For the Beaver Argus. THE "TWO WITNESSES." BY HOMO.

MR. EDITOR:-In our attempt relieve the mind of that gentleman riend, near Hazel Dell, we shall endeavor to show to the readers of the Argus that although this portion of Divine revelation is considered, by the professed church, to rank among the nonessentials; that it is, nevertheless, a "Revelation of Jesus Christ which God gave unto him to show unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass."

In our last we determined the two testaments to be the "two witnesses we shall notice now what is meant by "prophesying in sackclocth." Sack-cloth has two significations in the scriptures. 1st, sorrow, affliction, mourning; 2d, obscurity or darkness. It has the latter meaning in this in stance, under the "sixth seal," it is said, "the sun became black as sack-cloth of hair," Rev. vi, 12. "Sackcloth of hair" over the sun would not shut out its light wholly, but would to prophesy during the whole gospel dispensation, but their sackcloth testimony is confined to 1,260 years, during which period their testimony was to be faithfully borne, but in a measure hid or obscured by a shroud of sackcloth thrown over them. Paul informs us that in his day "the word of God was not bound;" but he also speaks of the "falling away" or apostacy that was to ensue after his diseasc. He tells us that the great pagan power, which then persecuted the church, "hindered" the development of that apostacy, but that this hindering cause should be "taken out of the way," and then the apostacy, should begin and make rapid strides towards perfection in the establishmet of "the man of sin," or papal hierarchal succession. The church continued comparatively pure until Constantine the Roman Emperor was converted—about A. D. 312, when the church rapidly became corrupt-creed after creed was instituted, and "the way seemed prepared for thedecay of every Christian doctrine." By the commencement of the sixth century the of the christians had become no less dolatrous than that of the Pagansthe Roman Catholic Church was fully developed. The first name found on the head of the symbolic woman of is sorely needed. If Mr. Hartrant Rev. xvii, which represents the and his friends have really nothing Catholic Church, is that of "mystery." This will give us a clue to the meaning of the "sackcloth" which was 1260 years. The Revelator informs Mr. H. is only taking time to conus that this woman is "that great city" to enshroud the "witnesses" during us that this woman is "that great city sider, and if so, it might be well to that reigneth over the Kings of the give him another item or two to earth," and this reign is confined to
