FRIDAY, AUGUST 15, 1873. THE RADICAL :

Musterious Death .- On Tuesday afternoon the body of a man was discover. ed in the race just below the Cutlery Works, Beaver Falls. Life was extinct. hat blood was still oozing from an ugly wound in the center of the throat, which had evidently caused speedy death. The man is unknown, and all the circumstances connected with his death, are, at the present involved in mystery. The wound seems to have been caused by a blow which would appear difficult to be given in a suicide, but the place and hour would indicate that no murder could have been committed unseen. The deceased was evidently about thirty five years of age, and five feet eight inches in height. His festures and complexion indicate German descent. His hair and whiskers are sandy, hair short, chin whiskers and musuche bushy, eyes gray. On his left cheek is a small wart, on his left arm two scare: one appears like a scar caused by vaccin. ation, the other, in the muscle of the arm just below the elbow, was caused by a cut. Deceased was dressed in the garb of a jaborer, dark brown small stripe caseimere pantaloons, check woolen shirf. beavy twilled dark coat, heavy well worn calfeboes and cotton stockings. He had no bat when found. In his pocket was tound two door keys, two trunk keys and a smaller key, two dollars and seven cents in money, and a ring. The dates of the memorandum book run back several vents. Nothing as yet tends to identify him, and he appears to have been unnouced about the town. The Coroner, John Corbus, of New Brighton, has the body in charge and we have not yet heard the result of the inquest. Accident.-On Tuesday evening of 'ss week, at Mansfield, William Logan, a young man formerly residing near Rochester, but engaged as fireman at a stone cuarry on the Morganz | Farm, Washington county, met with a frightful death. He was returning home from Pittsburgh in the Evening Washington accomodation, and when the train was backed on the side track at Mansfield to fill the wa-

Bees.-This seems to be a good honey season. Mr. J. E. Moore, a successful apiarist, residing in Bridgewater, on May the 30th, of this year, placed sixteen boxes on one of his section hives, which by July the 4th were well filled with 10716 pounds of prime clover honey, stored in thirty-five days, or three pounds per day. Mr. Moore proudly challenges any one to and very little damaged. Mr. Grinder All the right, title, interest and claim of defend show a better record.

Mr. W. S. Barclay, of Beaver, save be jured. has taken, this season, 309 pounds of good honey from two hives of his bees, heride a swarm from each one, and he triumph antly asks, can any bee owner in the county beat this? to which we despond no; but we bee's of the opinion that there be bees which can.

Camp Meeting.-The Methodist camp meeting between Georgetown and Hooks town begins next Wednesday, the 20th inst. A hack at regular intervals will run from Georgetown to the camp ground The camp will be brilliantly illuminated with gas fresh from the bowels o the earth. The place is romantic, and Luare! Grove, near by, will afford delightful and shady retreats for those who msy wish retirement. A large number of persons are expected to be present during the meetings, and it is confidently hoped that many sonls may be saved.

The Managers of the Beaver County Agricultural Society are enterprising. They are improving the fair ground and buildings extensively. A new track is being made and two new buildings erected. This is as it should be. The county fair should be made the interesting event of the year, where the products of the farms, the skill of our citizens, as well as the inventions of genius and the creations | done in the very best manner. of art may be seen, and the progress of the various departments of human industry may be noted.
