THE Connecticut election case has at length resulted in placing the Republican candidate-Mr. Jewell-in the Gubernatorial chair. The Legislature of that State, on Thursday last declared Governor Jewell, and the remainder of the Republican ticket duly elected. This result came about by the unearthing of Democratic frauds in the Fourth Ward of the city of New Haven; five hundred and seventy-nine citizens of that ward swore before the Legislative Committee on canyans of votes, that they had at the late Gubernatorial election in Connecticut, cast their votes for Jewell, whereas the returns gave him one hundred votes less. This difference was sufficient to strict party vote in the Legislature Will Democrata ever learn to conduct
