

whose fine executive ability has been eminently displayed in the masterly arrangements made by him for facilitating the business of his department. This handsome and agreeable representative of Beaver county has made a most favorable impression on social circles. His assistants, Messrs. L. Rogers of McKean, and A. D. Harlan of Chester, are fine specimens of masculine humanity; Mr. Rogers particularly being greatly admired by the ladies. In the transcribing room of the Convention, a snug little apartment, we find Major John L. Linton, of Philadelphia, a gentleman well known in our business circles, who did his whole duty, during the rebellion, in the field. Mr. Linton is universally popular, and is greatly sought after in his official capacity, as well as by his private friends. He is certainly the right man in the right place. Here, too, Mr. Parker, of Jersey Shore, holds forth; and, though mentioned last, he is by no means last in the estimation of the ladies, who besiege him daily in his sanctum. It is needless to mention Mr. Parker from a political standpoint; his eminent political status being thoroughly ascertained. One of the remarkable features of the Convention is the fact of two gentlemen from Luzerne—Messrs. Palmer—father and son, occupying seats side by side. Mr. A. B. Dunning, one of the most influential members of the Convention, is also from Luzerne. He has already made his impression on our society. This gathering together of the brains and intellect, from all parts of the State, will be productive of infinitely more good than can be possibly estimated by dollars and cents. If no legal enactments were to result from it, and the actual cost far out ran the original estimate, the very interchange of thought it has eliminated would advance the cause of civilization at least a hundred years. Woman Suffrage is still the all absorbing topic.

The Constitutional Convention.

In the Constitutional Convention, Monday, after some preliminary business, the discussion of the secret ballot amendment was resumed in Committee of the Whole, Judge Lawrence in the chair.

Mr. Hay (Allegheny) thought that the ballot-box should be protected more effectually than it is now, and favored the section.

Mr. McAllister (Center) felt that it was required of this convention, and so esteemed by those who sent the members to this hall, that new guards should be thrown about the elective franchise to preserve it from frauds. Gentlemen had frankly confessed on this floor that "repeaters" and "rounders" in our large cities go round from poll to poll, committing outrages upon every honest citizen who had voted, thus thwarting the aims and desires of all who desire to have honest elections and elect honest men to office. He urged the adoption of the section as reported by the committee, as the only one which can remedy the evils now prevalent.

Mr. Collins (Fayette) opposed the proposition, and believed that for the protection of the mechanics, laboring men and humbler classes generally, the secret ballot should be embodied in the Constitution of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Beebe (Venango) believed that of the 750,000 voters in Pennsylvania, there were 550,000 at least who would say that we have a system now which is satisfactory to us. If Philadelphia is corrupt at her elections, let her people take the matter into their own hands. He would not say that the time will not yet come when for "repeaters" and "rounders" lamp posts and strong hemp would be required.

Judge Walker (Erie) would vote against the section. No doubt the gentlemen of the committee were honest in their convictions, but the question arises, are they more honest than those who oppose their report. He thought that they and their supporters on this floor were mistaken in their positions on this subject. He had no objection, and never had, to tell who he intended to vote for, but there were timid men in every community who did not like to be asked who they would vote for. To these men the secret ballot was a protection. He denied the flippant assertions of gentlemen from Philadelphia, that the secret ballot had proved a failure in this government. Was it a failure in the six New England States? Is there any portion of any country in the wide world where man's rights are better protected than in those New England States? From the days when the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, those colonies, and now Commonwealths, had used the ballot. Has it been a failure with them? No! And when gentlemen assert it, they purposely falsify the record and utter a lie. No. Instead of a failure, the ballot has been a triumph in the New England States. He favored the present provision of the Constitution, and hoped that the section would be promptly voted down.

Mr. Gowen (Philadelphia) wanted the delegates from the country to understand that there were great frauds committed in this city, and claimed that there were several thousand citizens more than detailed in Sodom and Gomorrah who resolved to check these frauds. A number of amendments were now proposed to the amendment of Mr. Beer, and were voted down, as was also the latter.

