Under Which King?
 Was ever cynical indifference so right and wrong more candidly avowed than in the following from the last number of the London Punch.—"To speak confidentially, and on the understanding that things go no further, the case is this: If we were to know which way the war was going, it would be certain that the glorious and almighty bird of heaven, the waves its alabaster wings in Washington, and smiles on all who are enlightened, would triumph over those savage, disloyal, ferocious rebels; those stealers and floggers of men and women; those ruffians, assassins, and what not, who should know what to do. But if that resolute and gallant band of Confederate gentlemen, who have withdrawn from the vulgar and tyrannical Yankees, and sided by their faithful colored vassals, have maintained so noble a resistance against the loafers, jobbers, miscreants, scoundrels, and apaves of the North; if these Southern patriots should establish their independence—why—what would do homage to them, of course."

What Gen. Grant Thinks.
 The country would probably give more to know what Gen. Grant thinks of his present situation than for the opinion of all the newspapers in the country. On this point, fortunately we are not without light. The President returned from a brief visit to Grant Friday. A Washington dispatch of that date says: "The President speaks to-day of the condition of army matters in the very highest terms of confidence. He says that General Grant feels as certain of success as though it were already an accomplished fact. He did not importune the President for more troops, or complain of want of support, but reports that all goes well." Another dispatch of the same date says: "There is the highest authority for the statement that Gen. Grant gave the President, when at his headquarters, the assurance of the certainty of his taking Richmond." Let the country trust Grant—and back him up!

From Bedford county.
 In this State, we have an evidence of one of the methods resorted to by copperheads to help the Southern traitors, in the following published in the copperhead organ at Bedford.
 "At the present writing, (6th inst.) the result of Grant's campaign against Richmond remains in doubt. Already he has lost as many men as composed McClellan's entire army when that General marched up the Peninsula. The loss of the Federal army, according to telegraphic report, cannot fall much short of 100,000 men, killed, wounded and missing. There has been about thirteen days of fighting, including the small battles fought by Gen. Butler, which would average the loss of about 8,000 per day."
 These are the kind of arguments used to keep up the spirits of the rank and file of the party, and these are also the arguments used to keep up the spirits of the rank and file of the rebel army, and secure victories over the Union troops.

Prices in Georgia.
 A correspondent with Sherman's army gives the following prices current in Georgia: Wages per day, plowing or splitting rails, $5; flour per barrel, $100; corn per bush., $2; bacon per lb., $3; sweet potatoes per bush., $10; coffee per lb., $16—none since the war; eggs per dozen, $2.50 and $3; rice per lb., $1; Cheese—none to be had since the war; a good cow with young calf, $500; a good horse $4,000 to $5,000; syrup per gallon, $20; a negro man, $4,000 to $5,000; a negro woman, $2,800; calico per yard, $5; thin cotton, homespun, 810 per yard; cotton, domestic checks, $10 per yard; women's shoes, per pair, $40, coarse; men's shoes, per pair, $50, coarse; ladies' shoes, fine, per pair, $100—none to be had; cotton-cards, per pair, $70; nails, per pound, $3; horse-shoes, per set, $8; jugs, per gallon, $1; milk, per cantenfull, $2; butter, per pound, $2.

GRANT AND THE PRESIDENCY.
 In commenting upon the possibility of Gen. Grant, in a certain contingency, accepting the nomination for the Presidency, the Milwaukee Sentinel says that it "knows from perfectly reliable sources that Gen. Grant has peremptorily refused, in advance, any offer of the Presidency. He replied to those who were seeking to learn his views on the subject, that while the war lasted no earthly inducement could take him voluntarily from his present position, and that even should the war come to a speedy conclusion he would be the most ungrateful of men to run against Mr. Lincoln. This declaration comes to us through the most trustworthy sources, and affords thus conclusive proof that Gen. Grant has fully decided not to enter the political arena. And those who know him, know that he is not apt to waver when he has made up his mind one way or the other."

Old Marm G.
 was never regarded as a paragon of neatness, and if cleanliness is next to godliness, as St. Paul asserts, it is to be feared that the old lady never attained to the latter state. Not only was she anything but neat herself, but she showed a sovereign contempt of it in others. Speaking of neat people, one day, she remarked that her son Joshua was one of the most particular men in the world.
 "Why," said she, "he threw away a whole cup of coffee the other morning because it had a bad bug in it."
