BEAVER SEMINARY AND INSTITUTE.
Monday next is the opening of the school. If you desire to fit your son or daughter for life by a thorough and complete education, send them to this institution. It would fit yourself as well as others. If you are not able to meet the expense, and are worthy, the Trustees will wait on you. It would have the best and most scientific instruction in music, attend to their studies.

"THE FAMILY TREASURY" is a religious and literary monthly, edited and published in Pittsburg, by David M. Kinney, D.D., and I. N. McKinney, Secretary. It contains a variety of interesting and instructive articles, and is published in a neat and elegant style. It is a most valuable household in our country, as it is adapted to enlighten the understanding, please the fancy, piously affect the heart, and lead the soul to the Saviour. Terms: (per annum in advance) three copies to one person, $5.00; five do., $7.50; ten do., $12.00; twenty do., $20.00. Address: D. & I. N. McKinney, Pittsburg, Pa.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.—We congratulate the readers of the Pittsburgh Gazette on its improved appearance. It has put on a suit of new and beautiful type. It was established so long ago as 1783, and, as we believe, is the oldest newspaper west of the Allegheny mountains. It has lately produced a Four Cylinder Hoe Press, which is capable of printing ten thousand sheets an hour. The Gazette is to be honored for its age, but more for its steady and consistent course in advocating correct political principles. May a proper support never be wanting to maintain its vigorous old age.

Paul, the Apostle, speaks of Luke as the "beloved physician," and few ever get themselves to us more than those who like "mild-curing angels," bring the healing balm in sickness. So it is with medicines that cure, though we never see the maker, yet we get a feeling of regard for him through how many have reason to bless Dr. Ayer for his invaluable remedies, so cheap and yet so efficient. What public benefactors better deserve esteem than those who rescue the body from disease and premature death?—Pittsburgh (N. H.) Gazette.

Subscriptions to the Argus received since the month of November.

Pardon of Jesse Campbell.
Jesse Campbell, convicted at the November Sessions of Assault and Battery on Gratton M. Kenzie, son of Wm. E. M. Kenzie, of Vanport, and sentenced to three months imprisonment, was pardoned by the Governor on Wednesday last, and released from imprisonment on Thursday, by the Sheriff. His guilt was admitted by him, and in consequence of the dangerous illness of his only child, and his personal good character, the petition for his pardon was numerous signed by our best citizens, even the prosecutor joining in the prayer. Having paid one hundred and twenty-five dollars cost, and suffered imprisonment for a fortnight, he has probably received a warning he will never forget, and the Governor perhaps did well to pardon him. It is not our purpose now to either approve or condemn this act of Executive clemency; but this being the third or fourth pardon granted convicted criminals of this county during the last year, we feel it a duty to caution law-abiding citizens against signing every petition for pardon that is presented—a custom beginning quite prevalent of late. The right to pardon vested in the Governor by the Constitution, is an extraordinary power, and should seldom be exercised. If not used with great discretion, pardoning will soon be as common as conviction, and every person convicted of a crime, who can command a little means and sufficient influence, will be relieved of the penalty of his crime by Executive interference. This is a robbery upon society to be turned loose upon society to re-act their crimes without the fear of the law's penalty to restrain them. The course of justice will be interfered with, and the peace and safety of society endangered by the abuse of this prerogative. While evil exists in the world, and bad men live, the fear of penalty or imprisonment alone will restrain the commission of crime. Everything that tends to increase the probability of escape from fixed and merited punishment will, in like proportion, tend to increase crime. The arrest and conviction of every criminal, and strict enforcement of the penalties provided for those who violate the laws, are the only means we can effectually employ to secure the welfare and security of society, and diminish crime. We are not aiming these suggestions at the Governor by any means—the people are themselves to blame in this matter. If good citizens will persist in signing petitions, they must expect pardons will be granted. It is customary with many to sign every petition presented, without investigating or knowing anything of its merits. When a man is found guilty by twelve men, sworn to try the case on the law and testimony of three respectable, learned, and upright men, also sworn to decide impartially, looking only to justice and the good of society, it is assuming a good deal to ask outsiders to petition the Governor to set aside the verdict of the jury and the sentence of the court—and it is assuming much more for an outsider to do so especially when he knows little or nothing of the case, except what he hears from those who seek the pardon. Judges, who bear the whole case, are much more competent to decide questions of right and mercy than any others, whether they be petitioners or Governors; and in nine hundred and ninety cases out of every thousand the sentence of the courts should not be set aside. There are times when after considerations or circumstances, that could not be brought to bear in a court rightly, move the people to ask and Governors to grant pardons; but such cases are rare. Those who sign petitions thus discriminatorily, because forsooth some friend presents it, cast reproach upon the court, interfere with the cause of justice, and strike a blow at the shield protecting themselves and their property.

