How Advertising Pays.-The New England. It says: "About eighteen years ago Mr. Malley appeared in New Haven, and opened a small 'seven by nine' dry goods store on the principal business street of that city. At that time the heaviest merchants on the street scarcely advertised in the local newspapers to the extent of more than two squares each, and then in standing adver. tisements for the season. Mr. Malley, practicability of the route, and the natuwith a degree of sagacity that no one else ral resources of the country. The "Daily Graphic" has been rendered a practical enterprise by certain new processes by which wood engraving is entirely dispensed with, and the artist is thus permitted to deal directly with the public and engrave his own work These new processes, in connection with photography, have mide it possible to print pictures of events as rapidly as the occurrence can be related in type. Of course the possibilities of the invention are enormous; it is susceptible of application to an immense variety of purposes in regard to the publications of the day. It is no wonder that the public, who have been awaiting the issue of The Daily Graphic with great curiosity and interest, have welcomed with hearty unanimity the handsome daily paper which literally 'sketches" all public events.

The Pittsburgh Commercial says:-There appears to be a general misapprehension throughout the country with regard to the postal laws passed at the last session of Congress. Postoffice authorities almost everywhere complain of an abundance of drop letters bearing a one cent postage stamp, whereas the rate still remains at two. The bill reducing letter postage to two cents, and providing for the prepayment of postage on all mail matter, passed the House, but failed in the Senate. There was, however, an amendment to the Postoffice Appropriation bill which repeals all existing acts with regard to all free matter. This of course includes exchanges between newspapers and free postage on papers circulating in the counties where they are published. This law takes effect on the 1st of July.

For the Radical. CONVENTIONS.

Search history through the dreamy past-Far back in Roman ages. You seldom find the word "Convention" Written on its pages. The Medes and Persians fixed flieir laws, And forced them to the letter ; And Egypt, with her dazzling wealth. For changes was no better. The ancient council of one hundred

Met yearly in consultation. To make such laws as they might need. Engaged their whole attention. But in our days of railroad speed The people meet in Conventions here, Conventions there,

And here and there Conventions. Empires and nations rose and fell. While kings their scepters wield, Death and destruction stalk abroad O'er many a sattle field. But seldom then did men convene. And counsel with each other.

To resolve this and resolve that, And adopt them altogether. One sable Dido, of Punic fame. Called counselors in convention, To enlarge her domain was her aim, Her only known intention. Do modern people plan the same Conventions here. Conventions there. And here and there Conventions. Though Napoleon rode on battles storm, Mid fire, famine and flood; In sackcloth draped two thirds of Europe, And bathed her soil in blood,

When they meet in-

Yet hever did the masses call To council and devise, How he should make and manage plans To gain a certain prize. But things have changed in years of late, (Of course there's no prevention) It any new fledged hobby starts

The people call a Convention, To investigate as a whole or parts They hold-a Convention here, Convention there, And here and there a Convention.

There are "woman's rights" Conventions now Conventions for base bail; And to investigate the rights of men A Convention they will call. At Philadelphia once the wise convened, To declare our nation's birth. But to monthly meet for such a cause Was never known on earth. No such times as now were never known For holding of Conventions, In every land and every clime, Mid nations wild contentions; The daily news is all the time The people call Conventions here, Conventions there, And here and there Conventions.

The temperance folks and rummy-ites Each hold their own Conventions, And publish to the world at large What may be their intentions. Politicians, merchants and doctors too. Play also at this game, And the clergy meet in mass we hear, Their object is the same. Scientific men convene by times 'Bout some renowned invention : But 'twas never known till here of late go many strange Conventions.

In city, county, town and State We have calls for Conventions here, Conventions there, And here and there Conventions.

Turn where you may the word "Convention." In conspicuous places posted. To quiet long have boasted; Discussing this, debating that, Adopting means and measures. Devising plans by which they think To increase their worldly pleasures. Long reports in papers published! Oft meet our quiet gaze, Denouncing some, commending others. With fickle human praise.

And so we see it stated in those columns Appointments for Conventions here, Conventions there, And here and there Conventions. I am eick and tired of the word Convention, Thus ringing in my ears; You can talk to me on other subjects

And of trouble have no feare: With this advice to you my friend I close my little rhyme, Don't talk Convention in my presence At any future time Nay pull my hair, tramp on my toes, But I pray you do not mention The very current interrogation

"Are you going to the Convention?" Let me alone, nor torment my mind About the Conventions here, Conventions there,

And here and there Conventions. Bridgewater, Pa., March 15, 1873.

The crystal wedding of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Devore of Beaver, came off on Tuesday evening, the 25th, inst. A large number of friends assembled at their residence, to congratulate them on the happy event, and many presents of the crystal kind were given to the bride of fifteen years who looked almost as well as a bride fresh from the hymenial altar. Our boys would not care if weddings of this kind were more frequent, since they are fond of such favors as they received from Mr and Mrs. Devore.

Terrible Accident .- One last Mon day morning, about 111% o'clock, while the employees on the Butler Branch, at this place, were engaged in shifting cars, a little boy, about twelve years of age the son of Mr. Wm. Friend, of Butler township, jumped on an empty truck and in some way fell on the track, the wheels passing over his thighs, crushing them in a fearful manner. He was at once removed to the "Fair Exchange," kept by Mr. George Fair. Dr S Graham was summoned, and attended to the little sufferer. It is thought he is in a critical condition. When will people take warning, and keep their children at home, or at least, away from the depot ?- Butler Eagle.

Soldiers' Union .- At a recent meeting of the committee appointed to make preparation for organizing a permanent Soldiers' Union, to perpetuate the pleasant memories of the camp, the field and the bivouac, the following resolution was adopted?

Resolved. That a banquet be given in New Brighton on the universary of Lee's surrender, April 9th, and that all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors in the county be invited to attend; and that all who propose to participate. be requested to give immediate notice of their intention to the secretary either in person or by letter. Haif Alive.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific desease, they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure to their more robust and energetic fellow-heings. In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food every organ is starved, every function interrupted. Now, what does common sense saggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant was resorted to,) but radically and permanently. How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is entily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time in administering tem' porary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and an hour or two, to sink afterwards into a more

By the time a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until health in 10000, no to be the material of near and mascle, bone and nerve and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pab ulum with which they have heretofore been imperfeculy nourished.
