If the report of six thousand in Berks is correct, it is indicative that the Democrats have held their own in their strongholds. Under such circumstances we can not quite percieve how our majority in the State last year and excellence, native and tropical plants, -which was 17.174—can stand the drafts, great and small, thus made upon it. The re-sult in Philadelphia wipes out something like ctc. forty per cent. of it. A loss of one thousand is reported in Chester. While we have offsets in the reported result in Fayette and a few other counties, we are apprehensive that they will not prove sufficient to withstand these losses. Our friends in Philadelphia express considerable confidence; but unless they have figures decidedly different from those we have we do not quite see wherefore. We hope they are correct, and shall await returns that are to prove they are with interest and as much hopefulness as the circumstances will permit. -Pitts: Com. Oct. 9.
