INSPECTOR CORNEORTH'S RAPORT.

To a home bereft of its support, and scattered, and from which the possibility of family enjoyments and blessings is removed, the State offers in her soldiers' orphans schools, a happy and beneficent alternative. In these are found kindness, sympathy and protection. Here are taught the value of industry, and the excellence of morality, virtue and religion. Every branch of labor has its superintendent or teacher, so that all work by the orphans is done under instruction. The girls, beside becoming familiar with all kinds of house work, such as washing, cooking, latting, chamber work, de., are also taught to use the receile and sewing machine. For want of facilities the boys seldom learn trades. In a few instances a small number of them.

Judge Loughbrige, of the House Judiciary Committee, at the meeting, of the Committee yesterlay, submitted a report drawn up in favor of the Woman Suffrage side of the question when it was found out that, out of nine constituting the committee, only himself and Gen. Butler favored the report—walk. the report—wait.

A Touching Incident.

A Touching Incident.

The world is full of mournful Incidents. How little do we know of the poignant sorrow myriads of our fellow creatures are compelled to suffer. The following touching event we take from the Boston Journal:

"An expressman upon reaching his office early one cold morning in January observed on the sidewalk, a long, heavy box, which his practiced eye at once identified as containing a corpse. Upon the cuit of the box, thivering with cold, sat a little half-clad boy, about seven or eight years of age. Addressing him kindly, he said:

"My lad, don't sit there, you will state during the war was only 20,834 while since then it has riseu to 27,862.

Two of rhe five were examined in the additional subjects and were approved. The classical examiners spoke very highly of the classical works of all the students.

The colored people of Council Biuffs had a hall some evenings ago where rich and, respectable white folks quite "cut out," their mea and brethren in securing the war was only 20,834 while since then it has riseu to 27,862.

"My lad, don't sit there, you will freeze, come in and sit by the stove."

Bursting into tears the little fellow replied. "No, I can't come my mother is in this box and I promised her that I would not leave her until we got home."

Deeply affected with the touching the world of this brave little fellow, he finally succeeded in convincing him of the entire safety of his precious charge, and taking him to a neighboring restaurant, gave him a warm breakfast, and then learned the particulars of his story.

His father died about a year previously, in a remote village in Minnesota, leaving his mother in poor health and nearly destitute. She died but a few days before the boy's sad journey, charged the little hero with the duty of conveying the remains to her friends in a distant State, and furnished him with (all she had) a sum of money harely sufficient to carry them both by freight cars to their destination. The little fellow had actually ridden night and day in a freight car with his melancholy trust, never for a moment losing sight of it.
