M., relative to the surrender of the garrison. That correspondence, as published in the report of the Congressional Investigating Committee, is subtantially correct, with but one exception, viz., it omitted to state the threats which Forrest actually made in both the com-munications, in these words, to-wit: "If this demand is not complied with you must take the consequences." Having confidence in our ability to hold the fort until reinforcemen arrived, we refused to surrender, never dreaming that pending the negotiations under the flag of truce, Forrest, by violating all rules of civilized warfare, had treacherously gained positions from which he could successfully

This, however, proved only the prelude to n after its capture. That the massacre of ir troops which followed was deliberately emeditated and planned, I believe, as I be nish the perpetrators of this wholesale arder of unarmed and many of them wound ter I had surrendered, and while lying or e field where I fell saw a number of wound men deliberately shot. All this occurred ter the fort was in entire possession of the els, and when our men had entirely ceas to offer resistance.
