-Col. Fred Kerr, of Clearfield, will be the first man to represent the reconstructed Twenty-third District of Pennsylvania in Congress.

-Since the Scott-Rossman and the Betz-White fight was wholly a name-calling campaign the outcome of the primaries indicates that the former faction was the glibbest of tongue.

-What Ivar Kruger did to the financial world certainly doesn't inspire much confidence in the master minds of high finance. When "a poor Swede" can take it for the ride he did we're for taking our hat off to him.

In a report sent out last week, by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America it was emphatically stated that flying across Pennsylvania mountains heretofore characterized as "Hell's Stretch" and "Aviator's Graveyard," has become as safe as any other route in the world.

announced that the four trunk aviation lines crossing these mountains have carried a total of 45,460 passengers without injury to a single passenger. Of this total the United Air lines from New York to Cleveland, by way of Bellefonte carried the larger number, 17,457 peop'e. tinental and Western, 13383, and at Shamokin and his pelvis was broken. SPAWLS FROM THE KEYSTONE

-One day brought a big increase in the animal population at the Fred Straub farm at Kitchen Corners, near Greenville. Within a 24-hour period triplets were born to one cow, twins to another, a litter of 15 pigs to a sow and a cat gave birth to six kittens.

-Burglars knocked the combination of a safe in the Standard Oil company office, at Bloomsburg, last Wednesday, and escaped with $500. State police said they found no fingerprints. They reported that efforts of burglars to enter the office of the Hidlay Oil company, nearby, failed.

-An application for a state charter for the Methodist Home for the aged at Tyrone was filed before judge Marion D. Patterson in Hollidaysburg court on Monday for approval. The home has been in existence for approximately 13 years, the first formal application for a charter being made only two months ago.

-John P. Wild, of Sheraden, Pa., parked his car on a grade in Charleroi, on Sunday, leaving it in gear. Another automobile bumped the machine and it ran down the grade, passed four other cars, speeded around a curve, missed a group of children, and ran up a driveway into a garage, the door of which was open.

It was undamaged. Wild then started to As proof of the assertion it was drive the car home. It left the highway and was wrecked against a telephone ,pole

What are Centre countians going to do about helping it over a rough spot?

-Our public schools and Colleges should specialize more on grammar. There was a day when every boy and girl didn't have the advantages of schooling that those of today have; yet we talk to seniors and juniors of our High schools and colleges and even those who are working for Master's degrees in the latter institutions and grit our teeth at their "I seens," "I dones" "I have saws," "he should have dids," "It is me's." You can talk of modern theories of education as much as you like, but there can be no such thing as higher English unless it is founded on the lowly grammar. By the way, what has become of the old-fashioned grammar school?

-On October 26, 1926, Governor Pinchot made public a statement to · the effect that the Republican machine in Pennsylvania was attempting to resume the "contemptible practice that I put an end to four years ago." He was referring to the custom of assessing State office holders for campaign purposes. In the recent primary, which was purely a contest to make him and his aspiring consort the super-Lord and Lordess of Pennsylvania, the "contemptible practice" of making State employees finance their campaign was a horse of another color. The Governor might have risen to great heights in public service to Pennsylvania and the Nation had he sensed that, after all, the public is not so dumb as it appears to be. It knows the difference between the ethics of a statesman and a snake doctor.

-An anonymous correspondent has written to the editor of this paper to know why the Court House grounds are converted into "a livery stable." The communication fell into our hands because the editor has the "pipp" and looks at his mail only semi-occasionally. Let us say for him that the Watchman publishes no unsigned communications. It must have the name and address of all persons who expect to see what they have written published in its columns. The Watchman would be very glad to publish the merited criticism of whoever has charge of the grounds surrounding the Court House and sign it "Citizen and Subscriber," but it must know who the "Citizen and Subscriber" is. As a matter of fact this column raised the very question several times last year and it hoped that when Democrats were put in charge of the County's Capitol there would be an end to making the approach to that stately edifice a parking place.