On motion the committee rose, with leave to sit again.

ROCHESTER, February 21, 1873. EDITOR BEAVER RADICAL.—Dear Sir: It appears that my communication does not sit well upon the stomach of "T. G." I had no idea of getting up a controversy, but simply to say a word in favor of prohibition.

The question soon to be decided by the voters, is one that is fraught with consequences that effects us, our neighbors, and our posterity; and therefore is worthy our serious consideration, and it is well to have it well ventilated.

I am glad this is a land of liberty of opinions in regard to every question that affects the public welfare. What a blessing it is to have the privilege of expressing our views untrammelled, either by church, or State, upon any vital question that may agitate the public mind.

Truth is eternal and will ultimately prevail; especially in an enlightened community like ours, where the newspapers find their way (or ought to) into every house.

"T. G." proposes to discuss the question: "Is alcoholic medication necessary in the treatment of disease." He says "upon its proper solution turns the great issue of temperance." I fear he uses temperance as synonymous with total abstinence. If so, I propose he consult Webster. Paul recommended Timothy to use wine as a medicine; ergo Paul was opposed to temperance.

The first miracle Christ ever performed to prove that he was sent from God to redeem the world, was to make wine; ergo the blessed Jesus was opposed to temperance.

It won't do to have but one idea at a time, else, in our blindness, we are sure to run the cause we espouse upon the breakers. We are commanded to be temperate in all things, but cautioned against the abuse of anything. How can we be temperate in the use of alcoholic liquors? Certainly not by total abstinence, when needed as a medicine. It is impossible to be temperate, in alcoholic liquors, unless we use them in some way. The temperate use of anything, is to use it and not abuse it in any way; and the reason I vote against license, is because men who obtain them care not whether their patrons are drunk or sober, the almighty dollar being their ruling incentive.

I am surprised that any enlightened man can be found willing to take the negative of the question. Suppose Mr. A. is bitten by a venomous serpent, how is his system to eliminate the poison, unless buoyed up by a diffusible stimulant such as I have recommended? Suppose Mr. B. falls under the cars and has his knee crushed, the shock which the nervous system has received will hurry him into eternity, unless you can produce a reaction of the arterial system, and that speedily. What are you going to substitute in place of good rye whiskey?

Suppose Mr. C. has been worn down to the verge of the grave under typhoid fever. Where is your substitute for good whiskey punch? The man that will persist in clinging to the delusion that life can be prolonged, under such circumstances, without a diffusible stimulant, is a novice in human physiology; and is arguing against the theory and practice of the best physicians and surgeons known in the land.

I could enumerate scores of circumstances in which the physician finds his patients placed, where no substitute will avail. We have, in the Materia Medica, no substitute, nothing that will make such an immediate impression upon the nerves of the stomach. No time is lost in its action, but immediately the impression is sent to the brain and being advised that vital energy is hastening on through the circulation, it wakes up to new life, being conscious (like an army overpowered by the enemy) that the reinforcements will be on hand in due time, another effort is put forth and life is saved. "T. G." argues that upon a proper solution of this question turns the issue of temperance. I hold a half loaf better than no bread. If we must have whiskey as a medicine, and to use in the arts, that is no reason that it should be used as a common beverage.

I have no disposition to prolong the argument, only to set the public mind right upon a question in which we are all interested. The public mind has been poisoned by men, so zealously in the temperance cause, that they are not satisfied with dispensing with it as a beverage, nothing short of prohibiting it as a medicine, too, will fill up the measure of their mission.

"T. G." I would say I am willing to cooperate with him and all citizens in bringing about any moral reform, only stopping short of hanging poor women for witchcraft, or boring holes in the ears of Quakers on account of them differing from us in our views of theology. OBSERVER.

