chief of the New York Tribune, to succeed the great and good Greeley. "Well." remarked Robert, "it would be like supplementing the luminosity of the noonday sun: with the flash a sick fire fly makes on a moonlight night." When William Orton heard of this he dropped Colfax instanter and resold to Reid his fifty-one shares of Tribune stock.

The belief that Winthrop W. Ketchum will be chosen Attorney General by Gov. ernor Hartranit, is gaining ground here. All look upon it at an appointment emipently fit to be made. Abraham Lincoln made William H. Seward, his most formidable opponent in 1860, his premier. Chase, Cameron and Bates, who were also voted for in the Lincoln Convention for President, were called to the Cabinet of Mr. Lincoln, and the success of that administration is a part of the nation's his-

AMONG THE PHILISTINES. The Constitutional Convention is now in session in this city, and although its sessions are held in a Presbyterian church (Old School,) yet this pious fact does not prevent members from engaging in ways that are sinful. On Thursday night last one of the leading members of the Convention started out with seven hundred dollars in his pockets, and soon after meeting with a late member of the Legislature, a present member, and the custodian of the cash required to pay interest on the public debt of the city, the four engaged in a game of "Poker." They stopped only when the "boys" had "cleaned out" the delegate of all but $7.00 of his cash. With this and with a quantity of whisky within him, that if "tax paid" would make a perceptible reduction of the public debt, the delegate started for the home of his father in law, where his young, handsome and wealthy wife is stopping. Just how to cheat his wife into the belief that be was entirely sober, was what most concerned the man who is to give us revised Constitution. In detailing the manner in which he did it the delegate said: "My wife and I occupy two adjoining rooms at her father's, a parlor and bed-room. About 3 o'clock I managed to get to the parlor adjoining our bed room. striking about twenty matches on the wrong end, I was about to give up in despair, when by accident I got one by the right end, and got up a light. The next thing in order was to complacently take a smoke. By scattering a paper of tobacco the Schuylkill [this delegate might be to those indicated. justly called a Schuylkill Ranger,] where I found a Hibernian opening his whisky mill. I asked him could he make me a gin cocktail. 'I kin, zur,' he replied. I went in, and a gin cocktail was made for me. 'How much is it, my friend?' I asked, after I had thrown myself around it. 'Foive cents, zur,' he answered. 'Then, by heavens, I'm poisoned,' ejaculated this Constitutional delegate. However, it did not poison me, and after taking two or three more, I went to Augustine's to get a de'icate breakfast. Told the waiter to broil me a quail, make me a cup of tea and some buttered toast, with a sliced toand All these were brought to me, and aller looking at them for a moment or in I concluded that what I wanted was agn cocktail. So; ordering up one, I asked the waiter how much I owed him.

The lecture of Prof. Leo. Miller on Friday evening in the Court House, on the subject of the "Relations of Woman to Moral Reforms, with special reference to Temperance," was a decided success. both as regards the lecture itself, and the audience assembled to hear it. The methods of the lecturer were analytical and inductive, and he developed his subject with a skillful hand. The Professor took for granted that natural fitness determined the line of duty, and proceeded to show that woman possessed pre-eminently the moral forces of society, and man the material, and that these natural differences were indicative of their separate spheres of activity. Man was the tamer of nature, the subduer of physical forces, the creator of wealth; but woman, with her fine and superior organization, was the reformer, the refiner, the beautifier of society. Her presence assuages the angry passions of men, improves their manners, elevates their sentiments and envelops their material life with a moral atmosphere. She has accomplished this in some degree in the tamily, in the church; but in a republic the full power of her moral influences can never be realized ty of the ballot. ernment. Prot. Miller was requested to deliver another lecture on Friday evening, January 18, which he promised to do, and on that evening he will lecture in the Presbyterian Church on the subject "The Era of Woman, or the Divine Republic." The lecture is free, the speaker is eloquent and very instructive, and the subject is one of great importance. These facts should be sufficient inducements to draw a crowded house.

There is a rumor that a four feet vein of black band iron ore has been discovered somewhere on the Little Beaver creek, near Smith's Ferry, and that in consequence a company is to be organized to develop the mine and to start a rolling mill either at Georgetown or Smith's Ferry. We give the rumor as we heard it, as a piece of interesting news to many in that section of the county, and sincerely hope that the facts are as stated.

An interesting and successful revival is now in grogress at the M. E. Church, Georgetown, under the superintendence of Rev. Gledhill, pastor. Quite a number have already been awakened, and a few have joined the church. The meetings are well attended both in the daytime and evenings, and the pastor and people are unremitting in their labors.

Economy in Coal.—The most practical suggestion yet made toward econoomy in coal, seems to be the use of solid bottoms in fire grates. It is asserted, and indeed proved, that in any fire not excessively small, a plate of iron placed upon the grate will save the consumption of coal, reduce the smoke, and leave a cheerful, free burning fire. Quite sufficient air enters through the bars, no poking is necessary, and the fire never goes out till the coals are consumed. Any householder can try this experiment, and ruduce his coal bill, say thirty per cent.. at the cost of a shilling.
