THE BEAVER ARGUS.

February 13th, 1867.

LOCAL and MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

The attention of the public is directed to the following new advertisements which appear for the first time in the Argus to-day:

Dry Goods—Nelson & Roessler.
Partition Notices—Sheriff Littell.
Soldiers Attention—Maj. Runkle.
For Sale—A. M. Jelly.
Dry Goods—Burchfield & Co.
Select School—A. H. Calvert & M. M. Patterson.
For Sale—Harrah or Wilson.
For Sale—J. R. Slentz.
Ferry—Peter Angel.
Executor's Notice—A Watterson.
Administrator's Notice—H. Marshall.

W. BINGHAM, Jr., 54 Fifth st., Pittsburg, is the authorized agent for the ARGUS in that city.

ANSWER TO RIDDLE No. 2.—A correspondent from Darlington, also one from Rochester, send us answers to the riddle in last week's Argus. They are both correct: "The whale swallowed Jonah."

THE WEATHER.—The weather, for the past day or two has been mild and pleasant, and a general break-up is anticipated. The river is comparatively clear of ice, and in good running order.

EXTRA SERVICES.—We are requested to state that there will be public services in the Presbyterian Church of this place on Thursday evening next at early candle light, and to be continued every evening during the week

ANOTHER REJECTION.—Ex-Mayor Lowry's nomination as surveyor of customs at Pittsburgh was rejected by the Senate on Saturday last. Commenting on the Dispatch says: "How are you, Lowry?"

PITTSBURGH DISPATCH.—The Pittsburgh Daily Dispatch came to us last week greatly improved. It is now printed in quarto form, and its general appearance, sprightliness and enterprise, is excelled by but few papers in the country. It claims the largest circulation in Western Pennsylvania.

REAL ESTATE.—The attention of the readers of the Argus is directed to the advertisement of Rev. A. M. Jelly, who offers for sale a farm in Brighton township. We are informed that this is a fine piece of land and will be sold low. Persons desiring to purchase will please visit the property and correspond with Mr. J. before investing elsewhere.

VALENTINE DAY.—To-morrow (the 14th) is Valentine Day, and we judge from "surface indications" that missives of love, fun and malice will float around thick in these parts. Young "lovers" will generally deal in the sentimental article, while those wishing a little sport, or desiring to gratify a vicious disposition and to wound the feelings of others, will purchase and mail the meaner sort of caricatures.

THE DECISION.—We are sorry to learn that on Monday last Col. Ed. O'Brien accidentally had his left eye burnt out by a piece of hot iron thrown by the heated metal coming in contact with the damp in the ladle.—Lawrence Journal.

Col. O'Brien, we believe, was connected with the 155th Pa. Vols.—the regiment formerly commanded by Col. Quay, of this county. His old comrades in this county will sympathize with their former leader in the affliction that has befallen him.

CHURCH ITEMS.—Night services have been held for some time past in the Presbyterian and Methodist churches of this place, with entire satisfying results.

Rev. Bowary, the pastor of the Presbyterian congregation, received into his church, on last Sunday a week ago, quite a number of new converts.

Rev. Bracken, of the M. E. church, has been conducting a protracted meeting here for some five or six weeks. He has added some forty or forty-five new members to his congregation. His meetings are still continued.

LITTLE IN THE JAIL.—On Wednesday last a trial of muscular development occurred in the county jail between two of the inmates. One King, who is said to be the owner of a large lot of vicious flats, felt a desire on that day to pummel one Isaac Thompson, colored, who is himself in prison on a charge of assault and battery. The jailor was absent at the time. Isaac, of course, did not believe that the other was able to execute his purpose, and roundly told him so. The parties, thus provoked, clinched each other, agreed on a trial, and to it they went; but after a short conflict the Dutchman proved too much for the African, and the two were separated by the other prisoners. The Sheriff, afterwards learning that King had solicited and provoked the battle, assigned him, in the evening, to a private apartment and, we believe, has him now on that character of food best adapted to the contraction of his physical proportions, and which will, in the end, bring about a gradual reduction of his fighting muscle.

HORSE STEALING.—On Wednesday night of last week two horses belonging to a lady living near Baden, this county, were stolen by some person or persons, at present unknown. On the same night a horse was also taken from the stable of Dr. Linnenbrink, of Rochester. The thieves took the direction of Pittsburgh, and on the day following the robbery, the two horses first named were found running at large in Allegheny city. No clue as to who took them there has yet been obtained. The horse stolen from Dr. Linnenbrink has not yet been discovered, and we believe, no traces of him are known. A saddle with wooden stirrups was taken with the horse.

