THE DEMOCRACY.

The Democracy party on Wednesday of last week, at Wilkesbarre, nominated Hon. J. R. Ludlow, of Philadelphia, for Supreme Judge, and Frank M. Hutchinson, of Allegheny, for Treasurer, the former being at present Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Philadelphia, the latter connected with the Fort Wayne Railroad. This ticket is a respectable one, and personally the candidates are unexceptionable. The Convention re-adopted the Ohio Democratic retrograde platform, with the exception of the tariff plank. The candidates henceforth, represent not personal qualifications but principles, and are standard bearers of their party, with whom stands or falls the cause they uphold, as the issue may be favorable or otherwise. It is not probable that Democratic orators or papers will imitate the disastrous course of last Fall and wage another bitter and personal campaign. They have not forgotten their humiliating and crushing defeat so soon to repeat such folly. What sort of an issue then can they raise? The platform is an attempt to revive the past and to breath new life into the dry bones of the old States Rights Democracy of twenty years ago. The Nip Van Winkle Democracy has just been awakened from its long repose, and coming down from the mountains where no change occurs, into the valley of wonderful growth and development, does not quite understand the new order of things, and is out of all sorts with that modern progress that has made everything so strange, but it will learn a new lesson next October, viz: that the old questions that once divided the country are settled and new ones are demanding attention. The war established the fact that the Union is supreme over the States, and the doctrine of States Rights must be so interpreted as not to conflict with or impair the national supremacy; the Republican party extended the application of liberty to the black race and secured equal rights to all male citizens of whatever race or color. The national debt, being wisely managed, is now placed upon a sound basis for gradual extinguishment. American industry has been fostered, taxation reduced, internal improvements begun and carried forward, and others projected on a magnificent scale, and all difficulties with foreign nations adjusted. In regard to all these issues the Republican party has been faithful. The same spirit that prompted it to perform such noble work worthy of praise, animates it now and qualifies it to enter upon the discussion and settlement of new issues of great importance. The Democratic party casts its eyes backward, hankering after the flesh pots of Egypt, the Republican looks forward hoping for the fulfillment of the prophetic aspirations of the masses that labor may have its full reward, and all legalized wrongs against the well being of society be abolished. The questions that are uppermost in mind and discussion are such as relate to political economy or the elevation of the laboring class, and the Republican party is anxious to provide remedies for whatever in this respect needs curing. She advances towards the consummation slowly but with well considered steps. The Democracy finds fault, picks flaws, and grumbles, but proposes no practical measure of relief, and is without power or ideas. The people will not trust a party so helpless, having no sympathy with modern progress, no practical ability to manage public affairs, whose very name has become offensive to loyal citizens. What advantages has the Democratic party over the Republican that power should be entrusted to it? Does its past record inspire confidence? Is its negative character to be preferred? Is its total depravity a recommendation? Is its general tendency in the direction of more freedom and equality for the people? What are the means by which it can secure adequate legislation to carry out its plans? The party is hungry for power and the spoils of office, and it is an easy thing to make great promises, but quite a different one to fulfill those promises. Whoever leans upon the Democratic party for help, will find that the assistance rendered is but a broken reed. The Republican party has the power to execute its promises; it has made great ones heretofore and kept them to the letter; it never breaks a promise. The prosperity of the country today is due to the party in power, and why should it not be continued in power? No good reason can be given, and, therefore, no one can doubt the result of the elections this Fall.

COMMUNISTIC TENDENCIES.