At a communion held in the First Presbyterian Church of Bridgewater, on the 16th inst., forty-five persons were added to the church, forty on examination, and three on certificate from other churches. These, with five added at the communion in January, make fifty additions to the roll in 1873. The people of God are revived, and the good work is still in progress. The Bridgewater congregation is flourishing as in its palmy days, and fortunate in having a zealous, earnest, and active pastor.

To Teachers.—The teachers of the county, and those desiring to attend a good school without great expense, should write to or visit our College.

The Chinese Question.—The citizens of Beaver Falls and vicinity held a large and influential meeting on Wednesday, in that place, to consider the Chinese question. The meeting was called to order by Daniel Barnard, Esq., and on motion Maj. J. H. Fife was chosen President, Messrs. Daniel Barnard, T. J. McGowan, and Alex. Fleming, Vice Presidents. The following resolutions were adopted with much enthusiasm:

Resolved, That the people of Beaver Falls be proclaimed at the large importation of "Coolie" laborers by a cutlery company located in Beaver Falls—two hundred being now employed; and about one hundred more, said to be on the way from China for the same establishment; and other works of the same company—thereby causing the discharge of white American mechanics and workmen; therefore

Resolved, That we most earnestly disapprove of and condemn the importation of Chinese laborers in the United States, in the manner it is done, for the following reasons:

First.—Because there is nothing in their nature that fits them to be brought in contact with Christian communities, and that their enforced proximity amongst us discloses an intention to plant a slavery in the North, far more baneful in its effects than African slavery ever was in the South.

Second.—Because their habits and mode of living are so different to ours as to forbid competition by our people, and to subject them to such competition is more than they ought, can or will bear.

Resolved, That during the year 1873, and since, the agents of the Harmony Society made promises of constant employment to those who purchased property in Beaver Falls, and we consider the importation of Chinese to compete with them a violation of such promises, as it is impossible for our people to compete in any line of labor with the Chinese—whose highest pay in the cutlery works is said to be one dollar per day; they boarding themselves.

Resolved, That if the citizens of Beaver Falls had been informed that Coolies were to be employed in any branch of labor in the town, they would have stamped it as they would stamp a leprosy.

Resolved, That while we regret that loss has been sustained by the Harmony Society in operating the cutlery in Beaver Falls, we are of the firm belief that a much more speedy recovery of such loss would be accomplished by the immediate removal of the Coolies now employed, and the selection of citizen mechanics.

Resolved, That a committee of nine persons be appointed by this meeting for the purpose of selecting a delegation of fifty or one hundred persons to visit the Harmony Society at Economy, to hand to them a copy of these resolutions, and to describe in person the impending destruction of all business interests in Beaver Falls and neighborhood.

John Erkin, Esq., of Beaver Falls, addressed the meeting, which was well received and to the point, after which the committee, indicated above, was made, consisting of Messrs. Daniel Barnard, Robert Duncan, T. J. McGowan, S. M. Hawkins, Robert Newton, F. Rohrkaste, W. Harrison, Joseph Diemer and J. Anderson.

The meeting then adjourned to meet on Wednesday of this week at 7 P. M. to hear the report of the committee of One Hundred. On Monday this Committee visited the Economies, and were very cordially received by the trustees of the Society, who listened patiently to a number of fearless and indignant protests against their Coolie labor business, and promised to take the subject into serious consideration and answer in writing in a few days. The Committee left with some encouragement that the Society would soon disperse with Chinese labor.

Rev. W. Kerr, a Presbyterian minister, has been deposed from the ministry in the Northumberland Presbytery, for ill-treating his wife. He was formerly a student at the Western Theological Seminary, and in May, 1871, married Miss Emily Magill, formerly of Enon Valley, Lawrence county; but then residing at Pittsburgh. He settled at Easton, Pa., after his marriage, but the matrimonial infelicities of the pair were so grievous that the lady in about eight months returned home, and subsequently preferred the charges against him which led to his expulsion from the church. He will appeal the case to the Synod.

We are assured that the lecture to be delivered in the U. P. Church, on Thursday evening on "Robert Burns," will be worthy of the subject, and both instructive and interesting to all who may have the good fortune to hear it. Fill the house!

