beds greet the eye. To the left is a long row of low buildings connected with the director general's bureau; to the right a similar row, for the police, &c.

At a single glance one saw the courtly and splendid of an ancient throne surrounded by quaint and innumerable carvings, decorations, insignia of the various empires, inscriptions of the many of races which obey the decrees of Kaiser.

For positions which they know it is impossible for them to secure, and the impression is, that whatever rules may be adopted, the party will quietly fall in when the so-called Reformers blow their bugle blast, and after securing all the nominations they can upon the ticket, will poll their vote solid with the individuals who luxuriate on Chestnut street, below Sixteenth.

THE VIENNA EXPOSITION.

Full accounts of the opening of the Universal Exposition at Vienna, Thursday, May 8th, 1873.

THE OPENING DAY.

Vienna was shrouded this morning, in cold, unfriendly skies, which did not contribute to the splendor of festival of peace.

THE GIANTIC EDIFICE.

The flags of all nations fluttered in the winds and mingled their colors in friendly contrast, our own, as seemed fit, considering recent events, Union down.

THE PEOPLES PARK OF VIENNA.

With the Central Park, New York; Compared with Central Park the Prater is less picturesque, being flat, although pleasantly diversified by wood and meadow—just now, it is true, beautifully fresh and green.

THE JUDICIARY.

It is generally understood that Hon. Edward M. Paxson, of the Court of Common Pleas, will receive the nomination for the Supreme Bench, in which case a prominent and eligible candidate for the position vacated by Judge Paxson will be found in the person of John Dolman, Esq., one of the most successful and careful members of the bar of Philadelphia.

UNCERTAIN.

The Democrats cannot yet make up their minds as to the best course to pursue during the coming campaign. None of their number have yet thought it proper to announce themselves as candidates for positions which they know it is impossible for them to secure.

GOING SOUTH.

The appointment of State Senator Wm. A. Wallace to the Vice Presidency of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is one which cannot fail to be of advantage to the enterprise.

DON'T BELIEVE THEM.

Republican voters must be careful how they swallow rumors that such and such a candidate has withdrawn from the field. There is scarcely a day passes that we do not hear that so and so has decided not to run, and yet, in every instance, we subsequently ascertain that the report has been placed in circulation simply to temporarily advance the interests of some one else.

ASPIRANTS.

Mr. A. A. Hauke's friends are laboring indefatigably for the man of their choice, and every Republican of the Eleventh Legislative district is by this time aware that he desires to go to Harrisburg next winter.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

The Republican State Convention Committee has decided that the next convention shall be held August 13, at Harrisburg. Two months will be ample time for the Commonwealth to select the delegates.
