WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23d, 1871.

Really Mr. Editor, the "great carnival," for the pust two days, has taken much of the writing proclivities out of me. To attempt to give you a full and satisfactory report of it in the limited difficulties of a Washington letter, would be ridiculous, and therefore, please accept (which is considered by the good natured folks here as a good substitute) "the great Carnival Republican," a complete great Carnival Republican," a complete great Carnival Republican, and the coasion by the proprietor of the National Republican of this city.
