CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY. Mr. Spofford, the Congressional Libra rian, is a gentleman well acquainted with books, and his lecture before the ence in the little known and interes Social Science Association in New York on Tuesday evening last is indeed worthy of consideration. His suggestion for lighting the Library of Congress and throwing it open to the public during the evening is a spler id idea. The clerks and employes of the Government whose time is taken up in their offices time or journeyed so extensively among during the day, would be pleased to im-prove the benefits of this Library in the evening. It is important that we should have a National Library at Washington, It gives an account of pioneer life, it well sustained by adequate appropria-tions from Congress, and second to none in the world. Our Congressional Library now contains 185,000 volumes, and increasing every day by the addition of books from all parts of our own country and it might be said from the world, to the fullest extent the small amount of money sppr priated by Congress for the purchase of books will obtain. By an act of Con gress of 1855 a copy of every book published thereafter was required to be for-warded to this Library by the publishers consequently no money is required to purchase books published in the United States. But every new book has to be bound according to the rules of the Library which incurs no inconsiderable expense to the Government. The apropriations for the purchase of books for the Library of Congress is only $10,-000 yearly, while that for the British fuseum is $48,500.

The present Library accomodations are limited, and will be exhausted in a and retail. year or two at farthest. It is expected year or two as inclusion, as a supervised that there will be six effort made next sees to appropriate for the crection of a new building expressly for it.

A catalogue of the books in the Library, arranged by subjects, will be com-pleted at the close of the present year, which will enable the reader to ascertain
