

Before the election they certainly would make a great deal of joking about my name, and they would be guessing whether it should be spelt Macarty or M'Cartey or M'Carthy. I dare say they would have as much to say about my name and about the spelling of it as they have to say about Mr. Shuize's. This however would be all before the election. After the election they would all be mighty civil and so would I. I would not be outdone by them in civility, but they might whistle for offices, and so they may under Governor Shuize and that's what makes them so mad.

DENNIS M' CARTY.

HERE AGAIN!

From the Carlisle Volunteer.

Messrs. Underwood's,—Seeing by the public papers, that I was appointed, without my knowledge or consent, one of the committee of correspondence, by the "Democratic convention of naturalized Irishmen," held at the house of Mr. Dennis Brady, in the borough of Harrisburg, on Saturday the 24th of May: I therefore inform my friends, that they shall no longer consider me as one of said committee.

CORMIC M' MANUS.

*This is the same meeting that appointed Mr. MENN of this place, one of their corresponding committee.

From the Harrisburg Intelligencer.

The meeting at Mr. Wenrich's, on Wednesday evening, was truly "large and respectable," in the fashionable phrase. We were pleased to see so many of our country friends in attendance. It argues well for the democratic cause. The spirit of old genuine democracy is alive in this county; and the million of debt, contracted by the present administration, is a sufficient foretaste of federal policy, to rouse the feelings of the lovers of economy, into a determination to put a stop to extravagance, and if possible, avert the bitter curse of taxation.

There is at least one letter in this City from Paris, which positively state that the French army had made three attacks on St. Sebastian, and were every time repulsed, with loss, by the Spaniards.

LATEST FROM FRANCE.

The ship Othello, in thirty days from Bordeaux, has arrived at New York. John Forsyth, Esq. late American minister at Madrid, and his family, came passengers in the Othello. From the editors of the New York Gazette we received the annexed extracts from Bordeaux papers to the 26th of April. Mr. Forsyth will take up his summer residence in this city, or its vicinity. He brings information, "that the French Army had entered Logrono, on their march to Pampeluna. The Duke of Anguleme had crossed the Ebro, on his way to Madrid. The inhabitants abandoned their homes on the approach of the invaders, and no attempts had been made to check their progress. The duchess of Angouleme had entered Bordeaux. She was received by the loyal subjects of king Louis with the greatest enthusiasm. The chamber of deputies had still under discussion the project of the law relative to the finances. Mr. Franck, charge d'affaires from the court of Austria, arrived at Toulouse on the 20th of April, from Madrid, on his way to Paris. He left that city on the 8th, at which time all was tranquil, but on his journey he found the Spaniards making preparations to receive the French army. A young man, a Spaniard by birth, has been condemned at Toulouse to nine years imprisonment, for exciting the French soldiers to desert. A Spanish vessel loaded with grain for St. Sebastian, was carried into Port Du Passage, and an order has been received to take an account of the quantity, and pay for it. Vessels were daily at Bayonne with provisions for the troops and fodder for the horses, and were ordered for Bilbao."

A courier has just arrived from Madrid. The entry of the French was not known when he left that. Great exertions were making by those concerned in the revolution to organize a system of defence; the organization of new militia, conscriptions, and other projects more easily formed than executed, were in agitation.

The Madrid journal states that the royalist general Morales has been taken in an action at Corneja.

Bayonne, April 15.

Pampaluna is closely besieged. Both corps of the army will reach the Ebro on the same day. The advance guard of our army passed the famous files of Salinas without opposition; they are 12 mile from Vittoria, where the head quarters of the Prince are to be established on the 17. Balasteros abandoned the defiles of Salinas, and has retreated to Tudela.

THE GREEKS.

In the Ionian Sea a terrible earthquake ent took place between an Ottoman brig of war from Constantinople bound to Patras, and seven Grecian brigs of war. The Oriental Spectator gives the following description of it. "We have seen here persons who were witnesses of this combat, which covers the Turkish commander with glory. He heroically contended with forces so very unequal. The seven Grecian brigs, some of which were more than a match for the Ottoman vessel, did not dare to approach it during the engagement; at length they sent up a fireship, which succeeded in setting fire to the mainmast. Then the Turkish captain, by an excessively prompt and skillful manoeuvre, cut away and cast into the sea the mast about to take fire, and got safely into Ithaca."

MURDER & SUICIDE.

Extract of a letter from Dr. Poleg Clarke to his friend in Providence, dated Coventry, Rhode Island, May 26th 1823.

I was yesterday called to witness one of the most horrid sights I ever beheld. At half past 12 o'clock, I was requested to go RICHMOND REMINGTON, by one of his sons, in great haste; he said his father had killed his mother and himself. I repaired immediately to the house, about a quarter of a mile off, and on entering the house, found Mrs. Remington lying on the floor with her face downwards, and covered with blood. I discovered a depression upon the back part of her head, and found upon examination her head broken in. There were no signs of life remaining. About a few feet from her, was her husband sitting in a chair with his chin resting upon his breast covered with his blood. I raised up his head and beheld the fatal stab on the left side of the windpipe, immediately over the carotid, or large artery of the neck, which I have no doubt was divided. A court of inquest was held, which returned a verdict of willful murder by Remington on his wife, and suicide on himself."

COUNTERFEITS.—We are sorry to say, there are Counterfeit $5 notes of the BANK OF GETTYSBURG in circulation. We have seen one, which is payable to J. KERR, dated Nov. 1, 1821, and tolerably well executed. The following are the most obvious particulars in which the genuine and counterfeit notes differ:

On the right hand, upper corner of the Note, around the word "Five," there are a number of small rings, which in the spurious notes are single, and in the genuine are double, that is one within the other. In the vignette of the genuine Note, the swingle tree touches the tail of the horse, and in the counterfeit, there is a considerable space between them. The work around the figure V. on the left hand upper corner of the spurious note, is much lighter than that of the genuine; and the name of the President is spelt M'Conoughy instead of M'Conaughy.

MARRIED.—On Thursday the 5th inst. by the Rev. JAMES LINS, MR. ENOCH PASSMORE to Miss REBECCA EVANS, both of this county.
