

BEAVER, PENN., MAY 6, 1869.

JOHN W. GEARY.

JOHN W. GEARY. Hon. ANSON PRIMER, well known and highly respected citizen of Pennsylvania, died at his residence in Franklin, Pa., on Wednesday evening, aged 76 years. Mr. Primer was for many years a leading Democratic politician, and represented the Venango District in Congress some two or three terms, about twenty-five or thirty years ago. He was elected to fill the office of Canal Commissioner of Pennsylvania for one term of three years. He deceased had quite a number of relatives residing in his county.

HON. W. W. PASCHALL has published a pamphlet addressed to the people of Texas, announcing himself as a candidate for the United States Senate. Among other things, he denounces the ratification of the new Constitution, by the people; the election of none but Republicans to office; the support of Andrew J. Hamilton for Governor, and the removal of political disabilities from every friend of the Government. The pamphlet is well written, and is placed beyond the power of its enemies to prevent or postpone.

The Democratic papers are pelting Grant no little because of two or three appointments to office. These men were chosen from the best educated and ablest of their race, and neither of them are charged with the commission of any crime, or of having a singular habit. Color is the only sin of which any man is guilty, and if a man is better than his race, he is a man who is conferred upon them as a man which scarcely any Democrat in the United States would have done. The refusal of a Democrat to hold office when it is tendered to him is one of the rarest things in the world, and will deserve favorable mention whenever it occurs.

The Conservative Convention of the State of Virginia assembled on the 25th ult., at Richmond and adopted the majority report for submitting the Constitution to the people, with but a few dissenting voices. The debate pointed unambiguously to Walker as Conservative candidate for Governor. Resolutions were adopted for a better organization, and for the appointment of a committee to call on Gen. Grant relative to the submission of the Constitution, and also to wait on Gen. Canby, after which they adjourned sine die.

There had been a minority report presented to the body prior to adjournment, the spirit of which urged the people to vote upon the constitution. Negro suffrage was to be forced on by the General Government, Virginia should not assist in the degradation. Those who favored the majority report said, that sort of an argument was a thing of the past. Negro suffrage was an accomplished fact, and the white people of the State instead of resting the general Government should carry out reconstruction in good faith—accepting what it gives and making the best of it. It was urged that the election of Gilbert C. Walker, a northern Republican and administration supporter for Governor, would give to the constitution North confidence in professors, and induce infidelity to the South.

THE STATE GUARD is published at Harrisburg, Pa. It is a Republican paper, and its policy is to be honest, and to be honest to itself, and to be honest to the people of other States. It has watched the course of the State Legislature, recently in session at Harrisburg, very closely, and now reports that it has been the most corrupt body of men that ever assembled at the State capital. It qualifies this declaration, however, by stating that there were a few members of the Senate, and a few of the House, upon whom the charge of corruption could not rest. The names of these are as follows: In the Senate, William Worthington, of Chester county; C. M. Simons, of Montgomery; B. Brown, of Northampton; A. G. Olmsted, of Potter; G. Dawson Coleman, of Lebanon; E. Billington, of Lancaster; T. McArthur, of Perry; W. A. Walker, of Clearfield; James L. Grauman, of Pittsburgh; James Kerr, of Butler, and M. B. Brown, of York. In the House, Speaker Clark, of Philadelphia; J. Chamberlain, of Bradford county; J. P. Brown, of Clarion; F. W. Ames, of Crawford; George P. Ren and John D. Stranahan, of Erie; W. H. Playford, of Fayette; S. H. Brown, of Huntington; John H. Walker, of Franklin; John H. Longwecker, of Bradford; and Thos. Nicholson, of Beaver county. It is a Legislature composed of one hundred and thirty-three members, is not a burning shame, that but twenty-one can be regarded by an impartial observer, as being above and beyond the reach of bribery. If this assembly is a faithful one, we have only to add, "God save the Commonwealth."

OVER TEN miles of the track of the Union Pacific Railroad was laid on the 18th ult., and there were nine miles more to put down to complete the connection between the eastern and western divisions, after which the line will be finished from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The iron was laid at the rate of a mile an hour, and was laid by the "iron horse" work until the grading of the remaining sections shall have been completed, and some of it is heavy rock cutting. The rails are down to within eight miles of the summit of Princeton Point. Governor Stanford, of California, visited the western end of the road, last week, for the purpose of inducing an abandonment of the rock cutting for that of the Central road, but found no one having authority to make the change. In any event the road will soon be completed through, as a very large force of men are now at work. Since the above was in type, we receive the news that the Secretary of the Interior has been officially informed of the completion of the road, and the rails of the two divisions will be joined this week. The Central road is to be completed sections from the 1000 mile point to Princeton Point, and will be put to rest as soon as possible.

be joined this week. The Central road is to be completed sections from the 1000 mile point to Princeton Point, and will be put to rest as soon as possible.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No. The Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No. The Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

THE COURT OF COMMONS has ordered that the report of the committee on the petition of the German Republicans, who have made their grievances known to us, be printed and distributed to the members of the House.

The report of Blackwell's will be published in the next issue of this paper.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.

The German Republicans who have made their grievances known to us have inquired whether the great Republican party of the United States entertains feelings of hostility to foreigners generally, and to Germans in particular, and also whether such sentiments are promulgated by the Beaver in relation to the latter approved by the Republicans of Beaver county. We answer No.