

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

C. Y. Wagner & Co. have a fine grade of seed oats which they are selling at fifty cents a bushel.

Orvis Hosterman and Miss Grace Stover, both of Aaronburg, were married at Mount Holly Springs, last Saturday, by the Rev. Ward K. Hosterman.

The stock of the Harter music store, sold at sheriff's sale last Friday, was bid in by John G. Love, Esq., for Mrs. R. G. Hayes, on her claim for rent, at his bid of $750.

W. I. Fleming celebrated his 75th anniversary Sunday, March 27th, and was the guest of honor at a family dinner given at the home of his son, Judge M. Ward Fleming, on east Linn street.

The boys of the Bellefonte H. Y. club will hold a food sale at Schaeffer's hardware store, on Allegheny street, tomorrow, Saturday, from 9 in the morning until 1 p. m. They will have pies, cakes, candy and other home-made articles of food and they are hoping that they will be liberally patronized.

A little son born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Gates, of Hecla Park, last Thursday evening, and who had been named Charles Lewis, after it's paternal grandfather, died at noon, on Monday, as the result of a valvular heart lesion. He was buried Tuesday morning in the Gates lot in the Union Cemetery, Bellefonte.

The directors of the Clearfield County Agricultural association have about given up hope of having a county fair next fall. Last year they had a deficit of $3,107.08 and have decided that it will be taking too long a chance to plan for a fair in 1932 unless a possible deficit of $3,000.00 is underwritten by public pledges.

The Ira Phillips sale of farm stock and implements, on the H. L. Harpster farm near Alexandria, last Friday, amounted to a little over $4000, pure bred cows selling as high as $180. The interesting thing in connection with the sale, however, was that not enough cash was taken in to pay the auctioneer, and Mr. Phillips had to draw a check on his bank account to pay it.

The regular spring meeting of the Huntingdon Presbytery will be held in the Presbyterian church, at State College, next Monday evening and Tuesday. Rev. Joseph A. Speer, D. D., of Tyrone, will preside. Rev. Francis Shunk Downes had been elected moderator a year ago but since then he has accepted a pastorate in California, and because of that fact Rev. Speer will preside until the election of a moderator.

Containers for the Merchant Marine book drive of April 10, will be found in the Y. M. C. A., and in the lobby of the Richelieu theatre. The request comes for books of any kind, suitable for reading or to be sold, and as this is such a worthy charity, it is hoped a liberal response will be made to the appeal. Mrs. Paul McGarvey and Mrs. Blanchard are in charge of the drive, with the Boy Scouts aiding, in charge of collection.

Norman Kirk, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kirk, of this place, and a senior in the Bellefonte High school, has won the Gorgas medal for the best essay on "Mosquitoes, their danger to health and the importance of their control." Miss Elizabeth Herr received honorable mention for her discussion of the same subject. The medal is offered to a senior or junior of Bellefonte High school by the Gorgas Memorial Institute of Washington, D. C. Norman's essay will now be entered in the contest for the State trophy.

A record attendance at the Woman's Club meeting taxed the capacity of the Linn home, Monday night, where the club was entertained by Miss Linn, as speaker of the evening, with a talk on "Early Homes in Bellefonte," in a setting to be gotten nowhere else in the town. The entire Linn house, rich in treasures of early American and colonial periods, was opened to the club in illustration of the talk. Preceding this, the regular business session was held, at which ten dollars was voted the welfare committee for its work and tentative arrangements were made for the coming of Miss Anne Bright, who is to give her second showing of Miss Bright's pictures, of beautiful gardens in Europe and America.

Many regular attendants are of the opinion that last Sunday morning's service in the Bellefonte Methodist church was the most heartening and impressive they have ever attended there. The beautiful music, the admission of an unusually large class of probationary members and the memorial for members who had died during the year made it a service that left a deep impress on the minds and hearts of those who participated. Those memorialized were Mrs. Stella Brown Thompson, Mrs. Ethel Zettle Poorman, Wilbur T. Twitmore, Mrs. Ollie Campbell Barnhart, Mrs. Mary Bathurst McClure, Margaret Ann Smith, Mrs. Mary Naatz Brewer, James Williams, Mrs. Jane Bathurst, Mrs. Hannah Wilson Smith and Perry Moran.

Looking across High street from the Watchman office doorway at 9 o'clock Monday morning March 28, 1932. Snow had just stopped falling. The cars parked in front of the Penn Belle are those of guests, several of whom were unable to get them out of the snow blockade until nearly noon.

