Departure of Troops. On Monday morning, three companies of infantry, which have been raised in our county and encamped in the Fair Grounds, having received their arms, are about to depart on Sabbath day, in the different churches, that our brave boys, in the event of their arrival at Camp Howe, would experience some delay in procuring rations for the first day of the citizens of Beaver and the neighboring villages immediately set about preparing something for them, and at an early hour a large amount of substantial provisions was deposited at the Court House for their use.

On Sabbath evening, Rev. (now Captain) Ormand delivered an impressive sermon to the volunteers in the P. Church of Beaver.

Early on Monday morning our streets began to be thronged with the soldiers, their friends and relatives, all eager to say farewell to the brave men who, taking their lives in their hands, were going forth to battle for our country. The roll of the drum and shrill whistles of the fife soon collected the soldiers at the point of rendezvous, where, after very little delay, the companies were soon formed into line and took up their departure for the cars at Rochester.

While at Rochester the order to go into Camp Howe was countermanded, and a despatch received ordering them to report at Camp Curtin. The companies remained in Pittsburg until 9 o'clock in the evening, when they started for Harrisburg.

Captain Donohoe's Cavalry company, recruited in this vicinity, left yesterday for Harrisburg. They are a splendid body of men and reflect great credit on their officers. We hope to hear a good account from all our men. The companies are offered as follows:

R. J. Baker Guards: Captain, Richd. P. Roberts; 1st Lieut., John D. Stokes; 2d Lieut., Thos. Henry.

Ormand Rangers: Captain, Marcus Ormand; 1st Lieut., Austin Miller; 2d Lieut., Sam'l Campbell.

Darragh Infantry: Captain, James Darragh; 1st Lieut., Wm. M'Callister; 2d Lieut., Geo. Shallenberger.

Irwin Cavalry: Captain, D. M. Donohoe; 1st Lieut., J. Q. Anderson; 2d Lieut., John Swaney.

Nomination of Hon. J. W. WALLACE. The Conferees of this district, embracing the counties of Lawrence, Beaver, Washington and Greene, met on the 25th ult., at the Monongahela House in Pittsburg, and unanimously nominated Hon. J. W. Wallace, our present able and worthy member, for re-election. He will be elected without doubt.

Colonel Quay.

We mentioned last week that M. S. Quay, Esq., of this place, so long and favorably known in this community, had been commissioned Colonel of the 134th Regiment, which is now in the service, camped upon Arlington Heights. It is useless to say anything in commendation of his character as a first class business man, or a brave and competent officer. He has filled several important positions with marked ability, being twice chosen by the people of Beaver county as their Prothonotary. Upon the breaking out of the rebellion he resigned his office, assisted in raising a company, in which he served as First Lieutenant. He was then appointed Assistant Commissary General of the State, afterwards private Secretary to the Governor, and now, when duty calls, he resigns that position and enters again into active service. We can, therefore, congratulate the 134th upon their choice of a Colonel, feeling assured that if an opportunity is offered that they can confidently repose their trust in the skill and bravery of their leader in the hour of fierce conflict upon the battle field. Upon his taking command of the Regiment he was presented with a magnificent uniform, sword, and other accoutrements, by General W. W. Irwin. Surely the General could not have bestowed the handsome and valuable present upon one more deserving. They had long been connected in business and official relations, and it is only a mark of respect toward Col. Quay which he merited in the affections of Gen. Irwin. We predict for the Colonel a brilliant career as an officer. May he live to pass through the hardships of war, distinguish himself in the service of his country, return to the enjoyment of the society of his numerous friends, and spend a good old age when the rebellion shall have passed away.

Sword Presentation.

On Friday evening the 29th ult., a sword was presented to Captain James Darragh of Sharon, who left on Monday morning with his company for Camp Curtin. The exercises took place in the M. E. Church in Bridgewater. The presentation speech was made by Rev. J. S. Bracken and is represented to have been a very happy effort. Capt. Darragh is a gallant fellow, and has a splendid company, which will no doubt do good service in our country's cause. On Saturday 1st Lieut. Wm. McCallister of the same company received a handsome sword from his late employer, Capt. Darragh.

Two more swords were also presented to Capt. Donohoe and Lieut. Anderson, of the Irwin Cavalry. They were presented in the Presbyterian Church in Beaver—the former by Rev. Cunningham and the latter by Rev. Dr. McLean. Several other speeches were made, and every thing passed off pleasantly.

Recruiting for the 10th Regt.

We learn that Capt. M. R. Adams of Co. F, 10th Regiment Pennsylvania Reserves, has opened a recruiting office in Rochester. No better officer need one want to go with than Captain Adams. He has been tried, and proved himself a brave and efficient officer, and besides this he is an accomplished gentleman in every sense of the word, and treats his soldiers as MEN. Capt. Adams will enlist men for any old Pennsylvania Regiment now in the field.

