One Secret of a Happy Home.

We were in company the other day We were in company the other day with a gentleman apparently fifty or sixty years of age, who used in substance the following language:
"Were I to live my life over again I should make it a point to do fixindicate to a fellow being whenever I had no poportunity. I regret very much an opportunity. I regret very much that my habit has been so different, and that I have induced feelings so unlike those which would lead to such a course of life.

It has been too match my way to ist, others take care of themselves, while vented my passing. The follow look her dressing from clock. But sail in each strong it fought not to be exactly so, and there was something of an apology in his smile. It was on my "Run down Charlton." said Lady tongue to say 'in with your wagon, man! and don't let it stand here blocking up the passage." |But an influence prevailed: I went to the rear of the carriage and said, 'Now, try again my good fellow! while with again my good 'fellow!' while with the end of my umbrella I gave it a little push, and in the marriage went, and out 'came 'the pleasant 'Thank you sir; much obliged.' I would not for the streak of sunshine that this one little act of kindness threw over the rest of my walk, to say nothin of the lighting up of the coachman

And when I look back upon my ntercourse with my fellow men all the way along, I can confidently say that I never did a kindness to any human being without being happler for it. So that if I was governed by mere selfish motives, and wanted to live the happlest fife I could I would just simply obey the Bible precept to do good to all men as I had an opportunity.