The county appears to be overrun with rascals just now, and persons having movable property should see that it is well guarded by locks, &c., and if they are in possession of shooting irons," they should likewise be careful to have them loaded and close at hand. The wounding of one or two of these desperadoes would have the effect of checking up the whole of them in their desperate career.

TO WOUNDED SOLDIERS.—The attention of honorably discharged soldiers is called to the advertisement of the 84th Regiment P. V. Infantry, to be found in another column. Any wounded, however slight, entitles a man to join, and none who are able to walk or handle arms are disqualified. The corps is one of honor, and is enlisted for Garrison duty.

ASSESSOR APPOINTED.—J. R. Ruple Esq. of Washington county has been appointed Assessor of Internal Revenue for this District, in place of Wm. Quail. Mr. Ruple is a Republican, unobjectionable to his party in that county, and will no doubt be confirmed by the Senate immediately.

RIDDLES.—We are overrun with riddles—We have been receiving one or two daily, since our last issue, and on Saturday last we were the recipient of five letters by mail, and on Monday four more on the riddle question. We have therefore about fifteen puzzles on hand now, for which publication has been requested. If riddles are good we have got too much of a good thing, and will therefore "incontinently suspend further operations" in that particular.

A CRUEL "PARIENT."—The new Lisbon Buckeye State of last week gives the particulars of a rich affair which occurred in that county a few nights before. A young man fell in love with a young lady. The girl reciprocated. The parents were irate. The young man wrote his "duck" a note, stating that he would be at her window at a particular hour of a certain night that she must be ready and they would elope. The note accidentally fell into the mother's hands instead of the young lady's. When the time came the old lady was in waiting at the window, and on the "lover" making his signal she sallied forth to meet him. And such a meeting! The "gay and festive" youth swore for awhile, then mounted his steed and retired in disgust.

A Fox Hunt.

INDUSTRY, Feb. 11, 1867.

EDITOR ARGUS:—Allow me through the columns of your dear old Argus to give you an account of a great Fox Hunt that came off in Moon Township, on last Friday and Saturday. The hunt was as follows: First day's was Mr. Kerr's, of said township. We started in the morning and loosed 13 hounds, and away they all went. Directly a Mr. Fox came sround and it ran but a little way till it holed. Some of the dogs started in pursuit of another, and ran it up towards Scottsville, where it holed likewise. We all returned then to the first one and dug him out, together with nine others, and one raccoon. This ended Mr. Kerr's hunt. Now comes that one managed by Mr. Shroads of the Beaver County Poor House, (a gentleman by the way that has received a full share of personal abuse,) who is as good a hunter as ever put a string on a "purp." Well, away we went again, with hearts full of fun, and accompanied by 18 of the long eared stock, each man thinking his particular "dorg" was the best in the crowd. A looker on would have supposed us to be a squad of Phil. Sheridan's. On reaching the designated point, the hounds were unstraped, a fox was soon routed up, which we chased in the direction of Logestown. We ran it for four or five hours, and then turned for home, and on our road we captured two raccoons. In the meantime one of the gentlemen, overjoyed with success, bantered the whole north side of the river for a hunt, and being the captain of the party from our side, I accepted the challenge in behalf of the fox hunting fraternity of our locality. And I invite every man that has any hunting stock to hold himself in readiness for the hunt—they gave the challenge, and this entitles me to select the ground. Samuel Miller's on Brady's Run, will therefore be our Headquarters. The hunt to take place on the 19th and 20th of February. Come one come all.

R. WALTON.

We have received the following letter from the Commissioner of Agriculture, which explains itself:

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,
Washington, January 25, 1867.

SIR:—Your prompt and active co-operation is respectfully solicited in furtherance of the object of the following joint resolution of Congress, approved January 11, 1867:

[PUBLIC RESOLUTION—No. 2.]

"A Resolution to provide for the exhibition of the cereal productions of the United States at the Paris Exposition in April next.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Commissioner of Agriculture be, and he is hereby, instructed to collect and prepare, so far as practicable, and with as little delay as possible, suitable specimens of the cereal productions of the several States of the Union, for exhibition at the Paris Exposition, and forward the same in proper order and condition for shipment to J. C. Derby, agent of the United States Government for the Paris Exposition, at New York: Provided, that it shall require no further appropriation from the public treasury."