Agricultural Notice.

The Board of managers of the Beaver County Agricultural Society met at the Office of the Secretary on Saturday the 29th inst. Members present: J. C. Wilson, President, Briggs, Boden, Wolf, Anderson, Goodring, Brittain, Stewart, Leaf and Noss. After some considerable discussion upon the subject, it was unanimously agreed that the Society hold their Annual Fair this fall, as usual.

The following resolution was then passed by the Managers, viz:

Resolved, That in consideration of the distracted state of our Country at this time, we consider it inexpedient to have horse racing at our Agricultural Fair this Fall, therefore the premiums of $100, $50, and $25 be discontinued at this time.

By order of Board of Managers, A. G. McCRAE, Sec'y. BEAVER, Aug. 30, 1862.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Lexington, Ky., was evacuated this afternoon, our troops falling back on Covington. All the stores were removed to Louisville. At seven to-night the Lexington operator closed his office, saying that Kirby Smith had appeared in the suburbs and demanded the surrender of the city which was complied with by the citizens.

There is a good deal of excitement here at Cincinnati, but preparations are making for defense. Gen. Lew Wallace has assumed command of the troops. Regiments are arriving, and are on route.

Gen. Cooran's Enlistment.

To show how Gen. Cooran edarred his imprisonment from the first to the last, we reproduce the following paragraph, published by the Richmond Dispatch shortly after the Bull Run disaster:

"We hear of but one account, with few exceptions, from all the prisoners taken by our men everywhere, and that is that they came without any intention of fighting the South, but were compelled to unite in the invading movement, and that if they were home they would never be caught in such a scrape again. The last assertion may be true, but not a word of the rest. The circumstances under which they left the North are known to the South as well as to themselves; and their very name and organization, volunteers, contradict every word they utter. We confess we have more respect for the most impudent among them. Col. Cooran, for example, who, we understand, says: 'I went into the business with my whole soul, and I wouldn't take my parole if they'd give it to me.'"

The following are the Resolutions passed at the Mass Meeting, in Beaver, on the 21st ult.

WHEREAS, the exigencies of our National affairs have rendered it imperatively necessary for the Government to put forth its mightiest efforts for the speedy and complete overthrow of the gigantic rebellion now raging in our country; and whereas, the President of the United States has deemed it advisable to call out an additional force of 600,000 men; and whereas, our County Commissioners, in a spirit of patriotism and liberality, have offered a bounty to those of our citizens, who are now responding so promptly and nobly to the calls of duty, and rallying so enthusiastically to the rescue of our imperiled country and its cherished and beneficent institutions. Therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the citizens of Beaver County, now in County Meeting assembled, do hereby heartily endorse and ratify the action of the Commissioners in offering a liberal bounty to those among us who are now springing to arms with an alacrity unparalleled, and manifesting a heroic disposition to lay down their lives, if need be, in defense of the rights, liberties and franchises of our Nation; feeling assured that the State Legislature will cheerfully and unhesitatingly legalize any action, or any expenditure which may be made in furtherance of so praise-worthy and patriotic object.

Resolved, That this meeting respectfully recommend to our County Commissioners the propriety of offering and paying a bounty to every citizen of this County volunteering in any Regiment, either belonging to this, or any other State, provided such volunteer is duly credited to our County, and made part of the quota which we will be called upon to make up.

Drafting in Pennsylvania.

To the Editor of the Philadelphia Press: Can any of your numerous subscribers—and I feel assured that some among the many thousand daily readers of The Press must know—inform me on two very important points in regard to drafting, the time for which is slowly but certainly approaching? I wish to know if those men who are drafted will be ruled by men appointed their officers, or will they be granted the privilege of selecting their own officers from among themselves? And further, when a man is drafted, will he have to go into a new or old regiment, just where he is put, or may he express a preference, with any hope of his wishes being respected? By answering these inquiries, you will, I know, confer a great favor on many, and one who may be DEARED.

1. Under the existing laws, drafted men, when formed into regiments, elect their line officers, i. e. captains and lieutenants, from among themselves, but the Governor reserves the right to commission such persons. The field and staff officers are chosen by the Governor, and commissioned by him.

2. Drafted men have no rights whatever. The Government can, at pleasure, form them into new regiments or put them here and there about in old regiments now in the field, and in the last war, a doctor of divinity fought at New Orleans between a negro and a German street-sweeper, it is said.—Ed. PAZZA.

ALLEXANDRIA, August 28.—A gentleman who arrived here to-night reports that Gen. Taylor, in the engagement yesterday, was so severely wounded that he may have to admit to an amputation of the right leg. This morning about half past eight o'clock, Stewart's rebel cavalry made a dash through Fairfax Court House on their way to Vienna, which is about thirteen miles from Washington.

