

TERMS—One Dollar and Fifty Cents per annum, in advance...

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

The New-York Tribune, first published in 1841, in its twenty-second year, has obtained both a larger and more widely diffused circulation than any other newspaper ever published in America...

Aggregate—215,875. Presently a Journal of News and of Literature. The Tribune has political convictions which are well characterized by the simple word REPUBLICAN.

Where are the Copperheads? Go look upon the battle-field. Where shot and shell fly fast, Where Freedom's stirring battle-ary Is heard upon the blast...

Meaning and Use of Bayous. We have heard and read of late a great deal about bayous, and many people don't know what to make of them, nor whether they are fish, flesh, fowl or red herrings.

VERY LIKE JOHN BULL.—In the last number of the London Quarterly, the writer of an article on Kinglake's Crimea, thus confesses: "England was awakened from the lethargy which a long continuance of peace in Europe had brought upon her."

Union Hotel, BEAVER, PENN'A.

ALEX. CLARK, PROPRIETOR. In addition to the conveniences of a first class Hotel, the Proprietor has fitted up in his house, in a complete and satisfactory manner, an OYSTER SALOON...

BEAVER ARGUS.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

Advertisements inserted at the rate of 75 cents per square each week...

FROM THE CHICAGO COMMERCIAL.

Where are the Copperheads? Go look upon the battle-field. Where shot and shell fly fast, Where Freedom's stirring battle-ary Is heard upon the blast...

Go search the crowded hospital Where ghastly wounds are seen, Which tell through what a struggle fierce, Those noble men have been...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

Go where the look can scarce be seen The treason of the heart; And where the tongue would willingly Defend the traitor's part...

DOES THE BIBLE SANCTION SUCH A PRINCIPLE?

We quote again from the Bishop's fourth proof, however, is yet more express, as it is derived from the clearest rule established by the wisdom of God for his chosen people, Israel, on the very point in question...

It is here said that God directs the separation of man and wife; to subvert the ends of slavery. The marriage institution is of God, and he said, when he formed it, "The twain shall be one flesh."

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

Christ has said it is only for the crime of adultery that the contract can be broken. It seems to me that the teaching of Christ, and the Bishop, do not harmonize.

General Lee and his Slaves.

The following article from a private letter by a young man connected with the Army of the Potomac to his father in Massachusetts, and published in the Boston Journal, gives some facts concerning the rebel General Lee and the treatment of his slaves, which forcibly illustrates this brutalizing system of slavery.

Sometimes ago I called on one of Gen. Lee's old slaves, to find out what I could of that highly-praised man. I am going to see him again when an opportunity presents itself.

This slave, now a man, and a Christian, is quite intelligent, and can tell a straight-forward story as clearly as any one. General Lee, was more dear to his slaves than any of his officers.

He had carriages, plate, and all the equipage of a proud Virginia aristocrat. He was almost worshipped by the gay, the haughty, the renowned and gifted. His position was envied, his name honored.

One day the slaves had been worked unusual hard. It had rained furiously all day, and I know what a Virginia rain is.

The overseer General Lee ordered them to be whipped at a certain hour the next day. All the slaves were assembled to see the flogging.

My hopes of the future welfare and greatness of the American Republic were so high as in this, to superficial appearances, the darkest hour of its history.

Eleven Rebellions. Since the organization of the Federal Government, eleven attempts have been made to resist its authority.

When a Hindoo priest is about to baptize an infant, he utters the following beautiful sentiment: "Little baby, thou enterest the world weeping, while all around thee smile, contrive so to live that thou may depart in smiles while all around you weep."

Do one thing at a time—the slave's rule. When you have done that, then your neighbors then begin to say your prayers.

IS THE WAR A FAILURE?

The croaking organs of the more outspoken wing of the Copperhead party are proclaiming, with all the vehemence of which they are capable, that the war for the suppression of the rebellion has proved a failure, and that it is useless and cruel to continue the bloody strife, when there is no longer any hope of accomplishing the object for which it has been waged.

It would be a waste of time to refute such an assertion, if it were not for the fact that many have been disappointed with regard to the time which they supposed would be required to defeat the armies of the insurgents, and compel them to return to their obedience to the National Government.

General Lee and his Slaves. The following article from a private letter by a young man connected with the Army of the Potomac to his father in Massachusetts, and published in the Boston Journal, gives some facts concerning the rebel General Lee and the treatment of his slaves, which forcibly illustrates this brutalizing system of slavery.

Sometimes ago I called on one of Gen. Lee's old slaves, to find out what I could of that highly-praised man. I am going to see him again when an opportunity presents itself.

This slave, now a man, and a Christian, is quite intelligent, and can tell a straight-forward story as clearly as any one. General Lee, was more dear to his slaves than any of his officers.

He had carriages, plate, and all the equipage of a proud Virginia aristocrat. He was almost worshipped by the gay, the haughty, the renowned and gifted. His position was envied, his name honored.

One day the slaves had been worked unusual hard. It had rained furiously all day, and I know what a Virginia rain is.

The overseer General Lee ordered them to be whipped at a certain hour the next day. All the slaves were assembled to see the flogging.

My hopes of the future welfare and greatness of the American Republic were so high as in this, to superficial appearances, the darkest hour of its history.

Eleven Rebellions. Since the organization of the Federal Government, eleven attempts have been made to resist its authority.

Presidents' Wives.

The inner circles of what may be called the Presidential society have always been the subject of much comment and gossip among what may be termed the outer circles.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

When the late President Adams was in Washington, "Show-and-a-half" herself to all. Not by what she is so much noted by what she is not, and makes up cordially the shortcomings of an early education.

An English Traveler's Idea of Secession.

I cannot think that rebellion on the part of the South was justified by wrongs endured, or made reasonable by the prospect of wrongs to be inflicted. It is disgraceful that having to live with a wife who is always rebuking one for some special fault; but the outside world will not grant a divorce on that account, especially if the outside world is well aware that the fault so rebuked is of daily occurrence.

If you do not choose to be called a drunkard by your wife, the outside world will say, "it will be well that you should cease to drink." And that habit of drinking, when once acquired, cannot easily be laid aside.

The brain will not work; the organs of the body will not perform their functions; the blood will not run. The drunkard must drink till he dies. All that may be a good ground for divorce, the outside world will say; but the plea should be put in by the sober wife, not by the intemperate husband.

Before being taken prisoner I was somewhat under the impression that we could never whip the South. Since taking a free trip to Richmond, I come to the firm conclusion that we are whipping them every day, and that the time is not far distant when they will have to knock under, whether our army advances or not. You would be astonished to see the miserable condition they are in.

A farmer, more celebrated for his fine stock than a good education, wrote to the secretary of an agricultural society in regard to entering his animals for the premiums offered, and added as a postscript as follows: "All I can enter me for the best jackass. I am sure of taking the premium."

William, said a teacher to one of his pupils, can you tell me why the sun rises in the east? Don't know, sir, replied William, 'cept it be that the east makes everything rise.

A SLY SENTENCE TO BE SHOT—Sergeon W. S. Wright, of the rebel army, having been found concealed in a house at St. Louis, Mo., with a rebel mail, large quantities of morphine, quinine, and gold lace in his possession, intended for rebel service, has been tried as a spy and sentenced to be shot.

Young women should set good examples for young men are always following them.

A REBEL COMPLAINT.—The Charleston South Carolina Courier has heard of "an office that should be abolished." It is the Passport office that issues permits to the Yankees to pass Vicksburg.