My first essay in the aeronautic line transpired when I was a boy, and caused me to be regarded with great honor by my playmates, and contributed to my back sundry stripes from a birch in parental hand. The feat consisted in a leap into the air from the top of a three story building with an open umbrella in each hand. A sudden gyration of my body, with right side nethermoest, apprised me of the fact that the imbrelia in the right hand had collapsed and I alighted upon the earth with my heels up the sudden concussion so jarring my bones that liniments were at a promium in a neighboring apothecary shop for some days.

But my ame is Bob Woodfolk, from My and sex clamation:

I found myself in that city with a patent, but without any money or credit. The patent was one which I controlled in several southwestern States, and I expected to realize largely from it, but after I had expended much time labor and money, I found it was not a good season for patent pumps.—

What with theadvertising the music, the preparation of exhibition ground, the erection of exhibition ground, the erection of seats, a supply of gas, and a host of minor details, could keep me more busily employed for a few days. Accordingly, as soon as a suitable location could be found, and the gas company consulted, I hastened to a printer to order posters and dodgers, and to have an announcement in all the papers of the city. On the subquent morning I found my name ornamenting many dead walls and my intended exploit very generally noticed by the press. Three days of hard work had passed. The sation fickets mingled with other work, supplied funds to handle the erostatic muchine and cover it with an additional coat of varnish, and to settle the larger proportion of the advance bills except that of the gas. Here I was stranded upon the shouls of impecualosity. Not a foot of gas could be had until the bill for the whole was jaild. I wanted to commence the inflation at five o'clock on Friday morning—early, to provide against as ceident or contingency. So the affair must be settled on Thursday—After failing in several attempts with prominent parties, some of whom had, scruples about furnishing materials for breaking my neck, and others not being regarded as responsible at the gas office, I requested Mr. Steadmanof the Louisville Hotel, to give me an order for the gas and charge it in my bill.

"When can you settle the bill?" a suppose the attendance is a failure?"

As we passed zenithward, the speed of our machine becoming accelerated by discharge of ballast, and its continual advancement into lighter air, a cloud was noticed above us. I inquired of my companion whether he desired to pass through it or whether we should fall. This was the only cloud we would likely encounter owing to the remarkable clearness of the atmosphere, and my hope was that he would request me not to enter it, as the earth, though almost lost to our view, had not lost its attractions for me; but my passenger responded:

"I am not the captain; you are

A moment had narry passed when we went through the cloud of fleecy haze like a railway train, causing portions of it to eddy, and open and drift like snow in a windstorm. Meanwhile the gas poured out of the neck of the balloon in a volume as large as the twenty-lach neck-pipe would admit, and I discovered we were climbing higher than might prove pleasant. Five/minutes had not elapsed since we left the earth, and at the fearful rate we were moving five minutes more would be apt to furnish us with immediate facilities for death by exploding our balloon, through the rapid expansion of the gas. In a moment I opened the valves, and soon we began to descend. By climbing up, and sliding down, the air in this manner, for some time, alternating the discharge of gas and ballast, I found before we had been in the air half an hour that we had expended all our extra controlling the property was in the hands of a concern who had advanced money on it.

"Ah!" mentally ejaculated I, "here is just the thing for me, with which to blaze before the world like a stray come!!" And, in twenty minutes, I was on the horse cars of the Portland raliroad bound for New Albany. I found the balloon snugly stowed away in a loft, with all the parapharually and auxiliaries of a first-class equipment. With a business and professional air, I had the apparatus taken out and spread upon an adjoining common for examination. I found everything complete and in order, as near as Loculd judge from any limited knowledge of the matter. Within two hours an agreement was made with the holders of the apparatus and me in exchange for about one out of old iron than from varnished linnen—and in another hour my treasure was loaded into package wagon's and on the road to Louisville.

Now for work. It was Monday afternoon and I determined to make an ascent on Friday afternoon of thousand delars. What with the advertising the music, the preparation of exhibition ground, the erection of seats, a supply of gas, and a host of minor details, could keep me more busily employed for a faw days. No reconautever visited a gas office

I would build broad, open balconies for the beby scholars, where, during every daylight moment of fair weather, they might have fresh air and bits of beauty flowering under their inquiring eyes. I would have the Pouponniero of Brussells copier; making elementary education begin—not when a scholar s attle, and the first pointing of it ingers to pictures hid plants: 'W hould—or our children would wee should—or our children would "see the good results of such cradle teaching; of testheles thrown into the alphabet; into the toy shop, the playgrund, and the adornments of the school-room. Not the child that is alive to the simplest lessons and beauties of the field, that can delight in striving to imitate—if only with straw or paper—a beautiful form before it, is far on the way to a higher contention, even should subsequent events prove untoward in its path, than the creatures of dull, uniformed aight in infinery, who may be kept well at school under good masters. A feeling for the beautiful, a delight in it, which at present is almost unknown in England, is that which we shall strive after, not in art academics, but in infant schools and nurseries. The roughest Dutch doll is the Venus dir Medici to the child mies, but in infant schools and pur-series. The roughest Dutch doll is the Venus di Medici to the child that nurses it. We give the ugly thing to the child, and so make for ourselves the after difficulty of prov-ing that dolly is ugly. The remark applies to nearly all dolls; certainly to all that are English.

Diseases of the Lungs. It is more particularly at this see It is more particularly at this season of the year that we suffer most danger of contracting diseases of the lungs, and once contracted there is but one method of ridding the system, and that is by a systematic course of treatment, such as is employed by Dr. Keyser, of No. 167 Liberty Street. There is no knowing whether the hacking cough is morely a severe cold, or an actual ing whether the backing cough is morely a severe cold, or an actual lung disease, which, unless stopped, may ultimately prove fatal. Dr. Keyser's LangCare is a remedy which has been more successful than any other, and, iudeed, we know of no other that projects to do and does what Dr. Keyser's remedy performs. Dr. Keyser claims that consumption is not necessarily the fatal disease it is popularly supposed to be, and that if the cure be taken in time, the aliment is quite manageable and capable of a popularly supposed to be, and that it the cure be taken in time, the alinent is quite manageable and capable of a decided cure. As Dr. Keyser says, he has patients brought to his office whom even he deemed entirely beyond cure, and yet, after a judicious course of treatment they have recovered and regained their former health. Dr Keyser has given the best years of his life to the study of the lungs and of consumption, which makes such terrible ravages. After this protracted course of study, it would be strange if he was not competent to search for evidences of disease and treat it succomfully where it does exist. The numerous cases in which this physician has combated consumption and restored health and vigor form a sufficient recommendation for his Lung Cure. If your druggist does not keep it, send five dollars to Dr. Keyser, and he will send four bottlessecurely boxed, by express, with full directions how to use it.—Pilts. Dispatch.