The Union people of that section have all fled to the latter city. A fight was going on to-day, it is reported, at Manassas.

Heintzleman, from Pope's advance, had it is rumored got in Jackson's rear. He is supposed to have a force of 20,000. The firing was heard distinctly at Alexandria.

MANASSAS JUNCTION, August 28, 10 p. m.—To Major General Halleck, Commander in Chief.—As soon as I discovered that a large force of the enemy was turning our right towards Manassas, and that the division I had ordered to take post there two days before had not yet arrived, there from Alexandria I immediately broke up my camp at Warrenton Junction and marched back in three columns. I directed M'Dowell with his own and Sigel's corps and Reno's Division to march upon Gainesville by the Warrenton and Alexandria pike. Reno and one division of Heintzleman's was to march on Green-wich and with Porter's corps and Hooker's division, I marched back to Manassas Junction. M'Dowell was ordered to intercept between the force of the enemy, which had passed down Manassas through Gainesville, and his main body, moved down from White Plains through Thoroughfare Gap. This was completely accomplished—Longstreet, who had passed through the Gap, having been driven back to the west side.

The forces sent to Greenwich were designed to support M'Dowell in case he met too large a force of the enemy. The division of Hooker, in marching towards Manassas, came upon the enemy near Kettle Run, on the afternoon of the 27th, and after a sharp action routed them, completely killing and capturing three hundred, and capturing their camps and baggage, and many stands of arms.

This morning the command pushed rapidly to Manassas Junction, which Jackson had evacuated three hours in advance. He retreated to Centerville, and took the turnpike toward Wilkesbarre. He was met when six miles west of Centerville by the forces under Generals M'Dowell and Sigel. Late this afternoon a severe fight took place which has been terminated by the darkness.

The enemy was driven back at all points, and thus the affair rests. Heintzleman's corps will move on tonight at daylight from Centerville, and I do not see how he is to escape without heavy loss.

We have captured a thousand prisoners, many arms, and one piece of artillery.

HEADQUARTERS FIELD OF BATTLE, GREENVILLE, VA., August 30.—Franklin's Rebels General in Chief's battle yesterday with the combined forces of the enemy, which lasted with continuous fury from daylight until after dark, by which time the enemy was driven from the field which we now occupy.

Our troops are too much exhausted yet to push matters, but I shall do it in the course of the morning, as soon as Fitz John Porter's corps comes up from Manassas. The enemy are still on our front but they are badly used up.

We have not less than eight thousand men in killed and wounded. From the appearance of the field the enemy's loss is at least 1500 to our one.

He stood strictly on the defensive, and every assault was made by ourselves. Our troops behaved splendidly.

The battle was fought on the identical field of Bull Run, which fact greatly increased the enthusiasm of our men.

The news just reaches me from the front that the enemy is retreating towards the Mountains. I go forward at once to see.

We have made great captures, but I am not able yet to form an idea of their extent.

JOHN POPE, Maj. Gen.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Information has reached Washington from private sources that Gen. Pope came up with and attacked the enemy again shortly after nine o'clock this morning. Fitz John Porter had probably by that time arrived on the field from Manassas, which was only seven miles distant. The cannonading was distinctly heard in Washington to-day.

The railroad was regularly run this morning from the town of Warrenton to Bristol; so it is already clear that the only damage remaining to be repaired to the railroad is to rebuild the Bull Run and Rappahannock bridges. The former should be completed to-night, and the latter may be in four or five days.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The rebels were heavily reinforced yesterday, and attacked Pope's army before the arrival of Generals Franklin and Sumner. The attack was boldy met, and a severe battle followed. The advantage on the whole was on the side of the enemy. Pope fell back to Centerville with his whole army in good order. He has now been joined at Centerville by Gen. Franklin, and Sumner was on the march to him last night. He occupies the strongest position in the vicinity of Washington, and is expected promptly to renew the contest and the successes of Friday. Every effort should be used to hasten the forwarding of our troops.

Col. Fletcher Webster of the 12th Massachusetts regiment, was mortally wounded in the battle of Saturday and has since died.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—A special issue of the Press, dated near Centerville, August 31st, 6 p. m., says: Last evening, at five o'clock, M'Dowell's left flank was turned, it is said, by a body of rebel cavalry, supposed to be five thousand strong. M'Dowell's corps being on the left of our army at the time, and the rebel cavalry being supported by infantry, M'Dowell's corps was almost instantly swept away.

The charge was fearful. Our officers say that it exceeded in fierce impetuosity anything they ever saw, or heard, or read of in history. This morning there was a report, how true I know not, that the ground lost by this charge has been regained. This is improbable.
