This she drops, and picks up a rock fragment of the Silurian age, and makes her first mistake-they all do it--of seizing the projectile with the wrong hand. with malice aforethought, sho makes the further blunder of swinging her arms perpendicularly instead of horizontally-thereupon the stono flies in the air, describing an irregular elliptical curve, and strikes the surface of the earth as far from the hen as the thrower stoor at the time, in a course, due, west om the same, the hen then bearing by the compass north-notheast by half-east,

At the second attempt the stone narrowy missed the head of the thrower herif who seeing that any further attempt of the kind would be smeaded, and what she might have done first started after the hen with an old and familiar weapon. The moral of which is, a tick to the broomstick.

HARDWARE, Hardware, Hurdware for ale by A. S. Harvey Bridge vator.

An exchange says that a callant hear while escorting his sweetheart home from the circus, came to a puddle which was found too deep for the lady to cross without wetting her feet. Doubtless feeling equal to the emergency, the gal-lant swain gently lifted his dulcina in his arms, and proceeded to carry her across the muddy lake. Treacherous mud ! misplaced contidence ! Just as he was nearing solid ground the slipperv earth caused his heels to make an angle skywards, and both the gentleman and lady fell "curflumix" into the mud and water. A more woe-begone or pittiable
