

pulsion of Napoleon from the throne of France, aided by the earnest entreaties of his family and friends, could not induce Bertrand to abandon a man, who had received his oaths, and to whom he appeared to have consecrated his life. He embarked with him in the Bellerophon, and accompanied him to the Island of St. Helena. A letter from him to the Duke of Fitz James, his brother in law, has explained the reasons for the judgment which condemned him to death par contumace. Every person must allow however that few since the revolution have sustained a military character more honorable than Count Bertrand. There is, even in his devotion to a man detached from such high honors, something more heroic perhaps, than if the same feeling had been dedicated to a prince born to the throne. His wife accompanied him in both exiles, and evinced an attachment worthy of the love of her husband.

Since the death of Napoleon, he has returned to France, and has been relieved from his outlawry; and recovered all his honors and titles. His illustrious friend has munificently remembered him in his will, a just recompense for fidelity almost without example; but by an almost inconceivable fatality, M. Lafite, a man of honesty, and on the right side, has contested the will. Count Bertrand has been in London for the purpose of procuring the necessary documents to establish his claim.

INSURRECTION OF THE BLACKS.

We understand that letters have been received in town from Charleston, S. C. which state that an insurrection of the negroes had been planned in that place, but was happily frustrated by the detection of the plot about three days before the period fixed for its accomplishment. About twenty negroes have been arrested, three of which were servants in the family of Governor Bennett, and were to have been his murderers. The eldest of them was to have been the principal chief and leader when the government of the whites should be overthrown; and as a reward for destroying his master, he was to receive in marriage the Governor's daughter, a young lady about sixteen years of age.

It is said, on what authority we know not, that the negroes were induced to undertake the project from hearing repeated and unguarded expressions of an eminent Judge, who is reported to have said that a negro had been illegally executed; and these ignorant and deluded wretches, it seems, have thought proper to take the administration of justice into their own hands. *N. NOVEL AND WORTHY OF IMITATION.

Agreeably to arrangements made at a public union prayer meeting, at Sutton, Massachusetts, for the religious celebration of the approaching anniversary of our independence, the day will be celebrated at Worcester, with out distinction of party. A collation will be furnished, unaccompanied with ardent spirits and wine.

Accident.

We learn that a Mrs. Trumphoar of Lansanne township, Northampton county, near the Beaver Meadows, was lately shot under the following circumstances. Some of her children discovered a Rattlesnake in the bushes near the house, but in such a situation that it could not be got at with a stick. Mrs. Trumphoar got a rifle from the house for the purpose of shooting the snake; but by this time it had changed its situation so as to enable her to get at it with a stick; she laid the gun across a log and killed the snake; and in attempting to take up the gun, she caught it by the muzzle and drew it towards her, when the lock was caught either by the log or a bush, and the ball passed completely through her body. She then sent her two eldest children after her brother, and returned into the house, when she took up her infant about 8 weeks old, sat down in the cradle and suckled her child. In about two hours her brother arrived, and found her still sitting in the cradle with the child in her arms, and two of her other children engaged in wiping away the blood from the wounds in her sides. She appeared to be quite sensible, and told her brother that she should die in three hours from that time, and that in three years he would die by a similar accident. She did die in three hours; but whether her prediction respecting her brother will be fulfilled or not, time only can disclose.

by captain Chazal, that the squadron, formerly under command of Atury, consisting of nine sail, three of them heavy brigs, together with the inhabitants of Old Providence, had requested and were received under the banners of the Colombian government; a deputation had left Carthagena the day before his sailing to receive them in form, when the squadron would sail for La Guayra; was also informed that the schooner Harriet, Baker, of Philadelphia, had put into Carthagena, having been robbed of her cargo and provisions by a Spanish privateer from St. Jago de Cuba.

New York, July 7.

LATEST FROM LONDON.

By the Alcipe, the editors of the Gazette have received the times of Monday the 20th of May, which, containing nothing but the following, proves its barrenness:

London, May 20.

French papers of Thursday arrived in the course of yesterday. They contain nothing worth extracting. The pope is said, in a letter from Rome of the 21st of April, to be in a very declining state of health. He fell from mere weakness in entering his chamber, after holding the last consistory. From the uncertain state of the negotiations between Turkey and Russia, the diplomatic communications between St. Petersburg and Paris are watched with anxiety. All the papers announce that Wednesday an extraordinary courier arrived from St. Petersburg with despatches for Mr. Pozzo di Borgo.

Since writing the above, French papers of Friday have arrived. The elections for renewing the chamber of deputies by a fifth are now proceeding with great activity, and absorbing every other interest in France. From the organization of the electoral college of Paris, we have reason to infer that the left side will obtain the ascendant. Among the candidates is M. Fernaux, the great manufacturer, a man whose conduct is as moderate as his principles are liberal. Paris being the residence of the agents of government, and consequently the focus of ministerial influence, the result of its elections, if favorable to the liberal party, may be regarded as pretty decisive of the general feeling of France on the late proceedings of the executive.

A singular occurrence took place on the evening of the 4th inst. at one of the public gardens in this city. A young woman decently dressed, but apparently feeble, was sitting in one of the alcoves, with an infant in her arms. Near her was a young gentleman, a foreigner, to whom the young lady addressed herself and begged him to hold her child for a moment, until she had adjusted some part of her dress. He was too polite not to yield to her request. In a moment she disappeared in the crowd, and could not afterwards be found. The young gentleman was left with a sleeping infant in his arms, surrounded by his jeering companions, and was perhaps the only person present who could not raise a smile at witnessing his early and unwelcome paternity. *N. NAVAL.

Boston, June 27th.

