A correspondent of Ziegler's Herald says: On the morning of August 21st one of our estimable neighbors, Mr. James Aiken, and two of his companions were surveying a new road through a portion of our hilly and mountainous country, nevertheless noted for its romantic and picturesque scenery, by the name of Slippery rock. They arrived at a chasm which heretofore seemed almost impossible for human skill to span so that it would answer the purpose of a highway, although there was a foot-path, or rather a foot-log across it, with railing on each side to prevent accident. The width of the chasm was 50 feet, and standing on the log you could look down 150 feet, the sides being covered with rocks and stumps of pine trees scattered here and there and occasionally a large rock jutting out from the side. The foot path had not been in use for a number of years and our friend with that adventurous spirit peculiar to the inhabitants of Butler county, proposed an examination of the bridge or foot-path to see how much of it was solid and fit for further use. Mr. Aiken walked out on the log about 30 feet, when a cry from one of his companions startled him. On looking around he saw a sight that froze his blood and made "each particular hair stand on end." The end of the narrow bridge from which he started, had parted from its fastenings and was swinging in mid-air. The other end of the path had crumbled away. Fully realizing the peril of his position he attempted to return, but at that instant the timbers parted with a crash and Mr. Aiken with presence of mind almost unequalled, sprang into the air attempting to alight fifteen feet below on one of the projecting rocks. He accomplished it, but rebounding from these he fell 40 feet further with nothing to break the fall except a few pine branches, and alighting on another rock. From there he went crashing through the limbs of a sapling endeavoring vainly to clutch them in his descent. He still fell from point to point until he reached the bottom fully 125 feet from the bridge above. He lay insensible and to all appearance dead. His horrified companions hastily aroused the neighbors and by means of ropes they descended the side of the chasm. After resorting to the usual restoratives he became sufficiently restored to talk. They brought him to the top and after a careful examination, strange to say, not a bone was broken or a mark found on him. At last accounts he was walking around and still continues to count one in the census.

We are informed by Frank Miller of New Lisbon, Ohio, that R. H. Dawson, formerly of Ohioville, but now residing in Lewisville, Puttawatomie county Kansas, is a Republican candidate for Recorder, and is likely to receive the nomination, which is in that county equivalent to an election. Mr. Dawson is a young man of good character, smart, energetic, and his many friends will be glad to hear of his success.

Undeveloped Vigor. The feeble and debilitated usually fancy they are in a more hopeless condition than they really are. The resources of nature are not easily exhausted. Even when strength and appetite fail, when the eyes are heavy and lustreless, the complexion pallid, the nerves tremulous, the body attenuated, and the mind depressed, there is generally a reserve of latent power behind such palpable evidences of weakness. Various modes of treatment are resorted to by physicians in the hope of developing and rendering available this store of sleeping vitality, but the surest, and in fact the only thoroughly safe and reliable means of awakening the dormant energies of the system is a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Electrically, showy baths, the flesh brush, sea bathing, &c., may be well enough in their way, as auxiliaries, but they do not reach the source of the evil. All physical debility proceeds either from a derangement of the functions of the assimilating, a creative and vital force, or from a sluggish constitution. In either case, and also in cases where no disease exists, the Bitters will invariably produce an immediate and salutary change in the condition of the patient, and eventually effect a complete cure. None of the dangerous alkali salts, so often administered as tonics, can be otherwise than deleterious under such circumstances, in so far as they give merely a positive and false effect of the liver at vegetable specific. The most infallible in its action, a more cheerful frame of mind, a grateful return of strength, an increase of flesh, and a healthier complexion. Meanwhile, however, the constitution, if inert and feeble, will have been ruined and renovated by the subtle elements of investigation contained in the Bitters.

A Telegram received by M. & S. H. D. Wright, on Wednesday, states that the old town of Antwerp, Butler county, is being raised to the ground. The well near the town, owned by the Messrs. Darragh, was saved but no further particulars were given.

Prof. J. Ebert, from Pittsburgh, will take charge of the Musical Department in Beaver Seminary. The Professor well known as one of our best musicians that we deem it not necessary to state his pedigree, or else we might trace his Stamm-taum de musique back to the golden age, claiming Apollo himself as a maestro of one of his ancestors. The Prof. numbers among his pupils more than one, who now excel in their profession, and even his conferees gather around him for instruction. We hope that many of our young people will avail themselves of this opportunity to become really thorough musicians.