Cannelton, Editor Beaver Radical: Cannelton, like Rome, was not destined to be built in a day, and having found out the fallacy—that what is good for a city is not good for the country, has nearly fought about the Millennium; and with it raised funds for a Free Church, for all denominations, at this place. Our Catholic brothers have built a church and school house, resulting in great good; and wishing to be truly catholic, are lending a helping hand towards raising funds. To prove further that the Millennium period is about here, the miners and working men have agreed perfectly during the past year with our operators over that "knotty" problem—capital and labor—and the result, is like ready money Jack, have plenty of cash in both pockets, and are not jealous, envious, or O. G. estial work, ing parties.

King Boreas has been making us long visit, the thermometer touching 30 degrees below zero on two mornings, making work more plenty, by the increased demand for coal.

The peach buds have suffered severely, scarcely a live one to be found on our highest and most protected points. Cherries are slightly damaged; apples all safe, and with good prospect for wheat—still look forward to a pleasant Thanksgiving day.

A proposition is about to lay out the mail routes, and run them for all concerned. A our place has been "sighted" during the past years. The coming month promises a change of policy in the working of mail routes, which we hope will bear fruit.

A good deal of money is being raised to secure votes to continue the "reign of terror," but you can count on a large vote against continuing the same. All the "coal land" in this vicinity, some four thousand acres, have been leased by a strong Coal Company from Ohio, and they promise us another competing route to the Lukes.

The "Old Time History" of Beaver county, published in THE RADICAL and Argue is rather scantily supplied with the full facts as to the times, forts and battles amongst the Indians of Beaver Valley. A more full and interesting account is in preparation, and will be laid before your readers at an early day.

The Coraet Band have made great progress on their new silver horns, and bid fair to rival all competition. Last week the four Coal Companies paid out to their men over eleven thousand dollars for one month's work. K.

Beaver College.—The meeting of the citizens in the Court House, Tuesday evening, in the interests of this Institution, though not large, was highly satisfactory in its results. More than a thousand dollars was subscribed on the spot for the prosecution of the work now in progress, showing the liberality and public spirit of the town. Messrs. Geo. W. Hamilton and Anderson Laird, were appointed a committee to raise the additional thousand dollars required, and from the spirit of this meeting, and the acknowledged energy of these gentlemen, there is no longer any doubt of the complete success of this undertaking. It should have been stated in the meeting that of our citizens, Judge Agnew, who has always been a firm and efficient friend of the school, has paid four hundred dollars on the present contract, and David Minis was the first to subscribe and pay over a hundred dollars, nearly a year since.

Why Endure What is Curable? "What can't be cured must be endured," says the proverb; but indigestion can be cured, and therefore it is the merest stupidity to endure it. Dyspeptic have certainly a right to continue dyspeptic to the end of their days if they choose, but as it is not supposed that any rational being prefers physical torment to ease and health, the probability is that if all suffers from indigestion were convinced that an absolute, infallible remedy for their complaint existed, they would with one accord resort to it. We most emphatically declare that such a thing does exist, and that its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The record of its success extends over a period of twenty years, and it is fearlessly alleged that during the whole of that time it has never failed to afford permanent relief in any disorder or derangement of the stomach that was not organic, malignant, and incurable. The testimonials that go to establish this important fact can be counted by the thousands. Stomach complaints that had been aggravated by a total disregard of all dietary rules, and intensified and rendered chronic by medical treatment or drastic purgation, have in hundreds of instances been cured within three months by the systematic use of this celebrated stomachic alternative. It should be remembered that weakness of the digestive organs involves many other ailments. Biliousness, headache, nervous debility, spasms, palpitation of the heart, rush of blood to the head, nausea, vertigo, and sleeplessness are among the concomitants and results; and for all these the great vegetable tonic is a specific. It acts first upon the stomach, and through the stomach upon the secretory and nervous systems and the bowels, its general effect being always genial and beneficial. feb11-m