There was a meeting of Grangers at Boston on Monday, at which J. C. Abbott, General Deputy of the National Grange, and Hon. Amasa Walker spoke on the great revolution going on in the country in regard to cheaper transportation and railroad monopolies. Mr. Abbott contended that the cost of freight and travel could be reduced to one-quarter of the present rates, and gave statistics of the earnings of different railroads to support the assertion. Mr. Walker thought that the only way to protect the business interests of the country, is through the interference of Congress. He spoke of three ways: first, by a general law fixing the rate of travel and freight on all the roads; second, to create new lines between the principal depots of transportation; and third, by purchasing all roads and placing them under government management, to be leased, which would open all roads to the public at the cheapest rate. This last plan was advised as most feasible. Among the industrial classes there is a growing tendency to favor communistic doctrines. The discussion of postal telegraphy and government management of railroads shows that communistic ideas are prevalent in the community, and in this respect a radical change is taking place in the education of the people. The old doctrine that the duties of government are exhausted in the protection of life and property seems to be yielding to one that requires governmental agency to develop and manage all large and common interests. Democracy refers everything to private enterprise, and by this means educates and develops a strong and independent race of people. Communism teaches the people to depend on the government and destroys independence of character. Let the people work out their own progress and the very effort will make them strong and self-reliant. It is possible, however, that the Government might run the railroads and telegraph cheaper than they are now managed, but having acquired so much additional power and patronage, what party without a revolution would be able to overthrow the party in power? Where would the end of this interference be? This tendency is dangerous, and the government should let alone all business that can be possibly transacted by the people in their private capacity. While governmental aid is a matter of necessity to accomplish a great national undertaking, the necessity may excuse the interference, but that interference or aid should stop as soon as the necessity ceases, and the people be left to work out results as they may. We do not think that the telegraph lines or railroads will pass into the Government's hands for some time yet.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Nor to give the idea too dramatic a turn, it seems as if the Democracy were determined to shake Speer. BUTLER is going to be Governor of Massachusetts, notwithstanding the opposition of the silk-stocking gentry. Where is Scott? Another letter from him to Butler would now be in order. SPEER was regarded as the rising man in the Democratic party in Pennsylvania until he got squelched at Wilkesbarre. Now he is the dearest Salary grabber in the county. Another evidence that honesty is the best policy. WOLF, of sudden conversion notoriety, is likely to be re-nominated by the Republicans of Union and Snyder for Assembly. He is certainly fortunate in having a constituency that adhere closely to party usage, regardless of the fitness and integrity of the candidate. MITCHELL, of Tioga, Chairman of Ways and Means Committee of the House last session, has been re-nominated by the Republicans of Tioga county, and will be the next Speaker of the House, unless Myers, of the adjoining county of Bradford, should also be a candidate, in which event McCormick, of Allegheny, may carry off the prize. The nomination of Hutchinson for State Treasurer by the Democratic State Convention is a virtual concession that Mackey will be elected, and that the Democrats intend to make their fight for the election of Supreme Judge. Ludlow is the strongest candidate they could have presented, and it is possible he may not be beaten over fifty thousand. The Democratic Governor, of Ohio thinks that the Republicans take a great deal better care of the rebels than the Northern soldiers, and is endeavoring to win, by such blandishments the support of the loyal soldiers who during the war he denounced as hirelings and mudsills. The effort he may as well forego. His language is that of a demagogue seeking office, and will injure rather than help his gubernatorial chances. The Democrats are quietly working to get control of the Senate next session. They expect to elect Nagle in Philadelphia, Dill in Union, defeat Anderson in Crawford, and carry the Montgomery and Schuylkill districts, thus insuring a majority in the next Senate. Considering the apathy existing in our ranks, it is no wonder they are encouraged to make the effort, and there is a possibility that they may succeed unless Republicans in the districts named are aroused and an active canvass be commenced at once. It is intimated that there will be an effort on the part of certain disaffected persons to defeat one or two of our candidates for Assembly. Mr. McKee, of Butler, and Mr. Cross, of Beaver, are named in this connection. We trust our friends will look after this not only in this county but throughout the district. They are both good men, and the honest, orderly citizens, especially the Republican citizens of this district cannot afford to have either defeated. The election of the State ticket is important, but if anything, the election of such men to the Legislature is more important. Friends be on your guard and report any evidence of treachery at once to the several county committees of the district. THE Democratic Senatorial Conference in the district composed of the counties of Union, Snyder, Perry and Northumberland, re-nominated A. H. Dill, which indicates a determined effort on the part of the Democracy to carry that Senatorial district. The Republicans have a majority of nearly if not quite one thousand in the district, and there should be no question as to the result; but Dill is very popular, having been elected three years ago in a district as largely Republican, and the Republicans have been quarrelling over the nomination until many are disposed to concede his election. He is a gentleman of ability and integrity and the Republicans must select a candidate of like character or they will not only invite but deserve defeat.

POLITICAL.