A new and extensive ship house has been erected at the navy yard, for the purpose of containing within its spacious area, a new line of battle ship, the ribs of which are now preparing. The house is to have large and commodious work shops on both wings, for the accommodation of the carpenters and all descriptions of mechanics. The building is about 80 feet high, and covers 7-8 of an acre of ground. The frame contains more than 4500 different pieces of timber and joists, and it probably has one of the most capacious interior of any edifice in the union. It is calculated that the roof will require more than a million of shingles to cover it.

ACCIDENTS.

On Monday evening last a colored man in this town, discharged a gun loaded with two balls, at a dog; but unfortunately one of the balls struck the wrist, the other the hand of Mr. Richard Covert, who happened to be in the same direction in which the gun was fired. One of the balls has been extracted, and the other yet remains in the hand near the thumb joint.

We also learn that Mrs. McCarty of Nescopack, was lately shot in the arm by the carelessness of some persons who were shooting at a mark. We understand that the wound is not dangerous.

When will proper care be taken by those who are in the habit of using fire arms. Democrat.

We have seen a letter, says the New York Gazette, from an officer dated on board the U. S. Macedonian, Cape Haytien, on the 17th ult. which says:—

"Previous to sailing from Havana, we were unfortunate enough to lose Mr. J. M. Clements, our lieutenant of Marines, and eight or ten of the crew, by the fever. Lieut. C. was really an ornament to the corps.

Extracts from late English papers.

Mr. Charbert, the proprietor of the exhibition of the wild Indian chief, in New Bond street, London, while examining one of the poisoned arrows lately, the point touched his chin, and inflicted a slight scratch, which turned his face black, and caused it to swell. Medical aid was called, but the poison baffled the skill of all medicine. At length the Indian who had watched the effect of the medicine, produced some root and applied it to his keeper's face, and it afforded immediate relief. Mr. C. has caused the arrows to be divested of all their poison.

The London papers mention the late discovery of several antiquities in the neighborhood of Geneva. A person in the act of leveling his garden discovered at the depth of about a foot, a wall of stones and red bricks. In this wall there was found a vase or pot of copper, containing many articles of silver and gold, such as ladies' bracelets, necklaces and rings. Among the coins was one of bronze of Julia Domna, the wife of Septimus Severus, surrounded by a circle of worked silver, and attached by a silver ring to a silver thread bent circularly, so that it might be suspended as an earring or other ornament. The vase also contained 216 coins of Roman emperors, three of which are gold, twelve or thirteen of bronze, and about 200 of silver. Hellogabalus, Alexander Severus, Papius Maximus, Gordian III.; Philip the father and Philip the son, Octavia Severus, Decius, Tacbonius Galius, Volusian and Valerian the father. The coin representing Galba, struck under the reign of this emperor in the 68th year of our era, though he reigned only 7 months, is in perfect preservation. These coins serve to determine the time when they were buried. The last emperor whom they represent is Valerian, who ascended the throne at the end of the year 253 of our era.

EARTHQUAKES.

Capt. Telf, from Salt-creek, Spanish Maine (lat. 10 n.) reports that several severe earthquakes were experienced in that quarter, between the 10th and 19th of May. At Charges several persons were killed, and the inhabitants had all fled from the town.

George P. Moyer has been sentenced to the State-prison, for life, for robbing the Utica Bank.

INTEMPERANCE.

It was stated in the annual report of a Society at Portland, some years ago, that out of 85 Persons, in the workhouse of that town, 71 were reduced to that condition by Intemperance.

PIRACY.

It would appear, notwithstanding the activity and exertions of our brave tars in the West India seas, that it has been impossible, up to this time to suppress piracy entirely in that quarter. The fact is, we presume, that those very pirates are, themselves, good seamen; and, being well experienced in navigation, are enabled to elude the chase of most of our vessels of war.

These pests of commerce and navigation can only be eradicated from their positions by time and perseverance. It is the best way to dispose of a portion of our little navy, to let a squadron cruise among the islands and down along the Spanish main. The pirates will, at last, become tired of a constant war, and, getting "more kicks than coppers," may turn to some other employment. F. Gaz.

From the Harrisburgh Oracle, July 6.

We are sorry to learn that the distressing malady of the dysentery is prevailing to an alarming degree in Hanover in this county. A number of deaths especially among children have taken place in that neighborhood within the last two weeks.

We hear, says the Boston Palladium, that the officers of the Ann & Hope, spoken at sea, and who appear to have left Lintin about 22d Feb. reported that the British vessels had left that place. No settlement had been made with the Chinese.

ORGANIC REMAINS.

An immense skeleton of the mammoth, and another of an elephant, have been dug up in the district of Hunter, in Hungary.

We understand that the new machinery for raising water by WATER POWER at Fair Mount, was put into operation on Thursday morning last, with a result highly satisfactory. The pump making twelve strokes per minute and delivering the water at that rate into the reservoir. Aurora.

The bill restoring the Roman Catholic peers to the full enjoyment of their dignities and privileges has passed the house of Commons, and was ordered to be read the first time in the house of Lords on the 22d May.

The Chamber of deputies of Baden, viewing the distresses of their country as principally owing to the introduction of foreign merchandize, have proposed that all French Prussian, Holland and English productions shall be prohibited from entering the territory.

The Reading Chronicle states that another skeleton has been disinterred by the canal diggers, near those found a short time since together with some trinkets and an amalgamated sort of coin, which bears a Latin inscription, in some places tolerably legible. A glass phial was also found.

SLEEP.—When the Jesuits settled the plan of education in the College of Clermont, the physicians were consulted on the portion of time which the Students would be allowed for sleep. They declared, that five hours were sufficient, six an abundant allowance, and seven as much as a youthful constitution could bear without injury.