An exhibition such as is proposed of the finest samples of the best varieties of wheat, corn, and other cereals, would command the admiration of Europe, as it would assuredly arouse the pride of all Americans, and I regret that this Department has not been authorized to make collections for this purpose until the present time. The Exposition opens on the first of April, and collections should be sent in a few days from the reception of this request to be in season for proper arrangement, packing, forwarding to New York, and transportation to Paris. You will render the country essential service by immediate and judicious action in this matter.

It is desirable that small packages of the finest sample, of the best varieties of such products of your neighborhood should be forwarded, by mail, in packages of two pounds or less, each distinctly marked with name, donor, local name, and county and State in which it was grown.

Such packages, addressed to the Commissioner of Agriculture, can be sent without postage from any post office in the United States. As it will be seen, the resolution makes no appropriation for this purpose; therefore, parcels should not be sent by express in any case, unless at the expense of communities represented. Very respectfully,

ISAAC NEWTON, Commissioner.

Lanes and Alleys Vacation Question.

ED. ARGUS.—The Local of last week contains a lengthy article with the above caption, abounding in so many glaring misstatements, that I ask a small space in your columns to correct a few of the more prominent ones:

"Some time since, Captain John May offered two lots, located on the hill on the north of the town and containing several acres each, for sale at public outcry."

Capt. John May did nothing of the kind.—The lots were offered at Orphan's Court Sale, as the property of the heirs of Capt. May's deceased wife—the Captain having no interest in them.

"A number of our best citizens wanted the lots, but learning the action of the Council, determined not to be in the way of their purchase by, and needed accession to the interests of, the borough."

Can it be possible that we have men in the town of Beaver guilty of the conduct implied in the foregoing paragraph? Is it true that a number of our "best citizens," in order that the Town Council might get their lots for a mere bide, actually conspired with a wealthy corporation, and stayed away from the sale, for the purpose of defrauding orphan children of a fair price for their property? Will our "best citizens" thank the Local for putting them in such an unenviable position? How do Messrs. Reisinger and Atkins enjoy the idea of standing before the community in the attitude of combining on bidders, in order that they might buy the property of orphan children for little or nothing? Does not the Bible teach them that they are to be fathers to orphans, not their oppressors?

"The sale was not, therefore, attended by a large number of our citizens, who would have been bidders had it not been for the action of the Council."

The sale was largely attended, and a good many of our "best citizens" were there as bidders also! Was not D. M. Donahoo there as a bidder? Was not John R. Blackmore there as a bidder? Was not D. P. Kuhn there as a bidder? Was not T. McCreery there as a bidder? Was not Henry Hice there as a bidder? Was not Hugh Anderson there as a bidder? Where will the Local go to find better citizens? Will Mr. Reisinger come out and say that the most, if not all, of the above named citizens did not bid against him?

"But Mr. Reisinger was not the only bidder. Opposed to him were D. L. Imbrie, one of the Council who had instructed Mr. Reisinger what bid to make, and Mr. Weyand, a county officer and a leading member of the Court House Clique and counsel to saints and ghosts. Mr. Reisinger bid to the end of his instructions; when, Imbrie and Weyand bidding a few cents more, the property was knocked down to them." " " "

Imbrie bid upon one of the lots containing no spring, for which the borough did not attend; therefore to say that he gave a solitary bid for the lot for which the borough was striving, is to say that which is wholly incorrect. Will Mr. Reisinger aver that he made any bid or bids in opposition to him? Imbrie as Councilman was opposed to the borough buying the lots in the absence of any law authorizing such purchase, and in the absence of any expression to that effect from the citizens. The understanding in Council was that Reisinger should not bid more than $150 per acre. He not only went to those figures, but he run up to $240 per acre, $90 per acre more than his limit, or in the aggregate nearly six hundred dollars beyond his instructions—a sum of rather more magnitude than the "few cents" alluded to above. Had the lots been knocked down to him, he would have saddled upon the borough a debt of at least $1,500 without the warrant of law, without the sanction of the tax-payers, and in direct opposition to the since expressed sentiments of a large portion of the citizens.

"Weyand, we understand, drew up a bill and putting it in the hands of Imbrie, the latter gentleman hustled off to Harrisburg."

Weyand did not draw up the bill. He never saw it, and to this hour is ignorant of its provisions, except from hear say. Imbrie did go to Harrisburg, but upon business other than to urge the passage of the bill,—and this is about the only grain of truth there is in the entire article.

