"STONEWALL JACKSON'S WAY."

[The following stanzas were found on the person of a rebel Sergeant of the "Stonewall Brigade," recently captured by our troops near Winchester, Va.]

Wellington's Strategy.—On a certain occasion during Wellington's campaign on the Peninsula, the "Great Captain" being displeas'd with the dispositions Gen. Blicton had made for receiving the assault of Marshal Scott, who menaced him in front, or dored the plan to be entirely changed.

A BEAUFUL REFLECTION.—But we commonly say: "I cannot believe that earth's man's abiding place, it can't be that our life is cast up by the ocean of eternity to float a moment upon its waves and then sink into nothingness!"

An Irishman, catching a thief's hand in his pocket at the post office the other day, knocked the rascal down, and began to trample on his carcass as if he were dancing a Far-downer's jig.

The War Upon the Administration.

The most amusing exhibition of the present day is the attempt of the Breckinridge Democracy to dictate a policy to the present Administration, and there is no current literature more interesting and attractive than the numerous plans for peace and conciliation that we see in their journals.

But, alas for the hopes of these wise and good men! there was a general superstition throughout the North—that we had a country—a history—a race—a Constitution—homes—tariffs—and all the blessings of liberty and constitutional order.

They have declared their purpose, and opened their campaign. They are building batteries around Fort Sumter. Let us, they say, demand from the President the suspension of his proclamation of Emancipation.

And, finally, why is it that bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view, and then, taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affections flow back in Alpine torrents upon our hearts?

A Wife on the Battlefield.

The following extract from a letter dated at Corinth, Miss., has been published. It is a woman's thoughts which were the mind of an observer during the progress of a battle, and narrates, but one of the many harrowing scenes of war which, if described, would seem "stranger than fiction."

On the morning of the 3d instant the fight began. The attack was made on Gen. McArthur's division, and we could plainly hear the roar of the artillery here, as it is only about two miles and a half distant from that place.

EXEMPTS FROM FUTURE DRAFT.—It has been decided that if a person has been drafted and furnishes a substitute who is under age or an alien, he is free from all future drafts.

TALLEYRAND and ARNOLD.

There was a day when Talleyrand came to have on foot from Paris. It was the darkest hour of the Revolution. Pursued by the blood-hounds of this reign of terror, Talleyrand secured a passage to America in a ship about to sail.

He pointed the way, and Talleyrand, who, in his life, was Bishop, Prince and Minister, ascended the stairs. A miserable supplicant, he stood before the stranger's room, knocked and entered.

THE CAP OF LIBERTY.—The explanation of the cap of liberty is this: "After the death of Cesar, the conspirators, who had secured his death, marched out with a cap as a sign of liberty, carried before them on a pole, and the tyrant had lost his power."

From Europe.

The news from Europe, brought by the Arabia, settles the question of mediation and of intervention by the European Powers in our affairs for the present, at least, if not altogether.

PARSON BROWNLOW WAS CHALLENGED.—Parson Brownlow, in his speech at Chicago, recently, told low he was once challenged to mortal combat by a secessionist, and the result, he said:

GEN. LOAN, OF MISSOURI.—The Chicago Tribune having classified Gen. Loan, Congressman elected from the St. Joseph District, as a Democratic and anti-Emancipationist, the St. Joe Herald of the 10th puts in the following rejoinder:

DEAD LETTERS.

It has been the habit of the dead letter office to send back only those letters that contained matters of value; but for the past year the experiment has been tried of sending all letters, and the result has been very satisfactory.
