THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE gives a table exhibiting the curious fact that out of the one hundred and twenty members of which the rebel House of Representatives consists, when full, fifty-two or nearly half are credited to districts now controlled by the Union arms. General Rice's Last Letter... The lamented Gen. James C. Rice, on the eve of the late battle in Virginia (in one of which he was killed) addressed to his aged mother the following beautiful and affecting letter: "We are about to commence the campaign of the greatest magnitude, strength and importance since the beginning of the war. God grant that this wicked rebellion may be crushed, our Union preserved, and peace and prosperity again be restored to our beloved country. My faith and hope and confidence are in God alone, and I know that you will be graciously spared to life, as has been the case of your father, who cannot fall 600 miles from being Christ, he dies for his country. My entire hope is in the arms of my Saviour. In this hope I am always happy. We pray here in the army for you, just the same as at home. The same God who watches over you, also guards me. I always remember you in my prayers, and I know you never forget me in yours. All that I am, under God, I owe to you, my dear mother. Do you recollect this passage in the Bible: 'Thou shalt keep thyself from idols, that it may be well with thee, and thy children after thee.' How true this is in respect to your children, mother. I hope you will read the Bible and trust the promises to the last. There is no book like the Bible for comfort. It is a guide to the steps of the journey—a staff to the aged. 'Well my dear mother, good-bye. We are going again to our duty, to bravely offer up our life for that of our country, and through God we shall do bravely. With much love and many prayers, that whatever may be done, we may meet in Heaven at last, I am your very affectionate son. JAMES."

Gen. George H. Thomas... A correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer says: "Gen. Thomas is among his men all the time when in battle, sitting on his stool like a grim old warrior as he is, whom neither success nor disaster can move. He is a man of a most peculiar character, and his presence in the army, especially in the most dangerous positions, is an advantage to the cause. Mr. Lincoln was about the last man in Washington to hear of the nomination on Thursday. A dispatch was sent to him, but it failed to reach him, announcing that he was nominated by acclamation. Towards night he was looking over the war telegrams in Mr. Stanton's office, when a dispatch was brought to him stating that he had been nominated as Vice President. Mr. Lincoln asked a Vice Presidential nomination to him, and in astonishment he had not heard who was nominated for President, and Mr. Lincoln replied that he had not heard of the nomination, and that he had not heard of the nomination of the Convention at that time.
