EPITOR AND PROPRIETOR. February 20th, 1867.

The Connellsville R. R. Bill. The Connellaville Railroad bill, which has recently occupied so much of the public attention, was brought up in the State Senate or Friday last, and defeated by a vote of 13 for and, 17 against its passage. A motion to reconsider was then carried, and afterwards the bill was postponed maefibitely, which virtually kills it.

A fow words in brief as to the Connellsville road itself, may not be out of place: The Connelisville Railroad company was chartered some years ago by the State Legislature, and for several years afterwards it was the rocipient of numerous favors from the same body, in the way of legislative accomodations, In 1864, however, the legislation became adverse to the inwhile the question was in this equivthe head of this article.