John M. Stehman has been elected chairman of the Lancaster Republican County Committee. —The Pittsburgh Commercial says: In the Western States the Democratic party pretends to be anti-monopoly; in Virginia its candidate for Governor was nominated in the railroad interest. The difference is accounted for by the fact that Virginia is believed to be Democratic, while in the Western States that party is in the minority. Wherever the party has the power it is on the monopoly side. —The Democrats of Juniata county on Monday placed in nomination the following ticket: State Senator—Dr. J. M. Crawford; Assembly—Jerome Hetrick; Sheriff—W. H. Krodel; Register and Recorder—John T. Metlin; Treasurer—Samuel Showers; County Commissioner—Alex. Crozier; Jury Commissioner—David Partner; Auditor—John Fitzgerald; Coroner—Joseph Middagh. —Politics appears to be mixed in the eastern coal regions. In Schuylkill county, there is a prospect of three local tickets—Republican, Democratic and Workingmen's, the last named put up by the miners. The Democrats are in further trouble because they have no county organ. The Pottsville Standard, which has hitherto occupied that position, is independent, repudiates the Ohio platform of the Straight-Outs, and has almost indicated an intention to bolt the regular nominations. —The Venango county Democratic Convention met at Franklin on Tuesday and made the following nominations: Assembly—A. J. Keenan; County Treasurer—Isaac M. Sowers; County Commissioner—A. J. Cowan; Coroner—Dr. S. G. Snowden; Jury Commissioner—J. E. Muse; County Auditor—M. S. Duffield. H. I. Beers, of Rouseville, and S. C. T. Dodd, of Franklin, were appointed delegates to the State Convention. John McKissock was selected as the chairman of the County Committee. —The Blair county Democratic Convention met in Hollidaysburg on Monday, and nominated the following ticket: Assembly—James Funk; Sheriff—John Rocket; Commissioner—Oliver Haggerty; Jury Commissioner—James McIntosh; Poor Director—Emmanuel Clapper; Auditor—Robert L. Holliday; Coroner—John Hickey. Thomas W. Jackson was elected Representative delegate to the State Convention, and S. M. Woodcock Chairman of the County Committee. The delegates to the State Convention were instructed to support Hon. James R. Ludlow for Supreme Judge. The Resolutions are of the usual kind, except that the salary grab was denounced. —How many have it in their thoughts that there are no less than seven political parties before the country? Yet so it is, and the names of these organizations are as follows: Republican, Democratic, Liberal, Labor Reform, Woman Suffrage, Temperance, and Farmers. Surely here is an opportunity for every "free and enlightened citizen" to suit himself with a set of political principles and to march to the polls with a congenial band of associates. Every question that can possibly be twisted into an issue, and some that cannot, has its place somewhere among these parties, with all its sides duly provided for. And yet it is not an era of special political activity. —A statement having been made by a writer in Harrisburg, signing himself Junius, in urging the repeal of the Local Option law, that liquor was furnished last winter by the Librarian of the Senate, at the public expense. Mr. Russell Errett, editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial, and Clerk of the Senate thus replies: So far from this being a "notorious fact," it is not a fact at all. There was no bar-room in the Senate chamber, last winter, in charge of the Senate Librarian or any one else, and no Senator partook of whiskey or brandy at the cost of the Commonwealth. Peremptory orders were given, at the opening of the session, by both Speaker and Clerk, to the Librarian, that liquor of all kinds should be excluded from the chambers, and the orders were strictly adhered to. —A dispatch from Pottsville on Monday says: Hon. William M. Randall was yesterday defeated in the Democratic Convention by a combination that was a perfect surprise, as a majority of the delegates had been instructed for him. His friends assert that money did it, which has created a bitter dissatisfaction among old-line Democrats of the district, believing, as they do, that it was procured by open and shameful corruption. There is a rumor on the streets that the friends of Senator Randall insist upon his being an independent candidate. O. P. Peckel, of Pottsville, was the nominee. Boyer, Egan and Foster are the candidates for the lower house. Commenting on this the Harrisburg Telegraph says: Our readers will learn from the Telegraphic dispatches from Schuylkill county, that the Democrats of that county have cheated each other in the nomination of their candidate for Senator. Mr. Randall alleges that a majority of the delegates were openly instructed to support him, and that he was utterly surprised when he was counted out. Mr. Randall is an ultra Democrat, and it makes little difference to the Republicans who represents that county, if a Democrat is to come; but we must confess that he deserves better treatment at the hands of the Democracy. He has labored hard and faithfully for the party.

