WAITING FOR MAY.

Oh! my heart is weary waiting, Waiting for the May; Waiting for the pleasant rambles, Where the fragrant Hawthorn brambles, With the wondrous blossoming, Scents the dewy way.

THE ENROLLMENT BILL.

The Amendatory Enrollment Bill, as it passed both Houses of Congress, and now awaits the President's signature, provides that the President of the United States shall be authorized, whenever he shall deem it necessary during the present war, to call for such number of men for the military service as the public exigencies may require. The quota of each ward of a city, town, township, precinct or election district of a county, where the county is not thus divided, shall be as nearly as possible in proportion to the number of men resident therein liable to render military service, taking into account as far as practicable, the number which has been previously furnished.

For their notification of such draft, to enlist in the naval service, as a seaman and be exempt from the draft. Any person law in the military service of the United States who shall furnish satisfactory proof that he is a mariner by vocation or an able seaman, may enlist into the navy under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the President of the United States; provided that such enlistment shall not be less than the unexpired term of his military service, nor for less than one year, and the bounty which any mariner or seaman enlisting from the army into the navy may have received from the United States, or from the State in which he enlisted in the army, shall be deducted from the prize money to which he may become entitled during the time required to complete his military service; and provided further that the whole number of such transfer enlistments shall not exceed 10,000. Enlistments in the naval service are to be credited to the draft.

Any persons who shall procure, or attempt to procure a false report from the Surgeon of the Board of Enrollment, concerning the physical condition of any drafted person, or a decision in favor of such person by the Board of Enrollment upon a claim to exemption, knowing the same to be false, shall, upon conviction in any district or circuit court of the United States, be punished by imprisonment for the period for which the party was drafted. The tea of agents and attorneys for making out and causing to be executed papers in support of a claim for exemption from draft, or any service rendered to the claimant, shall not in any case exceed five dollars, and physicians or surgeons furnishing certificates of disability, and any officer, clerk or deputy connected with the Board of Enrollment who shall receive compensation from any drafted man for any service, or obtaining the performance of such service, required from any member of the Board by the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction be fined, not exceeding five hundred dollars, and shall also be subject to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, at the discretion of the Court.

Gov. Griswold's daughter, the young and beautiful Hetty Marvin, was the daughter of Gov. Griswold's cousin, when her hunted friend sprang past her into the road to escape from his pursuers. Hetty was a timid child of about twelve years, yet thoughtful and wise beyond many of her elders. She was frightened by the heading hasty with which the Governor rushed across the meadow. But she quickly comprehended the scene; and instantly quieted her faithful Towser, who, though a friend of the family, seemed to be becoming barked loudly at his hurried steps. Her wise forethought arrested the Governor's notice, and suggested a scheme to delude his pursuers. "Hetty," he said, earnestly, "I am flying for my life; and unless I can reach my boat before am overtaken, I am a lost man. You see the road forks here. Now I want to run down this way to the river. But you must tell the rascals who are chasing me, that I have gone up the road to catch the mail-wagon, which will soon be along, you know. Then they will turn off the other way."

"Child," he said, sternly, "have you seen a man running away hereabouts?" "Yes, sir," replied Hetty, trembling and flushing. "Which way did he go?" "I promised not to tell, sir." "But you must, or take the consequences." "I said I wouldn't tell you if you killed me," sobbed the frightened girl. "I'll have it out of her," exclaimed the furious officer, with an oath. "Let me speak to her," said his Toady guide. "Her name Hetty Marvin?" he asked pleasantly. "Yes, sir." "And this man who ran by you a few minutes ago, was your mother's cousin, wasn't he?" "Yes, sir, he was." "Well, you are friends of his—what did he say to you when he came along?" "He told me—that he was flying for his life."

Extremes Meet.

The Richmond Dispatch, which through some means has received a copy of McClellan's report, publishes copious extracts in its columns. When it first appeared, the Democratic papers of the North lauded it as a production eminently and undoubtedly patriotic. It is singular, but the Richmond editors use similar spectacles in viewing national affairs. The report was printed in the papers of the rebel capital, in columns decorated with headings sufficiently flaming and volubrious to do justice to the New York Herald and the countless editions of the Inquiry. It is strange, but while the Democratic press misrepresented and abuse the Government and its policies, the rebels, take the same view. When the charges are made that the Northern Democrats of the peace persuasion are killed to Southern rebels, the assertions are indignantly denied. Yet, "similar men hold similar views"—how is it? TRAGEDY IN KENTUCKY.

From the Louisville Democrat. In the Democrat, a few days since, we made brief mention of the killing of Lieut. M. A. Hogan, of the 8th Michigan Infantry, at Camp Nelson, by Capt. Crandall, who is under arrest. He has been brought to this city, and is now confined in Barracks No. 1. We yesterday paid him a visit, and learned from him the very interesting particulars of the fatal affair. The facts of the case, as related to us, are about as follows: On the 18th of January last, Capt. Crandall, who was stationed in Greensburg, in this State, was ordered to report at Knoxville. Not having seen his wife for a long time, Captain Crandall sent word to her at Russellville, at which place she was stopping, to come and see him. She left Russellville and proceeded as far as Lebanon, where she met Lieut. Hogan, who pretended to be very intimate with her husband, and offered to escort her to Campbellville, as he was going there in a buggy. Mrs. Crandall supposing Lieut. Hogan to be a friend of her husband, gladly accepted his company. The two left Lebanon together, and when a short distance out, Hogan commenced driving at such a rapid rate as to frighten the lady, and she desired him to drive slower; but he turned it off by saying that he was in a hurry, and that there was no danger. After driving for some time they came to a vacant house, where Hogan halted and ordered the lady to get out of the buggy, which she resolutely refused to do. Hogan then, with pistol drawn, threatened to kill her if she did not obey him. She still remained and Hogan jerked her out of the buggy, and by force took her into the house, where he outraged her person. He then started forward, and when night came they stopped at a country house. Hogan there compelled the lady to mass herself for the night.
