and on his breast we could feel its beat ing distinctly. He then commenced a series of contortions with his abdomen rolling it over and over several times At the conclusion of this striking exhibition we placed our hand upon a lump in his left side below his waist, and there was the heart thumping away as if nothing unusual was the matter. A few more coutortions and the frisky organ passed across the abdomen and on the right side kept up its work of throwing the blood through the system as regularly as if in its natural position. More contortions and it traveled back home, its course being easily traced under the skin till it passed under the ribs. Tho man then commenced a sort of rotary motion of the bowels, apparently turn-ing them over several times, when we felt a complete set of ribs covering the abdomen, the regular set being in their usual place. Turning the bowels in the