"As soon as this intelligence (the passage through the House) reached Beaver, remonstrance was immediately made, and curses, loud and deep, were heaped upon the heads of the deceivers and their allies in the Legislature."

From whom did these loud and deep curses proceed? Was it from the people at large? No. A large proportion of the citizens are in favor of vacating said alleys. And those who circulated the remonstrance seemed to have so little confidence in its merits that they even refused to inform a number who signed reluctantly, where the alleys were located, or who had asked to have them closed. Was it from those whose property lay adjacent to said alleys, and who, if any, would be affected by their vacation? No. And although every effort was made to excite their fears, but one or two of those immediately interested could be induced to sign the remonstrance. Was it from those who are actuated by selfish and disappointed considerations—and who, for months, have been fuming and fretting because those lots have passed into other hands than their own? Yes, yes! And when those who are now making so much ado about nothing, and acting from such pure and disinterested motives, are required by the Court to open certain alleys running thro' their lots and farms, now enclosed, the products of which they appropriate to their own use from year to year, their curses will not only be louder and deeper but perhaps they will have some foundation to rest upon which those above alluded to have not.

A "GHOST."

Andrew Johnson's Spies.

The following papers were laid before the Senate on Wednesday:

MR. SEWARD TO THE PRESIDENT.

The Secretary of State, to whom was referred the resolution of the Senate of the 2d inst., requesting the President to communicate to that body, if in his opinion not incompatible with the public interest, a copy of the letter on which the Secretary of State founded his recent inquiries addressed to Mr. Motley, Minister of the United States at Vienna, with regard to his reported conversation and opinions, and to furnish the name of the writer of such letter, has the honor to lay before the President a transcript of the letter referred to

WILLIAM H SEWARD,

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, Feb. 4, 1867.

GEORGE W. M'CRACKEN TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

PARIS, HOTEL MAURICE, Oct. 23, 1866.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have traveled a good deal in Europe during the past year, and had occasion to see something of our Ministers and Consuls in various countries. A large majority of those whom I met were bitterly hostile to you and your Administration, and expressed that hostility in so open and offensive a manner as to astonish American travelers, and to leave a very bad impression upon Europeans who were present. This was particularly true of those from the New England States, of whom a large majority of our foreign representation seems to be composed, and a very different set they are, individually and collectively.

Mr. Motley, Minister at Vienna, does not pretend to conceal his "disgust," as he styles it elegantly, at your whole conduct. Having been appointed exclusively by Charles Sumner, he applauds him and his revolutionary doctrines, despises American democracy, and proclaims loudly that an English nobleman is the model of human perfection. There is not in all Europe a more thorough flunkey or a more un American functionary. He tells every traveler that Sumner is entirely justified, and that you deserved your pledges and principles in common with Mr. Seward, who, he says, "is hopelessly degraded."

At Frankfort the consul Murphy, who is said to have cleared more than [illegible] by his office, declared repeatedly that the threat of his friend, [illegible] would be made good and ought to be, by your impeachment. This is notorious and a public scandal. The fellow himself is vulgar, ignorant and unworthy and is one of Chandler's tools.

Hale, at Madrid, conducted [illegible] course in a malignant manner to various Americans, and so did Morris at Constantinople.

Some of my friends who went to Morocco found McMath, at Tangier, rail violently and shamefully against you, saying he was ready to retire from such a concern.

Perry, at Tunis, was equally offensive in his language.

There are many others in the same boat, and it is time that better men were appointed—men, who will at least respect the President and the dignity of his office.

Radicalism of the worst sort makes war on you and your friends under every pretext, and yet the appointments of that faction are blatant all over Europe in condemnation of both. It is a shame and a sin to permit this longer.

Massachusetts seems to monopolize a lion's share of the consulates, and Boston has no less than three of the best missions—Messrs. Adams, Burlingame and Motley.

In no other part of the country to be considered or worthy of notice? Must Sumner, Butler, Phillips, Chandler, and the like engross all the honors for their satellites?

I want nothing at your hands of any sort, but fit and decent men should be sent abroad, who will not slander the Chief Executive and the Government.

The consul at Genoa is a common drunkard, and a disgrace to the country. When sober he abuses the President in the hearing of everybody.—Respectable Americans are very much mortified by the presence of such unworthy persons in places of trust and responsibility, and few like the task of letting their experience be known, as I have done. There are hundreds who know much more, but prefer to remain silent.

Most respectfully,
GEO. W. M'CRACKEN,
Of New York.

A friend will deliver the note personally.
