THE BEAVER ARGUS.

January 10th, 1867.

LOCAL and MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

The attention of the public is directed to the following new advertisements which appear for the first time in the Argus to-day:

Adjourned O. C. Sale—Wilson & Johnson.

Executor's Notice—Joseph Brittain.

Executor's Sale—Joseph Brittain.

Wanted—Jacob Weaver, Jr.

Tin & Sheet Iron ware—Meyer & Smith.

Public Sale—Sheriff Littell.

Pianos—R. T. Taylor.

Bedsteads, Matr's &c—S. J. Small.

WM. BINGHAM, Jr., 54 Fifth st., Pittsburg, is the authorized agent for the Argus in that city.

REV. M'ILVAR'S LECTURE.—Our readers will not fail, we hope, to remember that Rev. M'Ilvar, of New Brighton, lectures to-morrow evening in the M. E. Church of Bridgewater, for the benefit of the destitute poor. Admission 25 cents. Let all attend that possibly can.

COLLECTING TAXES.—A. Robinson, Esq., the Revenue Collector for the 24th District, was in town on Saturday last making collections for this locality. Quite a number of our "solid men" called on Mr. R., while here, and settled with "Uncle Sam."

For thorough instruction by Professional Teachers go to the State Normal School at Edinboro, Erie county, Pa. A term at a good school is of more value than a year as usually spent.

Yesterday was a stirring day at Harrisburg. Gen. Geary was inaugurated as Governor of the State, and Gen. Cameron was also elected at that time to the United States Senate.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Persons residing in New Brighton or vicinity, having business to transact with this office, will please leave their orders at Mr. John F. Price's Variety Store on Main street, opposite Mr. Kennedy's Dry Goods store, and our reporter will call for them.

POCKET-BOOK LOST.—D. L. Andersen, Esq., of Remington, this county, lost a pocket-book somewhere between the bridge over the mouth of the Beaver creek and Remington station, on the 8th inst., containing $108, besides valuable papers.

TRIBUNE ALMANAC.—We have recieved from the publishers, the "Tribune Almanac" for 1867. It contains the official returns of all elections held in the United States and Territories during the past year, besides other statistical matter of great value. Price 20 cts. Address Tribune Office, New York.

OTTER SHOT.—On Sunday evening of last week, Mr. William McCowan shot an otter in Little Beaver creek, about two miles from Darlington, in this county. It is said to have been a very large one, and Mr. M. was offered, the next day, $15 for his trophy. Two other otters are said to be in the same visinity, and we have no doubt but they will attract the attention of sportsman until they meet the fate of their comrade.

A NEW YEARS GIFT.—Richard Walton, Esq., and by the way, a whole-souled, wide-awake Republican of Industry township, made us a New Years present last week of a fine lot of most excellent sorghum, manufactured by himself and family. We appreciate the favor, and Mr. W. may draw on us at sight for anything we can do in the way of returning it.

COMMITTED TO JAIL.—During the early part of last week, on oath of Thomas Welsh, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Isaac Thompson, charged with committing an assault and battery on the person of the former.—Jas. Dunlap, Esq., of Fallston, before whom the oath was made, committed the offending party to the custody of Sheriff Littell, there to await the pleasure of the powers that be.—Isaac is an "American citizen of African descent."

BANK ELECTION.—At an election held January 8, 1867, for Directors of the National Bank of Beaver county, in New Brighton, the following named gentlemen were elected for the ensuing year: John Miner, Benj. Wilde, James Duncan, Milton Townsend, E. E. Heops, Geo. Barker, John Reaves, John Stiles, Mattison Darragh.

WELL PATRONIZED.—Sheriff Little's boarding house is a popular institution, and is better patronized since he has charge of it than ever before. At the present time he has 16 regular guests, and it is not to be presumed that a single one of these will get "huffy" and leave the house before the month of March, at least. They have made up their minds to tarry there until about that time, and we dare say that tarry there they will.

A COLLISION.—On Thursday night last, while a lot of boys were running their sleds down Wilson's hill, near this place, a collision occurred, which knocked one of them, Frank Hall, senseless for some time. He was carried home, and after a half hour or so revived sufficiently to be able to speak again.

EVAPORATION.—It has been reserved for the village of Fallston to develop the laws of Evaporation and its use in preserving milk, butter, meat, &c., perfectly cool and sweet in hot summer weather, without the aid of ice. Dr. Wm. Garrard, of that place, has received Letters Patent for his Evaporation Cooler, which will be ready for market in the Spring, and will be a desideratum to those who cannot obtain ice.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—On Saturday last a little son of Mrs. Ross, who lives in this place, met with a misfortune by which one of his legs was broken, and by which he has probably received other injuries of an internal character. He had been playing on the Main street with his sled, and discovering a team hitched to a large sled, and at a stand at the time, he fastened his own rig to it, and seated himself to take a ride. Behind him was a wagon fastened to the same conveyance, and when the team started and had gone some distance, the little fellow's sled became loosened, and the wagon wheels passed over his leg, breaking it, as we have before observed. He is but five or six years of age, and suffers very much pain from his injuries.

