progress of a session not biotted with disreputable intrigues, or, with the shadow of chruptions still more dispraceful. There was never a more favorable period for inaugurating this better state of things. We see plenty of significant indications that the people desire it, and that if the session of '69—'70 disappoints these expectations, it will be for the last time in the experience of our own party. Let us, then, see how many of the Republicas members-elect will shake hands together, to ensure such a general conduct of the public business at this session as will save, instead of ruin our political ascendency in the Commonwealth. Let us thereby justify the popular confidence in the purity of our party organization, and in the personal honor of the citizens to whom we have entrusted official station,
