BARBARA FRIETCHIE.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER. Up from the meadows rich with corn, Clear in the cool September morn, The cluster'd spires of Frederick stand, Green-wall'd beine hills of Maryland. Round about them orchards sweep, Apple and peach tree fruited deep, Fair as a garden of the Lord, To the eyes of the famish'd rebel harde, On that pleasant morn of the early Fall, When 'Lee march'd over the mountain wall, Over the mountains winding down Horse and foot, into Frederick town.

Forty flags with their silver stars, Forty flags with their crimson bars. Flapp'd in the morning wind: the sun Of noon look'd down, and new not one. Up rose old Barbara Frietchie them. Bow'd with her fourscore years and ten : Brayest of all in Frederick town, She took up the flag the men hanl'd down. In her attie-window the staff she sat, To show that one heart was loyal yet. Up the street came the rebel tread, Stonewall Jackson riding shead;

Quick, as it fell from the broken staff, Dame Barbara snatch'd the silken scarl. She lean'd far out on the window-sill, And shook it forth with a royal will. "Shoot, if you must, this old gray head, But spare your country's flag," she said.

A shade of sadness, a blash of shame,... Over the face of the leader came; The nobler nature within him stirred To life at that woman's deed and word. "Who touches a hair of you gray head Dies like a dog! March on!" he said. All day long through Frederick street Sounded the tread of marching feet; All day long that free flag tom'd Over the heads of the rebel host.

Ever its torn folds rose and fell On the loval winds that loved it well: And, through the bill-gaps, sunset light Shone over it with a warm good-night. Barbara Frietchie's work is o'or, And the rebel rides on his raids

The day hed arrived. The steamer wuz at the Fortress, carefully prepared to recive its illustrious burden. It had been thorough cleaned and fumigated, the cabins hed bin nooly furnisht, and speshl alterations made for the President and party. There waz Yooni-ted States officers and soldiers aboard, but out of respeck for the feelings uv their illustrious "prizner," ez he iz technicly called, they kep theirselves carefully out of his site, that the theirselves carefully out of his site, that the color of their uniforms might not awaken onpleasant refleckshens. So perfeck, indeed, wuz the arrangements, that the railin uv the boat, which wuz orignelly bloo, wuz kivered with gray cloth, and the engle figger-head uv the craft wuz sawed off. This wuz sejested by a eminent Conservative uv Yoo Nork, who have a here Southern trade wich he didn't GROCERY STORE

Yet the is "not quite prepared to say plicable to the rebellion." It is well that he was not quite prepared to make such a decision, for it there is anything clear and unmission in the West to a friend in this city, who means a performance of the Positive of the contraction o Monterey and Buena Vista. This meaning cannot be escaped, and the Attorney Generative of Mr. DEAR——: I don't know whether or that he would not include in the disfranchist not you are still wanting anecdotes of Mr. ed classes those who were compelled to aid in Lincoln, but Liventure to send you one that I Rebellion, conscripts, slaves, and efficers who, have just heard. and the problem of th tional Bank of Washington, meeting an 'old friend of Mr. Lincoln's one morning remarked, "That President of yours is the oddest man alive. Why, he endorses notes for niggers." It seems that some time before a colored man, finding himself in danger of losing orea man, smaring misser in uniger of lesing his house for the want of $150, went to Mr. Lincoln and told his story. The result was that the man made a two months note, and Mr. Lincoln indersed it. The rote was discounted by some one, and found its way into Huntington's bank for collection. Upon its maturity the colored man failed to respond. Instead of serving the customary notices upon the indorser, the cashier took the note in person to Mr. Lincoln, who at once offered to pay it. Mr. Huntington said, "Mr. President, you have, tried to help a fellow mortal along. I am ust willing that you should suffer this entire loss; we will divide it between us." And the affair was thus set-with a fervent appear with a fervent of their normal condishum.