THE WEATHER.—The weather for the last four or five weeks has been as pleasant winter weather as we ever remember having seen.—The snow has been from three to six inches deep during all this time, and the temperature never unpleasantly cold. This state of things brought out all the sleighing rig force of the country, and the jingle of bells since then has been as constant and uninterrupted as the Democracy's fight with the "nigger" has been for the last six or eight years.

The Local of last week, with the exception of Wharton's effusions, was a tolerable good issue. This, no doubt arises from the fact that it condensed and published the local news of the Argus of two days before. We have no objection to this, particularly, but submit that it would savor a little of manliness to give us credit for these items; or if no credit is given, they should at least be inserted as they appeared in our paper. Please don't distort or change them again.

BROUGHT TO JAIL.—On last Sunday night, at about 9 P. M., Joseph Johnston, of Hopewell township, was brought to jail on a commitment of Justice Irons, of the same township. Joseph had been acting the part of a "gay Lothario" with one, Sarah Ann Young, who had him arrested, and in default of bail, he was sent to prison. Johnston is a married "feller," and we presume the charge of adultery and bastardy will be brought and maintained against him.

BOROUGH ELECTION.—At the election held in New Brighton on Tuesday of last week, for borough officers, the following gentlemen were selected:

Burgess—Benjamin Bedison.

Assistant Burgess—C. U. Meyer.

Town Council—Charles M. Merrick; J. C. Calhoun, Samuel Dunbar, Jas. Edgar, Joseph Reeves, E. H. Alexander, David Magaw.

School Directors—F. W. Williams, John Tinsman.

Auditer—J. K. Mitchell.

Assessor—Daniel Magaw.

Assistant Assessors—Jos. Alexander, Jos. Reeves.

Constable—Abijah M'Clain.

High Constable—James Craven.

Judge of Election—Benjamin R. Bradford.

Inspectors—C. K. Chamberlin Milo M. Miller.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.—Four or five boys of this place, who have lately been in the habit of annoying passengers at the rail road depot, were last week arrested for malicious mischief, and had a hearing before Justice J. C. Wilson. Owing to the fact that this was the first time that they were before the Justice, his Honor let them off rather easily upon payment of the costs, but he took occasion to remind them that, should they again be brought before him on a similar charge he should consider it his duty to have them recognized to court.

Boys should now take fair warning that in some of these matters forbearance has ceased to be a virtue, and citizens of the town are determined that in the future such practice shall not be indulged in with impunity, but in every case they may expect the full penalty of the law to be rigidly enforced.

We omit the publication of their names this time, but we have them, and we shall upon a repetition of the offense not withhold them.

INSTITUTE PROCEEDINGS.—The proceedings of several of the Teacher's Institute meetings were sent us, at different times, a short time ago, and some of them with the request that we publish the same and then either hand the manuscript to the Local, or request it to copy from the Argus. A friend from the country now writes to us and wishes to know if we complied with the request; and if so, why these proceedings never appeared in that paper?—We answer:—We recollect of but two instances wherein we were requested to do this, and in one of these we sent a hand of this office up to the Local with the manuscript, and in the other we rquested that paper to copy, as will be seen in the Argus of the 2d. We cannot tell why neither of them ever appeared in the Local, unless it is as "Petroleum V. Nasby" declares that the "Dimocracy and the spellin-book have no affinity," and therefore everything pertaining to education is necessarily ruled out of "Dimekratic papers." This is only our opinion, however, and we give it for what it is worth.

BUSINESS AT SMITH'S FERRY.—Persons residing at this place, but who have been attending to interests recently at Smith's Ferry, assure us that business has not for a long time been as dull there and at Island Run, as it is at present. The low price of oil, the winter weather and the high rates of transportation from the wells to the public thoroughfares, all combine to bring about a stagnation in business there that has been unparralleled for a couple of years past. When the price of crude takes a permanent upward turn, and "old sol" takes a few more northern strides, and teamsters become possessed again of consciences, we expect to see business prospects reviving in that locality, and the old "get up and dust" order of things reinstated.

CLEVELAND AND PITTSBURGH RAIL ROAD.—The report of the President of this company, J. N. McCullough, Esq., for the fiscal year ending Nov. 20th, 1866, shows the road to be in a most prosperous condition. The receipts for the year were as follows:

From passengers	$ 888,922 88
From freight	1,498,681 56
From miscellaneous sources	64,851 40
From surplus earnings Pittsburgh Ft. Wayne and Chicago	256,965 73
Total	$2,607,971 56

EXPENSES.

For account of motive power and cars	$627,889 08
For maintenance of way and structures	494,567 48
For transportation expenses	869,814 27
For general expenses	204,857 69
Total	$1,697,178 40
Leaving as net earnings	$910,192 03

MARRIED:

On Jan. 10, 1867, by Rev. John Brown, of Freedom, Mr. WILLIAM YOUNG to Miss JANE L. NEELY, both of Allegheny county, Pa.

On Jan. 1st, 1867, at the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev. Jas. M. Shields, Mr. THOMAS J. JOHNSON, of Smith's Ferry, to Miss MARGARET BANE, of Industry.

