

YOUNG DEMOCRATS PLAN FOR NATION-WIDE CLUBS

Eugene W. Burkholder, of Centre Hall, Heads the District in Which Centre County is Grouped.

On the eve of the National Democratic Convention in Chicago, on June 27th, "Young Democrats' Clubs of America" plan to hold a convention of their own. Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, the 34-year-old president of the University of Chicago, has been chosen to deliver the principal address. The choice of Dr. Hutchins in this capacity is significant of a new interest in the connection between education and politics. President Hutchins is a national figure, not only because of the Chicago presidency, but because he has been a pioneer in the work relating to education and politics. Being a youthful executive, organizer and an original thinker, President Hutchins has illustrated the fact that advancement depends upon "not how old a young man is but what he can do." Today this can be applied to politics in a very helpful manner. Both major political parties need young blood—young men who will become statesmen with the best interest of their country as their political objective, instead of selfish political gains. The Democratic party sees the opportunity for the young voters and has taken advantage of it by affecting a national organization of young Democrats.

A group of representative Democrats from every State in the Union met in Washington, last March, to lay plans for the national organization. Many clubs have been organized since then. The rapid development of the organization has led to the calling of this national meeting to formally launch a drive for "A Million Young Democrats by November," and to complete a permanent national organization. Approximately 1500 young Democrats will assemble in Chicago for the convention.

Pennsylvania is a part of the second district, comprising Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. The chairman of this district is Arthur C. Perry, Washington, D. C.; vice-chairman, Miss Kathryn M. Strine, York, Pa. Eugene W. Burkholder, of Centre Hall, has been chosen district supervisor for this section.

Centre county should have a strong organization of young Democrats, and this movement gives Mr. Burkholder an opportunity to effect one that can be made an asset to the party in the county and State. The county organization, together with individual influential men of the party, should co-operate in accomplishing it. May Centre county contribute her proportionate share of "A Million Members by November."

CENTRE COUNTY GIRLS IN 4-H CAMP AT WEIKERT

Eight 4-H club girls and Miss Eleanor J. Smith, home demonstration agent, will represent Centre county at the leadership camp at Weikert this week.

There will be 50 girls and seven chaperones in camp, representing Centre, Snyder, Union and Northumberland counties.