About Advertising.
We don't know who wrote the following item about advertising, but whoever did it was very sensible. The merchants and other business men here and elsewhere, who advertise, are the ones who make the money. Some of our business men advertise liberally, and we notice that their places of business are always thronged with customers. We commend the following to all, of whatever business or profession, who do not advertise: "You see goods are like galls; they must go when they are in fashion and good looking, or else a yoke of oxen wouldn't draw them off afterward. The man that advertises most does most business, because he don't make one stock last one lifetime. I know a merchant of this district who has imported three different batches of goods within a year from Europe, and now he's nearly sold out again. How does he and his partner get rid of so many goods? They advertise more than all the rest put together—that's how! I will prove it. If you want to borrow money—if you want a farm to rent—if you have one to sell—advertising is your best friend. It is the best chance of losing them altogether, or having to pay as much as they are worth in charges for keeping."

useful mechanic, show people that you are not ashamed of being a mechanic, by advertising. If you keep hotel, make it known. When people see a man advertise, they know he is a business man. The world is full of folks who want: Some want to sell, some want to buy, and the only way to meet these wants, and make money, is to advertise. Advertising is like money; if followed up. Merchants think nothing of paying forty dollars for one sign, with nothing but their name on it. Well, what do you think of having 3000 signs week in a newspaper? It is your own whole establishment to the country every week.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
It is compounded from the most effectual antitoxics that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to all other remedies is demonstrated by the fact that it has cured many cases where other remedies have failed. It does not combine with the system, but it drives out the poison, and restores the system to its normal state. It is the best medicine for the blood, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the blood. It is the best medicine for the skin, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the skin. It is the best medicine for the lungs, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the lungs. It is the best medicine for the stomach, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the stomach. It is the best medicine for the bowels, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the bowels. It is the best medicine for the liver, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the liver. It is the best medicine for the spleen, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the spleen. It is the best medicine for the pancreas, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the pancreas. It is the best medicine for the gall bladder, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the gall bladder. It is the best medicine for the kidneys, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the kidneys. It is the best medicine for the bladder, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the bladder. It is the best medicine for the prostate, and for all diseases arising from impurities of the prostate. WILSON'S SEWING-MACHINES.
The Best, Most Reliable Sewing Machine Now in Use!
These Machines make the lock-stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silks than the single or double-thread loop-stitch Machines do. It will Stitch, Hem, Fell, Quilt, Tuck, Plait, Gather, Cord, Braid, etc., all without previous basting; and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family; or they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect; or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, without changing the feed needle or tension, or making any adjustment of machine whatever!

It has the following advantages over all other machines: Far greater variety of work; beauty and excellence of stitch; speed and quietness of motion; simplicity of construction; ease and management; elegance of design and finish. These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of an intelligent buyer. —Please call and examine.

This institution is now open for the reception, care, and treatment of the insane. It is a large brick building with a stone basement—four stories high and well-ventilated. It is situated on an elevated table land which commands a view of entire town—adjacent hills—groves and neighboring streams; all of which are calculated to produce favorable impressions upon the disordered mind. The institution is complete in all its appointments. Having been tastefully fitted up at great expense, in order that it may meet the approbation and views of the most fastidious. The water-closets and bathing apparatus have been gotten up upon the most approved hygienic scientific principles. This department embraces not only the ordinary bath but, also, the medicinal, warm air and ascending and descending douche for the more effectual and successful treatment of cutaneous and other scrofulous diseases. We have a room set apart for all those who may be disposed to commit the interests of a dear wife, sister or daughter, to our charge—may be assured, that no means will be spared or efforts wanting on our part to ameliorate their condition or to effect a restoration to their accustomed health and vigor of mind.