On Jan. 12th, 1867, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. Cummings, Mr. JOHN C. DUNN to Miss MARTHA B. SHROADS, all of Beaver county, Pa.

Senatorial Caucus.

HARRISBURG, January 10, 1867.

The Senatorial caucus organized at eight o'clock, in the hall of the House.

Senator Bigham moved to adjourn the nomination to Monday evening.—Lost by a vote of fifty four to twenty-eight.

A ballot was then taken on the nomination of Senator Simon Cameron, and received forty six votes. Gen. Geary twenty three; Stevens, Curtin and Grow five; absent, from Lancaster, 2—total, 83. The following is the vote:

	FOR CAMERON.

On the announcement of the above vote, Cameron's nomination was made unanimous on motion of M. S. Quay, of Beaver.

"The Sainted Lincoln Business."

Editor Argus: Although the shots of "Berdan" are characterized by the Local as "scattering and demoralized," it is evident that some of them fell in such close proximity as to cause uneasiness in his present position. A brave soldier like the Local man should pay no heed to the wild shooting of a demoralized enemy, but reserve his amunition for another occasion.

My quotation, "benefit of clergy," from English criminal law, appears to be all Greek to him. We supposed he was sufficiently conversant with the language of Blackstone to understand the phrase as used, but instead of that being the case, he seizes upon it to launch out in a tirade of abuse and vilification of the class of men embraced in the term clergy. I wonder what harm the "clergy" ever did him? If he ever came within hearing of their voice, he may have had his feelings hurt. Undoubtedly he never would forgive them if they had chanced to preach from that passage of Scripture, "If the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? or from one of those other passages that speak of charity, &c. He is evidently seeking notoriety, and hopes to draw out some of that large, influential and respectable class of professional men, so that he might appear for once in good company.

He says, "Berdan intimates his doubt as to hell." Not a bit of it. If I had ever had any doubts on that subject, the fact that such specimens of humanity as he are permitted to pass through this world without special punishment, would convince me of the absolute necessity of a place of punishment in the future. In the Divine economy, which is founded in justice, it could not be otherwise. Peter Cartwright relates that once when he was dining with General Jackson, a young sprig of a would-be infidel who was present, kept annoying him by asking questions, and finally asked him "if he really believed there was such a place as hell?" Mr. Cartwright replied that he did. The old General who had been sitting in silence till then, directing his remarks to the young scoffer said, "I am glad there is just such a place as hell." "Why so?" asked the scoffer. "Why," said the General, "to punish such scoundrels as you, who vilify the Christian religion, and endeavor to bring it into contempt."—The young man, feeling the justice of the reply, subsided. But we are not verdant enough to suppose that such a rebuke—even if administered by General Jackson, would penetrate the alligator hide of the Local man.

"Berdan" is likened unto an ass.—Why should the editor stoop so low as to criticise the braying of an ass?—The presumption is that if he had supposed us to be an ass—one of the long eared species—he would have been more guarded in his attack, fearing that he might hurt the feelings of his father or some other near relative.

In three different numbers of the Local it is asserted boldly that Lincoln is now in hell—must be in hell suffering the torments of the damned, &c.—This is more than could be expected even from a copperhead sheet of the lowest grade. It is true the same pack of hounds followed at his heels through life, snarling and snapping at his every step, but he heeded them not. The same slimy serpents, with venomous tongues protruding from their mouths, lay in his path, but he heeded them not. Even when they fastened upon him he shook them off, as Paul did the viper, feeling no harm. If Lincoln had been destitute of every moral principle, if he had failed to discharge those duties which he owed to his God and to his country, now that he has gone to his reward, we had supposed that even a political opponent would have permitted his faults to remain hidden from the public gaze, under the mantle that covers his earthly remains. Christian charity and a proper regard for the feelings of the living would have dictated such a course.

And here let me say in conclusion, that if the editor of the Local knows himself that the intelligent portion of his readers will approve his course, and justify the manner in which he has outraged public feeling, let him be so once and forever undeceived.

BERDAN.

DIED:

On the 26th inst., in Raccoon township, Beaver county, Pa., Mr. JAMES KERR, aged 16 years.

On Jan. 7, 1867, in the 71st year of his age, Mrs. ROSANNA M'CAMANT, relict of the late Joseph M'Camant, of Raccoon township, this county. His death was very sudden. He died in his chair without a struggle or a groan. For nearly 21 years he held the office of ruling elder in the Presbyterian church of Raccoon, with great acceptance to the people. In all his relations in life and in the church he was a man of undoubted piety and strict integrity. The church, the community, where he lived, a large family, and a large circle of relations mourn his loss. B. L. B.

On the 10th inst., in Bridgewater, Pa., Col. JOSEPH VEAL, in the 73d year of his age.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

The oil market during the past week has been inactive in Pittsburgh. Buyers and sellers were too far apart in their figures to accomplish transactions. Crude was selling at 9 cts. per gallon. Sales small, supply small, and Allegheny river navigation closed.

At Oil City prices were unchanged. Business duller than ever known before.

At Island Run crude was a little better than our last quotation. At the wells several lots were disposed of at $2.50 per barrel—being an advance of 15 cts since our last report.
