Sad Accident.-We are pained to chronicle, another painful accident, which occurred Tuesday last at Beaver Falls .-The facts as they come to us are nearly, as follows: Four or five little girls were out doors playing, and started a fire in an old cook stove, and as the fire did not burn to their pleasement, one of the little girls, whose name we did not learn, went n to the house and during the absence of her mother, took out the carbon oil can and proceeded to pour its contents into the stove, when the can exploded; and the little girl was in an instant wrapped in flames, and before any assistan reached her she was burned to deathher feet and other portions of her body being crisped to a degree rendering i sickening to look upon.—New Brighte Herald.

Editor Arous :- Can you tell us with it is that almost everybody has a dealer to come to Beaver and live, and yet some of those who do come are hardly know by their nearest neighbors until they begin to find fault with the town, and insist on having our streets converted into race-courses, our beautiful squares root ed up by hogs and one or more whisky shops set to running in our borough? Taking it for granted that you cannot give a satisfactory answer to my ques tion, will you allow me say to these grumblers, and in most of the cases the are non-taxpavers, that if they are dis satisfied with Beaver, its ordinances and ideas (by the way it is these ideas that has given Beaver its good name both a home and abroad) they will give offence to no one, should they see proper to pack their trunks and conduct them selves beyond the borough limits. write this and at the came time doesire to be looked upon as either

Statements of J. S. Rutau, J. H. Johnston, J. A. Frazier and J. H. Trimble in relation to the Graphing Shields Election.

BEAVER, Aug. 27, 1870. EDITOR ARGUS:—It seems my statement and that of Sheriff Greebing published in this week's Argus are not sat-isfactory, although they seem to me to be isfactory, although they seem to me to be tion, and if you go along I can make very comprehensive. The charge was as them right," I think be mentioned with an avidity the earliest opportunity, consistent with his extreme modesty, to the earliest opportunity, thave always understood it, that I sold the refute that which was never imputed to the Republican candidate for Sheriff last fall and I replied denying him Decarme could do him good out there. He then followed Decarme conduct of the treacherous, dissembling, the charge fully, and stated that I labor-out there. He then followed Decarme conscience-stricken Macboth, who in the ed for the election of Arthur Shields. I agony of remorae and without an accuser, cried out: "Thou cannt not say I the voic at that election, that the charge

J. A. F. did it." Would it not have been much could not be true. If there had been any better for the noble, learned, and distin-guished Senator to have observed the distates of common prudence and foster-dence would be easily obtained. Suped a profound silceen, "that his virtues | pose I was guilty of all you charge, in against the deep damnation of his taking Shields' defeat? Drinking a toast to the off." This he did not do. His very next sherfff would not go very far to-fruitful imagination was equal to the wards his election. But now that I know task of shattering and scattering all dam- what the charge really is, I am prepared san or anattering and scattering at dami-aging reports concerning his Scuatorial dignity, and he conjures up and parades before the public gaze that admirable lec-ture of nonsense, which in verity signi-ling nothing because it. fices nothing, because it is evasive and foreign to the true issue. was nearly ten o'clock p. m. when we left Johnston's store and went to the hotel— Johnston going along. There was nothing occurred that night or while I was there between Mr. Graebing and myself that the whole world might not have seen and heard without objection on m part. Decarme's object in getting me to go out with him was to put me under some obligation to him (by using hi great influence there for me) and thus nduce me to urge Dr. Shurlock to get him a place at Harrisburg last winter He told me he was going to send for do so for him. This man Decarme in the author of the falsehoods you quo ho a disinterested witness. What is his notive? He fulled to get a place at Harrisburg, and then, and not until then, did he think to repeat these charges. He said before Dr. Shurlock and I went to Harrisburg, that if we did not get him a muddy pool of intrigue the deeper he place he would "blow us up." As we will find himself in the mire; and, if he did not regard his blowing we chose to disregard his threat. The way he raged and stormed about it was fearful, I am in any other shape than that of a politi- told, and this silly falsehood was the result. I have a few reasons to give which I think Aonest min will regard as con clusive answers to Decarme's story: ist. It is not alleged and there was no
