ROCHESTER IMPROVEMENTS

Beautiful sites on our great national thoroughfare, the Erie Canal, are situated at the junction of the Beaver River, some 25 miles north west of Pittsburg, Pa. Its scenery is unsurpassed.

Its natural and artificial facilities can scarcely be equalled anywhere. With a safe landing at every stage of water, on the Ohio, where you can see for 15 miles these state Palaces plying up and down this stream.

There are 12 Express and Mail Trains, (Sundays excepted), and about the same number of freight trains.

The place is rapidly improving in population, and there have been over 80 buildings erected since 1860, and a prospect of a large number the present year.

The sale of unimproved lands, made by one person alone, amounts to $43,000. We have erected and in successful operation, 2 Steam Saw and Planing Mills, 5 Saw, Brick Manufacturing, 2 Metal Foundries, 1 extensive Plow Factory, 1 Machine and Agricultural Implement Glass and Picture Frame Factory, 1 Looking Glass and Picture Frame Factory, 1 Soap and Candle Factory, 1 Marble Works, 3 Tin and Copper Smith establishments, the Great and extensive Pittsburgh Pocket Cutlery Factory, whose workmanship can be surpassed in any country, and whose products alone amount to not less than a million of dollars per year.

23 Dry Goods and Grocery Stores, 2 Shoe and Leather, and 2 Drug Stores, together with all other necessary mechanical branches, 5 large Hotels, besides a number of private boarding houses for the accommodation of the public, and the throes of four hundred operatives employed in the above mentioned establishments. In addition to these, we have four churches, the Lutheran, Episcopal, Catholic, and German Reformed. The Methodist Episcopal congregation has just organized, and are expecting a preacher to be appointed here, and will hold services in the Town Hall until they can build a church. We have also a very fine School House, with about 250 pupils in attendance, the present term.

This town is all underlaid with coal and a fine brick clay, which is being taken out at a point in the place.

It is a Book for the Million. In another column will appear an advertisement of P. Gessert & Co., publishers of Philadelphia, in which they offer the rights, one of the most interesting little volumes that we have, and the good fortune to see for a long time.

The volume contains choice selections of prose and poetry, embracing the most popular and patriotic effusions of the age; and is a book that would be peculiarly valuable to students who are training themselves for public speaking. Among these selections, we notice "Barnum's Fables," "Bible on the Rights of the Poor," "Extracts from Webster's Speeches," from Everett's, and many other contributions to literature that will live long after the present generation has passed away.

FRANK M. WELLS, JR. In a recent issue, the citizens of Beaver and vicinity, as witnesses a free exhibition of "trained horse flesh," by Prof. Wagner & Dudley, who will appear on one of our principal streets with their celebrated trained stallions, driving them to double and single carriages, without halting, raising, breathing or tiring, with heads and necks erect, freely free, controlling them slow by the motion of the whip, and making them perform all the evolutions known to the horseman's fraternity. These gentlemen propose opening a school here, with a view to teaching some of our people how to manage the "HARRY" horse.

The exhibition takes place at 1 P. M. near the National Hotel, in this place. These gentlemen are very flatteringly spoken of by newspapers published in towns visited by them.

ABOUT ADVERTISING.—The Argus is just now filled with local advertising. There has not been for some time, and there is a new patent medicine, gift certificate or lottery advertisement in it. If a farmer of the county desires to sell his lands, or a stock raiser to dispose of his horses and mules, or if our merchants, manufacturers and mechanics are anxious to increase their trade or extend their business, they just now communicate these desires through the Argus, well knowing that in this way a class of persons are reached who have means at command, and whose patronage is always desirable. They have ascertained it to be a source of profit to do so, and the result is, as we have already stated, our columns are filled to overflowing with this class of advertising.

But our street neighbor, the local advertiser, has a different class of readers, and necessarily has another kind of advertisements and advertisements. Some one tells the readers of that paper that he has discovered a medicine that "makes the miserable happy," another that he is proprietor of a "hair extirminator," another that he can make "whiskers grow in three weeks time," another calls upon the "afflicted to suffer no more," as they can be cured by his "elixir," immediately, another that he makes a white liquid that "removes tan, freckles, blotches, and gives the skin a beautiful pearl-like tint," another that he makes the "Barnum's Capilli," and insists positively that it will make hair grow on "bald heads," in almost the twinkling of an eye, and curl it into "wavy and glossy ringlets," and that, but not least, comes "Madame H. A. Ferris, the world renowned Astrologist, who says "she restores the retreating mortal over know." She restores to happiness the despondent, tells all about his absent loved one, tells you the day you will marry, and gives you the name and characteristics of the person, &c. What of this? We suppose the generality of the Argus readers "gush down," forward their dollar, and live in blissful ignorance of being duped the balance of their lives.

Facts like these require but few comments. They show that the Argus is patronized and supported by the solid, reflecting men of the community in which it is published; and that the local advertiser is supported by city loungers and braggart impostors. They show that the Argus is read by men who are engaged in building up and developing the resources of the county; and that the local advertiser is read by persons who are engaged in "contaminating hair," and who believe in "ghosts," and have unlimited faith in "fortune-telling." They show that the Argus is not engaged in the business of pandering to the vicious, and helping to establish upon the ignorant; while the local advertiser, and taking pay for it.

CONVICTS AND RELEASED.—On Friday last a colored preacher named Hamilton of Bridgewater or Fallston, we believe, was arrested and committed to the jail of this county for marrying a colored man named Penny to a white girl by the name of Duck. The "wedded pair" reside in or near Fallston, and have for some time back been occupying the same house. The justice who committed Hamilton was evidently laboring under an erroneous impression of the law in this respect, and provided for our statutes at large, so penalty for marrying or giving in marriage to the parties white, black, or colored, provided only that they are of full age. On being advised of this the Sheriff released Hamilton, who it is said, in addition, denies having joined the parties in wedlock at all. If married by anyone, he alleges, the ceremony was performed by some one else. Penny is said to be about white, and we presume his "Duck" has but little the worst of the bargain; and we are contented with it.
