A Prescher on the Wing,—Rev. A. B. Way was formerly the leading clergyman of Alliance. He could make longer prayers, and preach with more earnestness, than any other derical gentleman in the town. However, some time since he became entirely too sociable with some of the good looking sisters, and had to quit preaching. As he made his bread and butter by preachhe male his bread and butter by prosenting, they stopped when his preaching stopped. He was not inclined to work with his hands, and in order to raise some funds, he forged notes to the some funds, he forged notes to the some funds, he forged notes to the latter is necessary to a correct diagnosis of two or three thousand dollars.