DEEPEST SNOW OF WINTER FELL ON SUNDAY NIGHT AND MONDAY MORNING

Highway Traffic Blocked, Trains Delayed, Telegraph and Telephone Service Disrupted but No Great Damage Was Done.

The bumper snow of the winter (or spring) season fell on Sunday night and Monday morning. It started with a heavy precipitation of rain on Sunday evening which turned to snow between nine and ten o'clock. By six o'clock Monday morning it measured eleven inches on the level in at least one back yard in Bellefonte. This we'll swear to because we're the fellow who measured it on the walk. At least three inches fell after that. Down on Lamb street West Penn Power workmen claimed it measured 18 inches while 16 inches were shown in several other places. Out at the aviation field the official measurement was 14 inches, but the man in charge of the station who could not get through by automobile and had to walk a mile or more averred that he waded through 22 inches of it. And it wasn't feathery flakes, either, but all of it well water soaked.

State highway crews with their snow plows were unable to cope with the situation and it was Monday afternoon before main routes of travel were opened up. Telephone service, both local and long distance, was disrupted, but was pretty well restored during the day. Telegraph service was also out and was not restored until late Monday evening. Railroad trains were from one to three hours late. Automobiles were stalled on the streets of Bellefonte as well as along the highways. The snow stuck to the trees and was so heavy limbs were broken off. The service of the West Penn Power company was disrupted at several points but not as bad as by the storm several weeks previous.

With a temperature above the freezing point the snow settled considerably on Monday, and the mildly reasonable weather since has taken the bulk of it away. The rains and the snows of the past month have pretty thoroughly soaked the ground but has had no flood effect on the streams.

Meteorologist Parker tells us that the big snow of Sunday night and Monday morning, reduced to its water content, was the equivalent of a rainfall of 1.24 inches of water.

SOME SNOW FALLS, THESE:

Miss Emma Fletcher, of Howard, who returned, last week, from a two month's visit with her sister, Mrs. Ivan Harvey, in Langhorne, measured the snow at one place in their yard, at Howard, last Monday, and found it to be eleven inches deep. By way of comparison she looked up her father's "Record of Events" and found the following interesting statements:

In 1807 three feet of snow fell in one night. In the great snow of 1854, it began to fall April 15th, in the evening, and stopped April 17th, about noon. It snowed 42 inches deep. About eight o'clock April 15th, 1879, snow began to fall and continued through that day, the eleventh and until the evening of the twelfth, in all about forty-eight hours, and to a depth of 33 inches, which is supposed to be the greatest snow fall in ninety years.

DR. ROAN OFFERS ADVICE ON CARE OF THE EYE

Don't be fooled by unscrupulous so-called opticians who advertise bargains in spectacles, says Dr. E. B. Roan, the well known State College and Bellefonte optometrist.

"All glasses look alike. So do a pills and false teeth. It is in whose you cannot see that you win or lose. Eyes are too precious for anyone to select an optometrist with less care than they would a physician or a dentist. They might be only slightly defective without any loss of vision, in the early stage. This is called ametropia and is often the cause of headaches and nervous disorders. Glasses to correct this condition are worthless at any price unless prescribed after a painstaking scientific diagnosis."

"Skilled professional services are within the reach of all, but never found on the bargain counter."

If your eyes trouble you at a you should consult a good optometrist, at once, before the condition becomes serious.

Dr. Roan is always at your service. On Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at her office in State College. On Wednesdays, 2 to 8 p. m., and Saturdays, 10 to 8:30 p. m., in Garbrick building, opposite the court house in Bellefonte.

MacDonald-Uzzell.—A nicely appointed wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Uzzell at Snow Shoe, at three o'clock in the afternoon of March 19th, when their daughter, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Uzzell, was united in marriage to Harold MacDonald, of Fort Wayne, Ind. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Howard Oakwood, of the Presbyterian church. The only attendant were Mr. and Mrs. James Uzzell, Jr. The bride is a graduate nurse of the Protestant Episcopal hospital Philadelphia, and a most capable young woman. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Missouri and holds a good position with the General Electric company, at Fort Wayne, Ind., where the young couple will locate following a brief motor wedding trip.

Jodon-Tharp.—Clifford Jodon, of Bellefonte, and Miss Bessie Tharp, of Williamsport, were married at noon, on Monday, at St. Mark's Lutheran church, Williamsport, by the pastor, Rev. J. Ray Houser, who used the ring ceremony. They were attended by Miss Dorothy Snyder, of Williamsport, and Clarence Stine, of Bellefonte. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Baldwin tea room and later the young couple came to Bellefonte to make their home.
