An Indiana Juror Offers to Sell . Out.

The Indianapolis Journal, of March 25th, says: A startling disclosure occurred vesterday in the trial of a case in the Superior Court of this county. A juror, respectably connected, and heretofore well esteemed, seeks out a litigant and delinerately proposes to secure him a verdict for $100 in money. Such a thing has probably never happened in the State before, and we doubt if a more flagrant outrage on the duties of citizenship has ever come to light anywhere The man is not a "professional juror;" indeed, so far as we know, has neversation a jury before; but it seems he no sooner found himself in a position of trust, than he began GREEN ----casting about to make money by betraying it.