Hampton Thompson is agent for Old Mother Noble's Remedies, an early medicine extensively used in England, and put up by Dr. E. P. Huyler, of New York, and sold by Mr. Thompson, a blind man, residing in New Brighton, corner of 3d and Laurel street. Give him a call. Still They Come to the Saddlery and Harness Bazaar, and the reason for it is that they get better work at lower prices than at any other place in the State, at A. McDonald's, three doors west of Mr. Creery's bank. Everything in the shape of Horse Clothing can be found. During the past few days I have frequently been asked the question, "Has the Agricultural Society done away with family tickets." I would say to those interested, that there has been no change in the family ticket system, but tickets may still be had at the old price, (one dollar) by calling upon H. Cooper, Treasurer of the Society. B. M. EWING, Sec'y. Boots and Shoes at Hertzog & Beam's, New Brighton. These gentlemen keep on hand a large assortment of goods in their trade and sell them at the most reasonable rates. They take delight in showing their boots and shoes, and are not afraid of comparing them as to quality, style and prices with those of any other store or manufactory. The machinery for carrying coal, mentioned in this paper some weeks ago, which is being built by J. R. Peters, of Dover, N. J., is about finished and in a few days may be seen in operation at the Peters' coal bank on the river side, a little ways above Georgetown. Mr. Peters was there himself on Monday, superintending the construction, but left the same day for home. Boots and shoes for ladies, gentlemen and children, at Hertzog & Beam, New Brighton. Court met in Washington county on last Monday week, but owing to the absence of Judge Acheson on account of ill health, very little business was transacted. Two cases for defrauding the Revenue by the illegal sale of liquor were disposed of in the usual way. After a session of two days, Court adjourned until September 15th. The road business will come up on September 19th. John Kennedy & Co., of Beaver Falls are doing a large business in the boot and shoe trade. Their wholesale trade, already large, is certainly increasing, and their facilities for manufacturing boots and shoes are such that they defy competition. They keep constantly on hand a splendid stock of gentlemen and ladies' wear of all styles, prices and sizes, also boys and girls' boots and shoes. Boots and shoes made from the very best material, and warranted to give satisfaction. Call and examine their stock, and leave your orders. The New Castle Gazette and Democrat of August 29th says: A news item is going the rounds of the press which states that Hon. Wm. McClelland has been elected editor of the South Side Herald of Pittsburgh. This statement, however, is erroneous, as the gentleman on whom this honor has been conferred, is a cousin of our ex-Congressman who rejoices in the name of James L. McClelland, is a young man of superior talents and is a graduate of Monmouth College, Illinois. List of Letters remaining in Beaver Post Office, September 1st, 1873: Mr. Henry J. Evans, Mrs. Cal. French, Mr. Wm. Grove, Mr. Wm. Gray, Mr. James M. Garvin, Miss Lillie Heckert, Mrs. Ina Hayford, Mr. Thos. Jameson, Mrs. Mary Linton, Joseph McKabe, Esq., Aaron Moore, Jr., Miss Lizzie Morrison, David McCague, Mary Phillips, Geo. W. Roberts, Miss Samantha Scholars, Mr. Frank Shuman, Miss Caroline Toy, Mr. Thos. Thompson. M. A. McGAFFICK, P. M. The Alliance Monitor of August 29th says: On last Sunday it was our privilege to hear a sermon by Rev. W. H. Locke, D. D., pastor of the M. E. Church of this city. The subject, "The Actual and Helpful Presence of the Master with His People and Church," was ably, eloquently and artistically handled. We thought as we listened to the sermon, "but must desire a religion, at once so partially of God and so manifestly attended with an abiding Presence in each earnest follower and an Almighty Protectorate in its cumulative whole. None of our other cities can boast more able or earnest Pulpit Teachers than our own Alliance." George Poe, of Green township, 83 years of age, about the first day of August of this year, in very hot weather, raked and bound and helped to stack the same, 63 dozen sheaves of oats, and experienced no harm from the labor. Poe is a son of Adam Poe, who, in the early days of this country, killed the celebrated man, Big Foot.
