His suggestion is sub- Harrisburg this session at least. stantially as follows: After the first of January 1870, greenbacks shall cease to be legal tenders - for private debts contracted after that date, and after January 1st 1871, they shall cease to be legal tenders for any purposes whatever, except in payment of Government dues. The adoption of this plan, the secretary thinks, would restore prices to the old standard, relieve the necessities of the country, and contribute materially to the well-

Caniner position: "It is no violation of confidence to state that when General Grant was in this city last week, the editor of a prominent morning paper (not the Man nor the Times) was given to un-derstant that a cabinet portfolio was at wasnington, then stepped upon the stage and employed Hon, Robt. J. Walker to work the thing through. The Baron at that time seemed fright-ened, and desponded of ever receiv-ing any money for his icebergs. Mr. Walker said he did not like to enter derstant that a callnet portfolio was at his service, under the new admin-istration, provided the said party would like to be Secretary of the in-teriar. As yet it is not ascertained whether the offer has been ascepted, but the chances are that it will be. The editor alluded to was formerly a member of Congress." Walker said he did not like to enter into the matter as a lobbyist, but if called an attorney in the case, he would do his best. Stoeckl accepted his fee $20,000.
