JOSH BILLINGS ON BIRDS. The Blue Jay the Dandy Among Birds _A Game Bird-A Drummer Bird-The Woodcock-The Guinea Han and the Domestic Gosling-Birds of a Feather, etc.

THE BLUE JAY.

The blujay iz the dandy among birds, a feathered fop, a jackanapes by natur, and ov no use only tew steal korn and eat it on a rail. They are a mysterious bird, for I have seen them solitary and alone in the wooded wilderness, one hundred miles from enny sines ov civilization.

Az a means ov diet they are just about az luxuriant az a biled indigo bag would be, such az the wash wimmin use tew blue their clothes with.

The blujay haz no song—they kant sing even "From Greenland's Icy Mountains;" but I must sa that a flok ov them, flying aming the evegreens on a kold winter's morning are hi colored and eazy tew look

It iz hard work for me to say a hard word aginst the birds, but when I write their history it iz a duty i owe tew posterity not to lie.

The quail iz a game bird, about one size bigger than the robbin, and so sudden they hum when they fly. They hav no song, but whissell for mu-sit; the tune iz solitary and sad. They are shot on the wing, and a man msy be good in arithmetic, fust rate at parseing, and even be able tew preach acceptably, but if he ain't studdied quail on the wing, he might az well shoot at a sreak ov lightning in the sky az at a quail on the go.

Briled quail, properly supported with York Weekly. je ys, toast, and a champagne Charlie. is fast the most diffikult thing, in mi humble opinyun, to beat in the whole history of vittles and sumthing tew drink.

Jam no gourmand for i can eat bred and mik five days out of seven, and smak mi lips after i git thru, but if i am asked to eat briled quail by a friend, with judishoius, accompanyments, i blush at fust, then bow mi bed, and then smile sweet acquiescence—in other words, i always quail before such a request.

THE PATRIDGE. The patridge is also a game bird. Their game is tew drum on a long in the spring of the year, and keep both eyes open, watching the sportsmen.

az eazy to miss az a ghost iz. It is phun enuff to see the old bird.hide her yung brood when danger is near. This most be seen, it kant be described, and mike enny boddy beleave it. The patridge, grouse and pheasant are cousins and either one ov them straddle a grid ron natural enuff tew bay bin born

Take a couple of yung patridges and pot them down, and serve up with the right kind ov chorus, and they beat the ham sandwich yu buy on the Camden and Amboy Railroad 871/2 per cent.

I have eat theze lamentable Nu Jersey bam sandwich, and must sa that I prefer a couple ov bass wood chips, soaked in mustard water, and stuk together with Spalding's glue.

THE WOODKOK.

The woodkok iz one of them kind ov his wedding ferty years ago. birds who kan git up from the ground with about az much whizz, and about az bizzy az a firekracker, and fly away az kronked az a korkskrew.

They feed on low, wet lands, and only eat the most delikate things. They run their tungs down into the soft earth, and gather tender juices and tiny They hav a long, slender bill, and a

They are born annually about the 15th ov May, and never was known tew die

If a man should tell me he had saw a goose die a natral and squre death. I wouldn't believe him under oath after that, not even if he swore he had lied about seeing a goose die.

The goose are different in one respekt from the human family, who are sed tew grow weaker, but wiser; whareaz a goslin alwas grows tuffer and more phoolish.

I hav seen a goose that they sed was 93 years old last June, and he didn't look an hour older than one that was 17.

The goslin waddles when he walks, and paddles when he swims, but never dives, but only changes ends.

The food ov the goslin iz rye, corn, oats and barley, sweet apples, hasty pudding, and biled kabbage, cooked potatoze, raw meat, and turnips, stale bred, kold hash, and the buckwheat kakes that are left

They ain't so partiklar az sum pholks what they eat and won't git mad and quit. if they kan't hav wet toast and lam chops every morning for breaktast.

Af I waz a going tew keep borders, i wouldn't want enny better feeders than an old she goose and 12 goslins. If i kouldn't suit them i should konklude i had mistaken mi kalling. Roast goslin 12 good nourishment, if you kan git enufl ov it, but there ain't much waste meat on a goslin, after yu have got rid ov their feathers, and dug them out

I hav alwus notissed, when you pass yure plate up for sum more baked goslinat a hotel, the colored brother cums bak empty with plate, and tells you: "Mister, the roast gosling iz no more."—New
