winburne, should have been included in our list last week, of the Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic fraternity men, of Penn State. Although James is not from Centre county, he is so closely identified with it through a big relationship, that we feel his name belongs with those of our four honor men.

A recent issue of the W. C. T. U. Bulletin contains a reproduction of a poster designed by Teddy Crain, of Port Matilda, who was awarded second prize in the organization's state poster contest. Teddy's poster portrays the story of two boys starting out in the race of life. One of them is in the full vigor of youth and all his mental capacity. The other, although bigger and stronger physically, is handicapped through the use of tobacco and alcoholic stimulants, with the result that he loses the race to his smaller competitor.

From various sections of Centre county come reports of enthusiastic sportsmen putting out feed to tide the game birds over until the snow melts in the mountains and warmer weather come to stay. It has been a thoughtful and praiseworthy act upon the part of those who did it, but lack of food has not yet reached a critical stage so far as the birds are concerned. In the first place the woods have been free of snow all winter and the fall of two weeks ago was not of great depth. The greatest danger lies in the fact that because of the previous warm weather the birds were already nesting and the snow and cold weather might result in destroying the hatch.

On Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock John McCoy happened to glance at the roof of his home, at McCoy and Linns, and was startled to see a fine fire making headway thereon. Having been burned out once he knows what such calamities mean and at once set up an alarm that could have been heard for miles around. Of course his garden hose was frozen shut, but the Bellefonte department got there before it could be thawed out, and extinguished the flames with chemicals. A hole, about 6x8 was burned in the roof. John is still hoarse as a result of yelling "Fire" and his shins are skinned because he fell on the joists in a dark attic while putting a one-man bucket brigade to work.

Last Friday afternoon Mrs. C. C. Rhoads broke the key in the lock of the door opening into her apartment in the Potter-Hoy building and her nephew, Charles Thompson, nineteen years old, volunteered to do the fly-crawling act up the outside of the building, open in through a window and open the door from the inside. He crawled up far enough to get a hold on the iron pipe carrying the P. O. S. or A. sign but when he attempted to pull himself up he felt the pipe giving away under his weight and he made a grab for the ledge of the building. His hold slipped and he fell to the stone pavement, sustaining a fracture of the right arm at the wrist and a pronounced laceration on his chin. He was taken to the Centre county hospital where his injuries were given proper attention and he was able to leave that institution on Sunday.

PAST TEMPLARS MET AT SPRING MILLS TUESDAY.

The fifth meeting of the Centre-Clinton Past Templar association, was held, Tuesday afternoon and evening, at Spring Mills, with thirty-six Past Templars present, which number was increased by the local Centre Temple No. 169, Ladies of the Golden Eagle, to 58 in the evening session. Owing to sickness and inclement weather many officers were obliged to be absent, but all chairs were filled. Devotions were led by Mrs. Smith, of Spring Mills, who chose a responsive selection of the scriptures from the Psalms, and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison.

As per action taken at the Mill Hall meeting, a month ago, song books, "The Golden Book," were purchased, and initiated at Spring Mills, with Mrs. Martha Corman at the piano and numerous selections used, as "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," "How Do You Do," Spring Mills, "How Do You Do?" "Jingle Bells," "Wearing of the Green," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," and the opening ode, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

In the course of the business hour, the worthy president, Mrs. Helen Searson, brought before the body the question of the probability of other counties joining the Association. This fact is not only complimentary but manifests a desire for closer contact and acquaintanceship among the Templars of Central Pennsylvania. This is an honorary degree and matters of vital interest were discussed.

The afternoon entertainment included a reading by Mrs. Zerby entitled, "The Chronic Objector," one by Mrs. Tressler, "A Stranger," and one by Mrs. Swaney, "Kentucky Bill."

Mrs. Zerby delighted the audience with another selection and refreshments were served by the hostess lodge.

Phillipsburg extended an invitation for the next meeting.

"LOST SQUADRON" AIR EPIC COMES TO CATHAUM.

Hailed as one of the most thrilling of all air pictures because of the unusualness of its story, "The Lost Squadron" comes to the Cathaum theatre, State College, next Monday and Tuesday, as a worthy successor to "Cimarron," "Hell's Angels" and other spectacular pictures of the past. In fact it has already surpassed "Cimarron" records in the cities where it has been shown—and "Cimarron" was recently voted the outstanding picture of last year.

Like in "Cimarron," Richard Dix heads the brilliant cast which includes Mary Astor, Dorothy Jordan, Robert Armstrong and Erich von Stroheim, "the man you love to hate." The story concerns the making of a Hollywood air thriller and reveals the loves, hates and jealousies that lie behind the scenes, and which result in sending war heroes to their death for the sake of a camera thrill.

HARMONY SINGERS FROM 'WAY DOWN SOUTH' TO SING IN BELLEFONTE.

The Kentucky Harmony Singers, representing the Housewife Training School, of Fulton, Kentucky, will give two concerts in Bellefonte, the first this (Friday) evening in the United Brethren church and the second, Sunday evening, in the Methodist church. They will also give a concert in Howard on Sunday afternoon.

The Harmony Singers are all women and are the only women's quartette traveling. They were organized and are under the direction of Mrs. Louise Malone Braxton, founder of the Housewife Training School. Mrs. Braxton, who is a graduate of Booker Washington's school, Tuskegee Institute, in Alabama, has built four schools in the south for colored people and is now at work on her fifth school. She loves her work and gives to it all the energy of which she is capable.

The quartette has a repertoire of more than two hundred spiritual and old-time southern melodies, and we have no doubt their concert will be well worth hearing.

LEAGUE CHILDREN GIVE NICE ENTERTAINMENT.

Those who missed seeing and hearing the entertainment given by the Intermediate and Junior Leagues, under the direction of Mrs. S. G. Tressler and her assistant, Mrs. Walter Armstrong, in the Methodist church last Thursday evening, missed a great treat.

The vocal and instrumental solos given by the children were well worth the price of admission. This was augmented by several trombone solos and duets by the Wian brothers, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Willis Wian, League pianist, added greatly to the program, as well as the side-splitting play given by the Intermediates entitled, "Visitors Day at Hickory Lick School."

It was indeed an enjoyable evening in worthwhile things. Mrs. Tressler has received upwards of a dozen requests to repeat this program, some of these coming from out-of-town churches. Due to the ages of the children this would be an impossibility, but owing to such marked interest manifested by our people it is probable it will be repeated, together with some added attractions. Please watch the papers for further announcements.
